HOOVER DESERTION STUNS DRYS

Today

Japan Can Swim.
Why Gen. Wood Travels.
A Useful Loan.
Housekeepers Paradise.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 12.

THREE DAYS more of Olympic Games after tonight.

Today the 14-year-old Japanese schoolboy, Kitamura, showed western people how to swim. "Buster" Crabbe of the United States, who won the 400-meter championship yesterday, and Jean Taris, of France, wondered which of the two would win the first heat of the 1,500-meter event. Kitamura ended their wondering by swimming ahead like a seal, leaving them to fight for second place.

NATIONAL PRIDE was soothed by Miss Lenore Kight, American girl who established a new Olympic record, winning the third heat of the 400-meter free-style championship, and Miss Helene Madison, of Seattle, probably the best woman swimmer in the world.

It is a pleasure to see how Miss Madison puts on speed when Miss Marie Philipsen-Braun, of Holland, or some other lady tries to overtake her.

You may say that everything important is in the head and that physical achievements don't mean much. But whatever they mean, the United States has it.

ADD TO THE list of important and intelligent people now in California, Gen. R. E. Wood, now traveling through this western country by airplane. Gen. Wood, a West Pointer, was for several years, in charge of government work on the Panama Canal. Now, he is president of Sears, Roebuck, and has been visiting his distributing departments and retail stores throughout the West.

His answer to the question, "Are you studying and correcting mistaken methods in your branch offices?" should interest businessmen. Said he:

"No, I am not looking for weakness in our branches. I am finding out by visiting these branches what is the matter with us at headquarters. If any part of a man's body doesn't work well, you know something is wrong in his head. If branches in a big organization don't work well, that shows something wrong, not with the branches, but their headquarters. By visiting our branches I find what is the matter with my own methods, and with headquarters generally."

LAST NIGHT President Hoover was formally notified of his nomination and today you will read his hopeful answer to the notification committee. Wall street and the grain market did not wait for the official notification and arranged something on their own account that has brought cheer to many.

THE PRESIDENT might celebrate the notification admirably by urging those in charge of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to grant to Los Angeles, and twelve other cities that make up this water district, a loan for construction of an aqueduct from Hoover Dam to Los Angeles and the other twelve cities.

This loan would put 10,000 men to work immediately, here, and give work to thousands of others in factories all over the country. It would be difficult to imagine any better use of public money than building this great aqueduct, and no loan could be safer.

Mr. John G. Bullock, member of the water district board of directors, composed of unselfish citizens giving their time without compensation, has prepared an itemized list, which has been sent to Washington, of materials that would be purchased, engineers, laborers and mechanics that would be employed, if this loan were made.

THIS WRITING follows a swift return trip to the writer's alfalfa ranch at Hodge on the Mojave Desert, 124 miles to the east and two thousand feet up in the air. Farmers may be comforted by news that the finest quality of baled alfalfa hay, with blue flowers still in the hay and not a weed, in a carload, sells f. o. b. Hodge for $8 per ton. Under irrigation 1,000,000 pounds of water are required to grow a ton of alfalfa and much electricity to pump the water, so that alfalfa growing just now is profitable for everybody but the grower.

GENERAL CONDITIONS and the fact that Los Angeles dairymen have been having a "milk war," cutting the price to three cents a quart, have not improved the farmers' lot.

You can buy good hay, a little coarser in the Imperial Valley, for $5 a ton. Trucks and trailers that haul the hay run day and night, two men on each truck, one sleeps while the other drives. Both work, loading and unloading. One man remarked cheerfully that he had not had his shoes off in 10 days. Men work for a living in these times. Many would be glad to work for their board, here, as in many other states. You can hire "servant girls" in Los Angeles for $5 a month and board. This is not a place to come looking for a job at high wages.

COMING WEST, passing the biggest pea canning factory in the world, just east of Ogden, Utah, you learn that ordinary workers formerly paid sixty and seventy cents an hour now get eighteen cents an hour, $1.80 for a ten hour day. Skilled mechanics get twenty-two cents an hour.

DON'T COME here looking for work, but if you have a small income and want to live economically, this is the place.

On the way to Hodge you see "two large cantaloupes for 5 cents." You buy two pounds of

VOLPE 'PAL' HELD CZAR OF GANG

Slain Bazzano Termed 'Boss' of Rackets; Spinelli Hunted

Pittsburgh's underworld war, predicted when the three racketeering Volpe brothers were murdered two weeks ago, was off to an exciting start today.

Homicide detectives, searching for the slayers of the Volpes, now had to keep one eye open for the knifemen who slaughtered the mysterious John Bazzano in the vice-ridden Red Hook section of Brooklyn, N. Y.

And the trigger man who detectives say they believed might have "been in" on both jobs was "Little Joe" Spinelli, hunted for a year in connection with two other murders.

VOLPES TOOK ORDERS

Bazzano was regarded by detectives as not only a partner of the Volpes but as their silent boss. They used his Wylie avenue coffee shop, in which they were murdered, as their headquarters, but they took orders from him, the detectives now say.

He shunned the limelight which the Volpes stepped into, but he gathered in the huge profits of the booze and yeast rackets, according to the detectives.

Spinelli is the man the detectives are hunting today. They said he visited the costly Bazzano home in Mt. Lebanon as recently as last Saturday.

Police in Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland and New York, where Little Joe is known to hide out, were asked to search for him. He is also wanted in connection with the murders of Jack Palmere and Toto Argenti, racketeers who were bumped off last year.

BAZZANO REAL BOSS

If Spinelli was connected with the Bazzano slaying then the real leader of the Pittsburgh rackets was disposed of, according to Lieut. Frank Ferris, of the Homicide Squad, who said:

"The Volpe brothers were over-rated. They weren't the kings of the racketeers at all. Bazzano was the real boss in Pittsburgh. But he let the Volpes have the publicity."

But in the Bazzano home in Mt. Lebanon, that description of the

The youthful aviator's speedy craft became the first entry in the 100-mile Thompson trophy race, premier air speed dash of the year, and in the Bendix cross-country speed derby from Los Angelec to Cleveland. Suicide Held Disclosed by Clarke Skull

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 12.—(AP.)—Using the bullet-pierced skull of Haden Clarke and the pistol that ended his life to illustrate his testimony, Arthur H. Hamilton, criminologist of Auburn, N. Y., told a jury today he was "absolutely convinced," Clarke committed suicide.

"There is not a scintilla of evidence here to show that Clarke was murdered," Hamilton testified as a defense witness in the trial of Capt. W. N. Lancaster, British aviator, charged with the young writer's murder.

Clarke was shot to death at the home of Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller, Australian aviatrix, to whose affections he had succeeded Lancaster.

Hamilton's decisively expressed opinion climaxed a morning of testimony in which he pointed out various characteristics of suicide. Each of them he demonstrated on the skull or with the pistol.

Suicide is indicated in cases where a pistol is held closely to the head in sealed contact, he said.

Taking Clarke's skull in his hands, Hamilton stepped down before the jury to describe the characteristics of the bullet holes.

Eventually he passed the skull to each of the talismen.

Mrs. Keith-Miller was not in the courtroom when the skull was shown. Neither was Mrs. Ida Clyde Clarke, mother of the dead man.

MAN STABBED WITH ICE PICK

Beaten with a hammer and then stabbed with an ice pick, Peter Bubanowich, 35, of 4745 Butler street, was in West Penn Hospital today in a critical condition.

Police questioned him at the hospital and were told, they said:

"I came into my house through the back door and was standing beside the sink when a man with a towel over his face entered the room.

"He called me a name, hit me with a hammer on the back of the head, grabbed my ice pick and stabbed me in the throat and breast. I went upstairs to the bathroom and washed the blood off, but I couldn't get it stopped."

Bubanowich's living quarters had been completely ransacked. At the hospital it was said $150 had been found in his pockets.

Detectives, however, believed the man may have been a victim of a small-time racket feud.

They said Bubanowich had been released from the county jail Saturday after serving three months on a federal prohibition charge.

A few minutes after he had been sentenced to jail in May, he tried to leap from a third floor window of the Postoffice Building.

Woman Collapses While in Store

'Shooting Stars' Visible Despite Cloudy Sky

Although the sky was cloudy, more than 100 Perseid shooting stars were recorded last night in a period of four hours by a group of amateur astronomers at the Allegheny Observatory.

Leo J. Scanlon, secretary of the astronomy section of the Pittsburgh Academy of Science and Art, said today:

"The sky was very cloudy last night. However, the observers recorded more than 100 stars in four hours. If more favorable conditions prevail we should see more of the stars tonight."

Evidence of popular interest in the shooting stars was indicated by many telephone calls at the observatory last night. Dr. William R. Ludewig, staff member of the observatory said.

"Each of the astronomers watched a part of the sky with a recorder to mark the time, speed and direction of each shooting star. The records will be filed at the Flower Observatory at Upper Darby."

BENN'S CASH NEW TARGET OF PINCHOT

$650,000 Banked While On P. S. C., Asserts Governor

HARRISBURG, Aug. 12.—(AP.)—Gov. Pinchot, who is urging the State Senate to investigate the relations of Public Service Commission members with public utilities during the last 10 years, today charged that James S. Benn, of Philadelphia, who resigned last year, deposited $650,000 in banks during 10 years service on the commission.

Benn's salary during this period, the Governor said in his statement, was $100,000.

CITES HUGE DEPOSITS

Within three of the 10 years, the Governor said, Benn deposited $375,000 which he said is more than twice as much as he alleged former Chairman W. D. B. Ainey "is known to have deposited in five years."

Ainey resigned from the Commission recently as the Senate was about to investigate the Governor's charges that he had accepted favors from public utilities.

Benn resigned May 13, 1931.

URGES SPEEDY PROBE

Gov. Pinchot appeared before the Senate Wednesday and urged an immediate investigation of the commission. Yesterday a resolution providing for the investigation was presented by State Senator Frank Harris, of Allegheny.

The Governor said:

"Mr. Benn is now abroad where he went with Charles H. English, the leading figure among public utility men in Northwestern Pennsylvania, immediately after the Ainey charges were made public."

Walker Denies Profit In Bus Franchise Case

Roosevelt Decision to Await Court Rule On Authority

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER, ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 12.—(AP.)—Resuming his role as witness in an executive hearing of ouster charges, Mayor James J. Walker today disclaimed any financial benefit from the granting of the franchise to the Equitable Bus Company and disputed the testimony of Park Commissioner Walter R. Herrick that he had bought for the Mayor 300 shares of stock, later used as collateral on a loan by Equitable officials.

Shortly after the morning session adjourned, Gov. Roosevelt announced that he would hold up his decision on the Walker removal demand until after question of his removal powers went to the courts.

The Governor stated he would not pass upon the Mayor's case until the Supreme Court had had an opportunity to determine the legality of a writ of prohibition, demanded by George Donnelly, secretary of the Bronx Chamber of Commerce.

DELAY ON RULING SEEN

The Supreme Court does not meet until August 19. This brought the possibility the Roosevelt decision may be delayed until after the November election.

Donnelly, rebuffed in three courts, today obtained from Jus-

PRESIDENT FOR STATE CONTROL

Saloon Return Opposed In Speech Accepting Renomination

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12. —President Hoover is now convinced that the "noble experiment" has failed and he is willing to espouse a change in the prohibition set-up that will return the liquor problem to the states—with federal safeguards against the return of the saloon and legal safeguards for those states which prefer to remain dry.

He made this clear in his speech last night accepting the re-nomination for the Presidency—a speech which left the professional drys gasping for breath, and which constituted an olive branch to the Republican wets who have been talking mutiny.

GOES BEYOND PLATFORM

Mr. Hoover went further than the Republican platform in advocating prohibition. The platform merely proposed that prohibition be re-submitted to the people for an expression of opinion, without party recommendation as to repeal or retention.

But Mr. Hoover went further. He said it was his conviction that in order "to remedy evils a change is necessary" and in the exposition of that change he continued:

"It is my conviction that the nature of this change, and one upon which all reasonable people can find common ground, is that each state shall be given the right to deal with the problem as it may determine, but subject to absolute guarantees in the Constitution of the United States to protect each state from inter-

The plight of the family was revealed when the dancer's sister, Mrs. Josephine Sielicke, sued for recovery of two fur coats which she said had been loaned to a friend.

Mrs. Bruce Gains British Air Mark

LONDON, Aug. 12.—(INS.)—The Hon. Mrs. Victor Bruce today held a new British refueling endurance flight record, although she failed by far from beating the 27-day American record.

Mrs. Bruce and her two co-pilots ended their third attempt last night after 54 hours 13 minutes in the air. They were forced down due to trouble in an oil line.

President Hoover's Position on Issues

Associated Press.

Tersely told, here is the position of President Hoover on national and international questions as outlined in his acceptance speech last night:

Favors a change in prohibition laws "to remedy present evils."

Favors a protective tariff.

Insists on an army and navy strong enough to prevent invasion, but asks "every arms reduction" above that strength.

Insists on a balanced federal budget along with reduction in national, state and local governmental expenditures.

Favors farm relief by adjusting and coordinating all taxation and opposes subsidies to farmers and stabilization operations in "normal times."

Demands sound currency.

Pledges consultation with other nations under Kellogg-Briand pact to promote world peace and promises: "We shall enter no agreements committing us to any future course of action or which call for use of force to preserve peace."

Favors restricted immigration.

Asks for conservation of national resources.

Recommends revision of railway transportation laws.

Wants reform of banking laws.

Wants reorganization of law enforcement agencies, courts and their procedure.

Favors development of rivers, harbors and highways.

REYNOLDS' WILL FAILS TO MENTION LIBBY OR CHILD

TOBACCO HEIR'S RICHES GO TO RELATIVES

Document Executed by Youth Held Slain Found in N. Y.

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service.
(Copyright, 1932, International News Service, Inc.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 12—Zachary Smith Reynolds, 20-year-old heir to part of the R. J. Reynolds tobacco millions, left a will, International News Service learned today.

The boy for whose alleged murder Mrs. Libby Holman Reynolds, his widow, and Ab Walker, his friend, will go on trial within a few months, executed the document in August, 1931.

This was three months before Reynolds married Libby in Monroe, Mich.

READY FOR PROBATE

The document, bequeathing his $15,000,000 portion of his father's estate unconditionaly to his sisters and brother, will be offered for probate in New York shortly.

Neither his widow, nor the wife who divorced him, the former Anne Cannon, Concord, N. C., heiress, are mentioned in the legal paper. Neither is any provision made for a child.

Mrs. Libby Holman Reynolds has publicly stated she is to become a mother.

When Smith turned over the paper to a New York trust company, he had just concluded a money settlement with his first wife, Anne Cannon. She received $500,000, and her daughter, now 2 years old, received an equal amount.

The execution of the legal paper allotting his fortune in the event of death to his two married sisters, Nancy and Mary, and to his brother, Richard J. Reynolds, Jr., presumably was taken to protect this settlement.

Libby Visits Raskob Estate in Mystery Trip

HAVERE DE GRACE, Md., Aug. 12.—(Universal.)—After a mysterious trip to the estate of John J. Raskob, millionaire financier, Libby Holman Reynolds today was back in seclusion at Oakington, sylvan estate on Chesapeake Bay.

The Broadway songbird is expected to remain here until she has to go to Winston-Salem, N. C., to stand trial for the alleged murder of her husband, Smith Reynolds, heir to part of the Reynolds tobacco fortune.

Mrs. Reynolds visited the estate with Mrs. Louisa D'A. Jenny, wealthy member of the Du Pont family and intimate friend of the Broadway star, and another woman. At the estate they were seen with two men—one thought to have been the elder son of Raskob.

string beans for 5 cents, peaches and plums for 1 and 2 cents a pound, lemons 5 cents a dozen, oranges eight dozen for 25 cents. One lady who lives at Hodge said:

"You can fill the back of your automobile with vegetabes and fruits of all kinds for 80 cents. It does not pay to plant a garden."

WILD ANIMALS that depend on nobody to hire them are fortunate. On the fine concrete road east of Victorville you disturb a buzzard, peacefully eating the remains of a rabbit crushed by an automobile. The bird flies up as you pass, then drops and resumes his repast. The automobile to him is a blessing. Its lights fascinate the rabbits, they do not move and the automobile kills them. Lights of big cities have something of the same effect on young men, but operates more slowly.

BAZZANO HELD VOLPE 'BOSS'

wealthy Wylie avenue "merchant" was vociferously denied.

A brother, Santos Bazzano, only known witness to the Volpe slayings, insisted:

"John was never in the yeast business and he never bootlegged. He and the Volpes were just friends, that's all. Moving pictures and olive oil—that was John's business. He owned three movie houses."

WIFE GRIEVING

Nearby, John's wife, mother of five children, grieved.

The theory which homicide detectives hold on Bazzano's murder is that he was "rubbed out" because, having hired gunmen to put away the Volpes, he failed to pay them off.

Bazzano left Pittsburgh for New York eight days ago. He registered at the Hotel Pennsylvania. On Sunday he met the Volpe slayers and admitted, so the sleuths theorize, that he was short of ready cash and couldn't pay the murder price.

So they stabbed an ice pick in him 22 times, trussed up his body, dropped him into a gunny sack and tossed the sack into a back street of Brooklyn's Red Hook district.

RACKET WAR THEORY

To this the detectives answer that the Volpes had been muscling in on Bazzano's booze trade—stealing his best customers by underselling him.

Bazzano's body was not identified officially until last night—then by Lieut. Ferris and Bazzano's brother-in-law, Attorney Frank Zappala.

Bazzano's brother, Santos, remained in the Mt. Lebanon home, and was questioned by detectives, but offered no more help than he did when he saw the Volpes riddled with bullets in the Rome Coffee Shop. When detectives reached the Bazzano home to tell the family of the slaying, Santos interrupted:

"Yes, I know. I know all about the death."

Santos was asked who killed his brother.

And his answer was the same answer he gave as to the Volpes:

"I don't know."

BODY BROUGHT HOME

Bazzano's body was brought back to Pittsburgh today and will be buried tomorrow in Union Cemetery, New Kensington. Services will be held at his Mt. Lebanon home at 9 o'clock, a member of the family announced.

If costly redecoration, recently, of his home in Washington road indicates his wealth, his family will be able to afford an impressive funeral.

Bazzano may have been once the partner, then the enemy of Johnny Volpe, leader of the gang that grew up in Wilmerding, but otherwise he was an opposite of the flashy little racketeer. Where Johnny was carefree and boastful, Bazzano was quiet, even secretive. His dress was neat and conservative. Few of the racket guys knew him as a "big shot."

HELD 'BIGGEST SHOT'

But he was the "biggest shot," according to Ferris. And, like most successful racketeers, he had a "girl," the sleuths report. Detectives Frank Dodson and Harry Scott visited the Shadyside apartment in which the girl is supposed to live, but her apartment was empty.

As to the hunted Little Joe Spinelli, he seems to have little difficulty evading the homicide squad.

It is doubtful, if, even in the racket, anyone could be found to say a good word for Little Joe. He and Jack Palmere and Sam (Toto) Amarosso were reputed partners in the bootleg supply racket. One day Palmere was murdered in Wylie avenue, soon after Toto was wrapped in a blanket and burned to death in Patton Township.

KLINE ATTACKS PENSION ORDER

Officials of the Police Pension Fund today moved to block a temporary injunction obtained by 16 retired officers yesterday to prevent the reduction of pensions.

They applied for a writ of supersedeas in the Pennsylvania Supreme Court. Justice Robert S. Frazer set the hearing for this afternoon. The writ, if granted, would act as a stay on the injunction.

Pension fund officials, headed by Mayor Kline, contend pensions must be cut to conserve the fund. The pensioners deny this, especially since salaries of the fund's officers have not been reduced.

Killed by Wounds Suffered in Holdup

NEW LIGHT RATE CUT PROPOSED

City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt has made a counter proposition on light rates for homes to representatives of the Duquesne Light Company, and the city's proposition has been referred by wire to Frank R. Phillips, president of the company, who is on his vacation.

If Phillips approves the proposition, it will be ready to submit to City Council, Waldschmidt said. The details of the Duquesne Light Company's offer have not yet been made public.

Hessian Fly Perils Wheat in Ontario

BEERY, MOVIE VILLAIN, SAYS HE'S 'BROKE'

Testifies His Diamond Is Glass; Ranch Mortgaged

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 12.—(AP.)—Noah Beery, film villain, says he hasn't any bank account or jewelry, or securities, or safe deposit box, and that is why he hasn't paid an $82 judgment rendered against him more than a year ago.

He explained his circumstances before Referee Nod I. Mulville in Municipal Court today. He admitted:

"Yes, I own Paradise ranch. And, yes, there are fish on it, but the income from the ranch isn't enough to feed the fish."

Attorney Vincent Fish asked:

"Have you loaned any money recently?"

Beery exclaimed:

"My goodness, no! But I've got a lot of rubber checks from people who ove me money."

Beery said his ranch was mortgaged at $70,000 and he had $30,000 in small debts.

Noticing Scott's eye fixed on a huge jeweled stickpin in his shirt, Beery said:

Beery said he borrowed $500 from a friend on his jewelry last year, after a pawnbroker had offered him only $75.

Last year, Beery said, he worked in the movies 27 days; this year to date, 19.

"And, you bet, I get my money from the studio in advance—at least I know I can eat that way."

75 DIE IN FIGHT IN NICARAGUA

COLON, Panama, Aug. 12.—(INS.)—Seventy-five persons were killed last night in a clash between Sandinist bandits and national guardsmen, according to wireless reports from Bluefields, Nicaragua, today.

Privt. George Shetland, of the United States Marine Corps, was reported missing. Many guardsmen were killed.

This morning the bandits were retreating, but fighting stubbornly.

Convict Going in Passes Brother Going Out

JACKSON, Mich., Aug. 12.—(INS.)—The big iron gates of Jackson Prison today closed on two brothers—one entering for a five-year sentence and the other leaving on parole.

Albert Schwartz, 46, of Mason County, was being admitted to the prison to serve at least five years for assult with intent to murder. A man passed him and said gruffly, "Hello, Albert," and Albert answered just as curtly, "Hello, John."

It later developed "John" was John Schwartz, 52, of Mason County, the new arrival's brother. He was leaving the prison after 10 months for breaking and entering. Neither brother explained the coolness between them.

STATE TO BUILD MANY ROADS

HARRISBURG, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—Samuel S. Lewis, Secretary of Highways, said today that Pennsylvania will use its emergency federal aid money to build a maximum road mileage with the greatest number of men it can advantageously employ.

The highway department, he added, might find it impractical to use any of the emergency allocation in projects for which contracts already have been let or which have been advertised for bids.

Lewis made this statement in connection with the announcement of the federal road bureau that the federal emergency allocation could be used in matching regular federal aid for projects already under contract July 1, if the terms of the contract satisfied conditions laid down by the relief act and subsequent rulings by the road bureau.

Such use of the emergency fund would release to the state its share of the cost of the projects. In Pennsylvania the amount released would stay in the road fund.

U. S. TO SELL MORE SHIPS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12—(INS.)—The government will soon dispose of the few remaining steamship lines operated by the Merchant Fleet Corporation, the Shipping Board has announced.

In a statement announcing completion of its reorganization under the government economy program, which cut its membership from seven to three, the board said yesterday:

"The reorganization takes cognizance of the fact that the dwindling activities of the board's Merchant Fleet Corporation forecast the early liquidation of the government's remaining vessel property and the growing importance of the board as a regulatory and promotional body."

Under the reorganized board, T. V. O'Connor remains chairman and also assumes charge of the Bureau of Marine Development and the Division of Public Information.

WALKER DENIES PROFIT ON BUS FRANCHISE

tice Harold J. Hinman, of the Appellate division of the Supreme Court, an order instructing Gov. Roosevelt to explain his jurisdiction. The Governor directed Attorney General John J. Bennett, Jr., to prepare argument on the legality of the action.

Bennett, leaving Gov. Roosevelt's office after a five-minute conference, said:

"The Governor sent for me immediately and told me to notify Justice Hinman that he would show no discourtesy to the court and would withhold his decision until the courts had passed upon his authority."

The surprising court action entirely subordinated the events of the hearing session in which Mayor Walker resumed testifying, denying he had profited by the granting of a bus franchise.

Whereas yesterday, the Mayor was excited and emotional when he testified, today he was calm and answered the Governor's questions slowly and deliberately.

CURTIN'S FIGHT FAILS

During John J. Curtin's argument against the Governor having jurisdiction to consider evidence bearing upon Walker's first term as mayor, he intimated that Walker, if removed, might seek exoneration by again running for mayor.

He contended that if the Mayor was removed and "again ran for office and was elected—and I have no doubt he would be—it would be possible to again try him and remove him on the same evidence." Curtin concluded:

"That certainly would be defeating Democratic representation."

Gov. Roosevelt, however, rejected the efforts to throw out the Hofstadter Committee evidence and began his questioning of Walker on the Equitable Bus Company deal.

Previously, Gov. Roosevelt decided that Mayor Walker may summon for cross-examination any witness who testifies against him before the Hofstadter committee.

This ruling was, in part, a victory for Walker, who yesterday dramatically pleaded that his accusers be called to face him. The Mayor was accused of using his office for personal profit and his removal demanded.

As Curtin argued, the Mayor frequently plucked at his arm and whispered advice to his attorney.

TELL ANCIENT STORY

The solemnity and earnestness of the proceedings was broken by an interlude of levity when Curtin explained an ancient Jewish incident that proved the value of cross-examination. Curtin narrated:

"There was in Biblical days a beautiful lady who repulsed the advances of two elders. Angered, they accused her of impropriety and demanded her death.

"'Not so fast,' said Daniel. 'Let's hear the evidence.' One of the elders placed the lady's indiscretion under a mastick tree; the other under a yew tree.

"The lady's accusers were put to death."

ROOSEVELT AGREES

Smiling, Roosevelt said:

"Your reference to the Biblical maiden Suzanna is pat.

"You, Mr. Curtin, are in the position of Daniel. His honor, I shall not say is in the position of Suzanna—"

Walker cut in:

"I sometimes feel like it."

The Governor went on:

"You may call the elders. I have given you the privilege to cross examine."

CURTIN REBUKED

During the argument of Curtin Roosevelt observed:

"I am not so much interested in Judge Seabury's conclusions as I am in the evidence."

Roosevelt twice rebuked Mr. Curtin. Once as the lawyer read from the evidence against the Mayor, looking up to interpret, the Governor interrupted:

"Never mind what he indicates and stick to the record."

At another point Roosevelt snapped:

"I am not the least bit interested in your conclusions."

After a brief tilt between Seabury and Curtin, on Curtin's interpretation of one of Seabury's conclusion, Roosevelt turned to the matter of the Equitable Coach Company, Inc., and indicated he would begin questioning Walker. He asked the Mayor to take a seat opposite him and closer to his desk.

SCANS TESTIMONY

After an exchange of questions and answers, Gov. Roosevelt then read from the record of the Hofstadter committee testimony of Senator Hastings to the effect that the Mayor had told him he would aid in financing the Equitable if Hastings would give him his word of honor not to buy any stock. Roosevelt said:

"Mayor, I dislike to do this, but I've got to go back to your own testimony. I've got to get this thing clearer."

Walker remarked that he was being cross-examined.

The Governor then read from the record indicating Walker had testified he had discussed with Hastings the financing of the Equitable company. Walker said:

"If it's the charge that I am a friend of Senator Hastings, I'll admit it."

'Sally,' Ziegfeld Hit Of 1918, to Be Revived

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 12.—(AP.)—A. C. Blumenthal, who is taking charge of the personal affairs of the late Florenz Ziegfeld, has started negotiations which may lead to the revival in New York of Ziegfeld's first musical comedy, "Sally."

Marilyn Miller, who starred in the original production of "Sally," revealed this last night. She said:

"Mr. Blumenthal has started negotiations to gather the entire original cast — myself, Leon Errol, Walter Catlett and the others."

Miss Miller will leave for New York Tuesday to arrange for another show, but she said it was possible she would accept Blumenthal's offer to revive "Sally" before her show opened.

"Sally" opened in 1918.

NOTABLES JOIN CITIZENS IN LAST RITES

Cortege of Police Escort Body to Cemetery

Notables of the nation joined with citizens of Pittsburgh today in a final tribute to James Francis Burke, as last rites were said in St. Paul's Cathedral.

Not only the pews but the aisles of the great vaulted edifice were filled with friends and associates of the man who rose from court stenographer to be an advisor of Presidents. In the throng was the personal representative of President Hoover.

As the casket, void of flowers, lay before the altar, solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated by the Rev. Father William J. McMullen, rector of the cathedral, assisted by Father Vincent Burke as deacon and Father James Garahan as sub-deacon.

BLANKET OF ROSES

A blanket of pink roses and the wreath sent by President Hoover which covered the casket as it was borne into the cathedral were removed and deposited in the corridor during the services.

Ranged opposite the members of the family, Mrs. Burke and her son and daughter in the front of the cathedral were men high in the affairs of the Republican party of which Mr. Burke had been counsel for years and representatives of President Hoover's cabinet. Scattered through the throng were Mayor Charles H. Kline, his cabinet, state and county officials.

Also in the farewell tribute were men and women of humble rank, who had known the man who became one of Pittsburgh's favorite sons as a boy in the Forbes street district.

CELEBRITIES ATTEND

Among the celebrities were Col. Campbell Hodges, personal representative of President Hoover; Andrew W. Mellon, ambassador to the Court of St. James and former Secretary of the Treasury; Postmaster General Walter G. Brown; Everett Sanders, chairman, and George DeB. Keim, secretary of the Republican National Committee; Michael Gallagher, of Cleveland, a member of the national committee; R. B. Mellon and a host of other leaders in social, industrial and political affairs.

Following the mass, the honorary pallbearers led the procession from the church, with members of the family in their wake. The same order prevailed in Calvary Cemetery, where the three priests, under a canopy, blessed the body as it was lowered into its grave. Col. Hodges, the cabinet members and the family, as well as industrial, political and social leaders formed a cordon around the grave.

Seventy-five policemen accompanied the cortege along Bayard street to the Cathedral and later to the cemetery where the body was laid to rest beside that of his mother.

Funeral services were held last night in the Burke home, 820 Devonshire street by the Knights of Columbus.

SPECIAL TRAIN

Ambassador Mellon and a party arrived this morning for the services from Washington where they last night had attended the meeting notifying President Hoover of his renomination. In the group in addition to those named was Frank S. Haight, president of the Williard Hotel, Washington; A. W. Robertson and A. L. Humphreys, of Pittsburgh.

Mr. Burke died suddenly in Washington of a heart attack Monday night.

Hoover Accepts Nomination, But Walker Dodges

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Jimmy Walker and Herbie Hoover are the strawberry jam on the front page toast today.

It's a far cry from Albany to Washington even if Jimmy is laughing.

American politics operate on the golden rule that you must investigate the other guy before he investigates you.

One minute you are on top. Next you are on bottom. Every groceryman knows that a basket of bad berries looks better when you shake it up.

No matter what happens to James he will always be New York's fair haired boy. The women will vote for him to a man.

He's smart. He looks nice. Dresses dapper. Talks well. Writes songs. Sings them. Plays them on the piano. Dances beautifully. The lad gave up a good career to be Mayor of New York.

"Mr. Forbes and I were just unsuited to each other as man and wife. We have been talking about a divorce for two years, but just hated starting it.

"I may be married again in 36 hours or 36 years."

2 ARTISTS DUEL OVER INSULT TO GARBO

Assertion Greta Should Be Laundress Causes Cape Cod Fray

International News Service.

PROVINCETOWN, Mass., Aug. 12.—"Ay tank," they bantered in the art colony today.

"Ay tank they had not had enough yet."

Translated from the Swedish, this means that Arthur Robinson, short story writer, and Frederic McKay, New York theatrical manager, may fight another "duel" on the sands of Cape Cod.

And far across the bounding main, in her native land, Miss Greta Garbo, whose histrionic ability started the swordplay in the moonlight, knows not of this gentlemen's quarrel.

LAUNDRY CAREER

McKay was her defender, Robinson claiming her career should be shaped for work in a laundry, according to all accounts.

First reports had honor satisfied with Robinson's neck grazed, without drawing blood, and his adversary's thumb pinked. Then came gossip that the controversy was not ended—that night strollers on Cape Cod's shores might see another "duel" fought.

No report of the affair was made to police but:

"Greta Garbo is God's gift to a stricken world."—McKay.

"Greta Garbo is Hollywood's biggest mistake."—Robinson.

MIDNIGHT DUEL

Those were "them harsh words" according to all accounts which started the medieval bout in the light of the moon on the beach not far from the historic Pilgrim monument.

The McKay argument was that Greta is sweet, charming, with great talents—one of the greatest actresses of all time.

The Robinson opinion was that Greta was over advertised by "goofy" Hollywood, that she is awkward and should be cast in a permanent role in a laundry.

Thus the "fatal words" were spoken.

Threats followed. The two men were with a group of friends in a studio.

SEIZES RAPIER

Suddenly, it was said, McKay snatched two rapiers from the wall decorations.

Seconds were chosen. The eerie hour of midnight was fixed as the appointed time.

They arrive. Silence. The swish of the surf. A few hushed words. They draw. They pace off. They swing. They thrust. They jab. They counter. They jabber.

McKay scores first with a glancing blow to Robinson's neck. The latter, skillful with the sword as well as the pen, catches McKay's right thumb. The blood trickles. The seconds step in. The "duel" is over.

SEEK MURDER CLUES IN WILL OF SPINSTER

Slain Recluse Left Fortune to Former Sweetheart

International News Service.

NATCHEZ, Miss., Aug. 12.—The will of the slain 68-year-old wealthy spinster-recluse, Janet Surget Merrill—a document as strange as the secluded life the one-time belle of an old Southern aristocracy led in her ante-bellum plantation home—was scrutinized by authorities today in an effort to shed further light on her mysterious brutal murder.

Written by the murdered woman in the flowery flourishes of an older day, the will was filed for probate today in Adams County Chancery Court.

LEFT FORTUNE

It bequeathed a fortune and vast land holdings to Duncan Minor, childhood sweetheart and neighbor of the daughter of a former ambassador to Belgium, with whom she forsook the brilliant social galeties of Southern capitals to pursue a life of rigid privation in the purlieus of the dreamy Mississippi River town of Natchez.

But by verbal agreement, not mentioned in the curious testament, which gives the fortune outright to Minor, he was made the instrument by which the eccentric spinster's holdings are to be distributed equally among the children of her brothers, both dead.

"He (Minor) knows what disposition I wish made of my property and money, and will attend to it best," the mistress of "Glenburney," one of the few remaining showplaces of the old South, where she lived and last week died a violent death, wrote in the will.

The estate, estimated in excess of $250,000, includes Glenburney, the Merrill home and several plantations in the Concordia Parish of Louisiana.

SPEED MURDER QUIZ

With revelation of the contents of the document, authorities today sped forward with their investigation of the spinster-recluse's murder. Planning to requestion Odel Ferguson, logger, to whose woodland hut near the Merrill mansion bloodhounds led sheriff's forces last Thursday night when Miss Merrill's body, pierced by three bullets, was found in a clump of bushes at the end of a trail of blood, several hundred yards from her home.

SUMMARY OF HOOVER'S SPEECH

Opposes Competitive Tariff as Revenue Measure

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—In resting his case for re-election, his record of economic reconstruction designed to speed business recovery, President Hoover announced these principles:

Tariff

"I am squarely for a protective tariff. I am against the proposal of 'a competitive tariff for revenue' as advocated by our opponents.

"I am against their proposals to destroy the usefulness of the bipartisan Tariff Commission. That instrumentality enables us to correct any injustice and to readjust the rates of duty to shifting economic change."

War Debts

"My views in opposition to cancellation of war debts are a matter of detailed record in many public statements and a recent message to Congress. I am hopeful of such drastic reduction of world armament as will save taxpayers in debtor countries a large part of the cost of their payments to us. If for any particular annual payment we were offered some other tangible form of compensation such as the expension of markets for American agriculture and labor, and the restoration and maintenance of our prosperity, then I am sure our citizens would consider such a proposal. But it is a certainty that these debts must not be canceled or the burdens transferred to our people."

National Defense

"I insist upon an Army and Navy of a strength which guarantees that no foreign soldier will land on American soil. That strength is relative to other nations. I favor every arms reduction which preserves that relationship."

Immigration

"I favor rigidly restricted immigration."

Transportation

"I have repeatedly recommended to the Congress a revision of the railway transportation laws, in order that we may create greater stability and greater assurance of vital service in all our transportation. I shall persist in it."

Power

"I have repeatedly recommended the federal regulation of interstate power. I shall persist in that. I have opposed the federal government undertaking the operation of the power business. I shall continue that opposition."

Financial Regulation

"There have been exploitation and abuse of financial power. We will fearlessly and unremittingly reform such abuses. The American people must have protection from insecure banking through a stronger system. They must be relieved from conditions which permit the credit machinery of the country to be made available without adequate check for wholesale speculation in securities with ruinous consequences to millions of our citizens and to national economy. I recommended to the Congress emergency relief for depositors in closed banks. For seven years I have repeatedly warned against private loans abroad for nonproductive purposes. I shall persist in those matters."

Taxation

"I have insisted upon a balanced budget as the foundation of all public and private financial stability and of all public confidence. Recent increases in revenue, while temporary, should be again examined, and if they tend to sap the vitality of industry, and thus retard employment, they must be revised.

Economy

"It is through lower expenditures that we get lower taxes. This must be done. If we except those extraordinary expenditures imposed upon us by the depression, it will be found that the federal government is operating for $200,000,000 less annually today than four years ago. The Congress rejected recommendations from the administration which would have saved an additional $150,000,000 this fiscal year. The opposition leadership insisted, as the price of vital reconstruction legislation and over my protest, upon adding $300,000,000 of costs to the taxpayer through public works inadvisable at this time. The opposition leadership in the House of Representatives in the past four months secured passage by the House of $3,000,000,000 in such raids. They have been stopped. I shall continue to oppose raids upon the Federal Treasury."

Reorganization

"I have repeatedly for seven years urged the Congress either themselves to abolish obsolete bureaus and commissions and to reorganize the whole government structure in the interest of economy, or to give someone else the authority to do so. I have succeeded partially in securing authority, but I regret that no substantial act under it is to be effective until approved by the next Congress."

Farm Relief

"With the collapse in world prices and depreciated currencies the farmer was never so dependent upon his tariff protection for recovery as he is at the present time. We have enacted many measures of emergency relief to agriculture. They are having effect. The original purpose of the Farm Board was to strengthen the efforts of the farmer to establish his own farmer-owned, farmer-controlled marketing agencies. It has greatly succeeded. The departure of the Farm Board from its original purpose by making loans to farmers' co-operatives to preserve prices from panic served the emergency, but such action in normal times is absolutely destructive to the farmers' interests.

"The most practicable relief to the farmer today aside from the general economic recovery is a definite program of readjustment and co-ordination of national, state, and local taxation which will relieve real property, especially the farms, from unfair burdens of taxation which the current readjustment in values has brought about. To that purpose I shall devote myself."

Law Enforcement

"I have furnished to the Congress and to the states authoritative information upon the urgent need of reorganization of law enforcement agencies, the courts and their procedure, that we may reduce the lawlessness and crime in the country. I shall again press this necessity."

Prison Reform

"Upon my recommendations the Congress has enacted the most extensive measures of prison reform of two generations. As a result, and despite the doubling of the number of persons under federal restraint in three years, we are today returning them to society far better fitted for citizenship."

Spiritual Leadership

"The leadership of the federal government is not to be confined to economic and international questions. There are problems of the home, or education of children, of citizenship, the most vital of all to the future of the nation. Except in the case of aid to states which I have recommended for stimulation of the protection and health of children, they are not matters of legislation. We have given leadership to the initiative of our people for social advancement through organization against illiteracy, through the White House Conference on Protection and Health of Children, through the National Conference on Home Ownership, through stimulation to social and recreational agencies. These are the visible evidences of spiritual leadership by government."

Foreign Relations

"My foreign policies have been devoted to strengthening the foundations of world peace. We inaugurated the London naval treaty which reduced arms and limited the ratios between the fleets of the three powers. We have made concrete proposals at Geneva to reduce armaments of the world by one-third. It would save the taxpayers of the world a billion a year. It would save us over $200,000,000 a year. It would reduce fear and danger of war.

League Court

Kellogg-Briand Pact

"We have given leadership in transforming the Kellogg-Briand pact from an inspiring outlawry of war to an organized instrument for peaceful settlements backed by definite mobilization of world opinion against aggression. We shall, under the spirit of that pact, consult with other nations in times of emergency to promote world peace.

New Doctrine

"Above all, I have projected a new doctrine into international affairs, the doctrine that we do not and never will recognize title to possession of territory gained in violation of the peace pacts. That doctrine has been accepted by all the nations of the world on a recent critical occasion, and within the last few days has been accepted again by all the nations of the western hemisphere, that is public opinion made tangible and effective."

Text of Hoover's Dry Law Stand

Universal Service.

The text of President Hoover's declaration on prohibition follows:

"There has arisen a bitter controversy over the control of the liquor traffic. I have always sympathized with the high purpose of the Eighteenth Amendment and I have used every power at my command to make it effective over the entire country. I have hoped it was the final solution of the evils of the liquor traffic against which our people have striven for generations. It has succeeded in great measure in those many communities where the majority sentiment is favorable to it. But in other and increasing number of communities there is a majority sentiment unfavorable to it. Laws opposed by majority sentiment create resentment which undermines enforcement and in the end produces degeneration and crime.

"Our opponents pledge the members of their party to destroy every vestige of constitutional and effective control of the traffic. That means over large areas the return of the saloon system with its corruption, its moral and social abuse which debauched the home, its deliberate interference with those states endeavoring to find honest solution, its permeation of political parties, and its pervasion of legislatures, which even touched the capital of the nation. The Eighteenth Amendment smashed that regime as by a stroke of lightning. I cannot consent to the return of that system.

"At the same time we must recognize the difficulties which have developed in making the Eighteenth Amendment effective and that grave abuses have grown up. In order to secure the enforcement of the amendment under our dual form of government, the constitutional provision called for concurrent action on one hand by the state and local authorities and on the other by the federal government.

"An increasing number of states and municipalities are proving themselves unwilling to engage in such enforcement. Due to these forces there is in large sections an increasing illegal traffic in liquor. But worse than this there has been in those areas a spread of disrespect not only for this law but for all laws, grave dangers of practical nullification of the constitution, a degeneration in municipal government and an increase in subsidized crime and violence. I can not consent to the continuation of this regime.

"I refuse to accept either of these destinies: On the one hand to return to the old saloon with its political and social corruption, or on the other to endure the bootlegger and the speakeasy with their abuses and crime. Either is intolerable. These are not the ways out.

"Our objective must be a sane solution, not a blind leap back to old evils. Moreover, such a step backward would result in a chaos of new evils never yet experienced, because the local systems of prohibition and controls which were developed over generations have been in large degree abandoned under the amendment.

"The Republican platform recommends submission of the question to the states that the people themselves may determine whether they desire a change, but insists that this submission shall propose a constructive and not a destructive change. It does not dictate to the conscience of any member of the party.

"The first duty of the President of the United States is to enforce the laws as they exist. That I shall continue to do to the utmost of my ability. Any other course would be the abrogation of the very guaranties of liberty itself.

"The constitution gives the President no power or authority with respect to changes in the Constitution itself; nevertheless my countrymen have a right to know my conclusions upon this matter.

"It is my belief that in order to remedy present evils a change is necessary by which we resummon a proper share of initiative and responsibility which the very essence of our government demands shall rest upon the states and local authorities. That change must avoid the return of the saloon.

"It is my conviction that the nature of this change, and one upon which all reasonable people can find common ground, is that each state shall be given the right to deal with the problem as it may determine, but subject to absolute guarantees in the Constitution of the United States to protect each state from interference and invasion by its neighbors, and that in no part of the United States shall there be a return of the saloon system with its inevitable political and social corruption and its organized interference with other states.

Every 25c You Spend at Donahoe's Helps Bring Visitors to Pittsburgh

Remember, a portion of every 25c purchase or over, that you make at any Donahoe Store goes to help pay the expenses of the American Legion State Convention which the AMERICAN LEGION of Allegheny County will bring to Pittsburgh August 18th, 19th and 20th.

This Convention will cost the American Legion of Allegheny County many thousands of dollars in expense and, due to relief work during the past year, their funds are practically exhausted.

So Donahoe's have arranged to help the American Legion of Allegheny County financially—Donahoe's will pay a good portion of the convention expense, based upon purchases made by the public at any and all Donahoe stores until August 20, 1932.

NOW'S the Time

To get your Seat for the Big Parade

Saturday afternoon, August 20th, the American Legion, Department of Pennsylvania, representing over 600 Posts, and the American Legion Auxiliary will, in conjunction with their 14th Annual Convention in Pittsburgh, hold THE BIG PARADE. The Convention officers estimate it will take at least six hours to pass a given point.

Seats in reviewing stands will be located on Ridge Avenue, North Side, Pittsburgh. Only a limit number of reviewing stand seats for the parade are available. Space in the North Side parks does not permit the erection of many seats.

As the greater portion of the parade will be in the downtown business or triangle section of the City, it is impossible to erect reviewing stands along the route of the parade. It is, therefore, advisable for you to make your reservations for reviewing stand seats at once with the undersigned.

Seats on Ridge Avenue are now available for $1.00 per seat. Surely you will want your family comfortably seated to view the parade. No seats reserved—come early. Refreshments and sandwiches will be available in the reviewing stands.

HOOVER LIQUOR STAND LAUDED, DENOUNCED

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Dry leaders today assailed President Hoover's new stand on prohibition as a "betrayal and surrender," while Republican leaders praised it as "a state document."

Predicting the President's declaration in favor of state control would cost him many votes and might even result in the dry forces throwing their support to a third party, Canon William Sheafe Chase, superintendent of the International Reform Federation and member of the Prohibition Board of Strategy said:

"The President has weakened and surrendered to the lawless liquor traffic at the very time when renewed determination was all that was needed to assure the successful enforcement of national prohibition."

MELLON PRAISES SPEECH

However, Senator Reed Smoot (Rep.), of Utah, a consistent dry, said:

"The whole statement was right to the point. It was just what was needed for America. That goes for prohibition and all."

Andrew W. Mellon, former Secretary of the Treasury and now Ambassador to Great Britain, declared:

Senator Fess (Rep.), of Ohio, said:

"It was a great state paper covering every problem with a proposal for a sane solution, including prohibition. It will grip the American people as few utterances of public leaders."

VOTE LOSS PREDICTED

A prominent member of the Anti-Saloon League, who declined to permit his name to be used pending the issuance of an official statement by the league, predicted the President's declaration on prohibition would cost him the Southern support which helped to place him in office in 1928.

Leaders of the various dry organizations held private meetings today to determine what action should be taken. The Allied Forces for Prohibition announced they would issue a statement, while Dr. Edwin C. Dinwiddie, executive secretary of the Prohibition Board of Strategy, said he also was preparing a statement.

HOOVER FAVORS PACT REVISION

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—(INS.)—President Hoover favors revision of the Versailles and other "peace" treaties signed at the close of the World War.

This fact, intimated by the President in one short sentence of his acceptance speech, was confirmed by his close friends and advisors today.

Hoover feels, these sources declared, that the "peace" treaties have brought anything but peace to Europe and the rest of the world, and also that they have presented formidable obstacles to the political and economic restoration of Europe.

The President indicated the warmth of his feeling on this subject by the statement in his speech that "poisoned springs of political instability lay in the treaties which closed the war. Fears and hates held armaments to double those of before the great conflict."

Tobacco Leader Hits Proposed Tax

Stating that more than half the population of Pennsylvania lives within 50 miles of the border and could avail themselves of buying cigarets in foreign states that do not have a state levy, A. Goldbloom, of the Tobacco Merchants' Association of the United States, was heard last night in an address broadcast from the studios of WCAE, attacking the proposed two-cent state tax on each package of 20 cigarets.

Factor's Wheat Pit Profits $1,000,000

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—(AP.)—John (Jake the Barber) Factor, whose extradition is being sought by the English government on charges of defrauding investors, has confirmed reports that he had made a "killing" in the wheat pit. Board of Trade rumors had placed his winnings as high as $1,000,000.

Factor faces prosecution in England for alleged fraud against investors totaling $7,000,000.

Minnesota Slayers Get Life Terms

HASTINGS, Minn., Aug. 12.—(AP.)—Harold Wilder and Dewey Sharpe, St. Paul hoodlums, were sentenced to life terms in Stillwater State Prison yesterday after they pleaded guilty to the killing of Rudolph Fischer, deputy sheriff.

They were taken to the state prison immediately because of strong feeling against them.

ISSUES SPLIT TWO PARTIES

G.O.P. and Democrats Shown in Bold Relief

By KENNETH CLARK
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Campaign issues dividing Republicans and Democrats were thrown into bold relief today by President Hoover's acceptance speech.

Economic recovery was stressed as the keystone of both parties' bid for victory in November.

The Democratic platform, accepted 100 per cent by Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, blamed administration policies as largely responsible for the breakdown.

The Republican platform, as interpreted by President Hoover, chiefly attributed the country's ills to Europe's collapse, plus an inevitable reaction to the boom period's orgy of overexpansion, reckless speculation, waste, exploitation and abuse of financial power.

Both pledged, with widely divergent methods, to speed return of better times.

APART ON PROHIBITION

They were miles apart in prohibition. Democrats pledged outright repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and immediate legalization of beer and light wines. Hoover condemned bootleggers and speakeasies. He inveighed against return of the saloon. Standing on the Republican resubmission plank, the President favored a change to return liquor control to the states, but hedged with such restrictions that the federal government would remain dictator of the nation's liquor policies. Hoover said he has "always sympathized with the high purpose of the Eighteenth Amendment."

Democrats denounced the Smoot-Hawley Tariff. President Hoover re-affirmed his devotion to the protective tariff system.

Democrats demanded expansion of federal public works to take up the unemployment slack. Hoover derided Democratic "pork barrel" legislation. He said he had prevented $3,000,000,000 in treasury "raids" by the Democratic House, which, over his protest, had added $300,000,000 on the taxpayers "through public works inadvisable at this time."

Unalterable opposition to cancellation of war debts was expressed by the Democrats. While saying the debt load should not be transferred to the American people, Hoover added:

"If for any particular annual payment we were offered some other tangible form of compensation such as the expansion of markets for American agriculture and labor, and the restoration and maintenance of our prosperity, then I am sure our citizens would consider such a proposal."

SILENT ON BONUS

On power, Hoover favored federal regulation of interstate traffic, but condemned government operation of the power business. The Democrats advocated:

"The conservation, development and use of the nation's water power in the public interest."

Democrats pledged the "full measure of justice and generosity" to veterans disabled in actual service. Hoover's speech mentioned neither the bonus marchers, whom he routed with federal troops, nor veterans' legislation.

FAVORS ECONOMY

Democrats called for a 25 per cent reduction in federal expenditures. Hoover favored economy.

Democrats demanded protection of the investing public against all offerings of foreign and domestic stocks and bonds. Hoover said he had warned repeatedly against "private loans abroad for nonproductive purposes."

Hoover asked the voters to believe, based on his record, that his guiding hand would lead the country once more to prosperity. The Democrats said:

"The only hope for improving present conditions, restoring employment, affording permanent relief to the people, and bring the nation back to the proud position of domestic happiness and of financial; industrial, agricultural and commercial leadership in the world lies in a drastic change in economic governmental policies."

Tariff, Dry Issue Offer Points Of Cleavage

Hoover Admits Dry Law Fails, Favors Change

ference and invasion by its neighbors, and that in no part of the United States shall there be a return of the saloon system with its inevitable political and social corruption and its organized interference with other states.

SHIFT FORM 1928

As to what part, if any, he personally will take in the advocacy of prohibition reform, Mr. Hoover made no committments. But the bare fact that he has now abandoned the dry stand he has hitherto taken and now concedes that "a change is necessary" constitutes a radical departure from the old order of 1928.

The professional drys who have incorporated themselves into a national board of strategy were aghast today, but they got a little solace out of the speech. For the President spoke out strongly against any return of the old saloon, and he insisted that prohibition be kept in the Constitution, where the wets contended that it should never have been placed. As for modification of the Volstead act to permit beer, he ignored it completely.

EXTREMISTS DISPLEASED

Under the circumstances, the speech was pleasing to neither the extreme wets nor the extreme drys. But the important thing politically is that his advocacy of a change will give the influential Republican wets from the Atlantic seaboard an excuse to support the national ticket, and his condemnation of the saloon and his promise of protection for the dry states will give the moderate drys an alibi for supporting it, too.

Mr. Hoover spoke only three minutes about prohibition. He spoke for more than an hour about economic issues, and in that hour he proclaimed his willingnes to go to the country on the record which his administration has made in dealing with the depression.

He made it cryst. clear that he expects the campaign to b. fought out on economic issues.

RELATES ACHIEVEMENTS

He recounted at considerable length the measures which his to find fault with them. In this connection, his speech of acceptance was a fighting speech.

Mr. Hoover met the Democratic r isation of "lack of leadership" in the economic crisis by enumerating at great length the measures which he has sponsored to relieve the situation at home—the war debt moratorium, the creation of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the reduced budget, the insistence upon governmental economy, reform of the banking laws, the strengthening of the federal land banks, the easing of credit, creation of the system of home loan banks, and so forth. administration has taken to combat the depression, and he challenged the Democratic opposition

SPEECH IGNORED BY ROOSEVELT

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 12.—(AP.)—What his rival for the White House, President Hoover, said last night about prohibition, the depression and other issues of the campaign, only casually interested Gov. Roosevelt, who retired without reading a word of the Republican nominee's acceptance speech.

Later, however, Gov. Roosevelt will put the President's comments under his political microscope. He will answer Mr. Hoover and challenge his stand in a series of road speeches, the first of which will be August 20 at Columbus, O. He is expected then to elaborate on his own attitude toward economic questions, particularly railroading.

SPAIN SEIZES LEADERS OF REVOLT

By THOMAS A. LOAYZA
International News Service.

MADRID, Aug. 12.—Round-up of the leading figures in Spain's short-lived Monarchist revolt continued today, with the government taking drastic measures to preserve order in Andalusia, where Republican zealots burned schools and churches and the homes of Royalists.

Among those arrested today was Capt. Justo San Jurjo, son of Gen. Jose San Jurjo, commander of the Civil Guard and chief figure in the revolutionary movement.

Capt. San Jurjo was taken into custody at Santa Catalina Castle, Cadiz, along with Gen. Garcia Herranz and Lieut. Col. Emilo Estea.

In recounting the story of his futile attempt to unseat the government of President Nicete Alcala Zamora, Gen. San Jurjo revealed that his son came to him at his country home and told him the time was ripe for Monarchist sympathizers throughout the country to strike.

San Jurjo immediately proceeded to Seville and took possession of the city, only to find that he had been "betrayed" by certain sections of the army which he said had promised loyalty to his cause.

The rebels, it was announced, will be tried by the Supreme Court.

RENEW RIOTS AT OHIO MINES

ATHENS, O., Aug. 12.—(AP.)—Gun fire, dynamite explosions and the burning of three houses marked activities in a renewal of violence in the Athens County coal field last night and early today.

The disorders started shortly after the day crew of the No. 25 mine of the Manhattan Coal Company at Chauncey, quit work late yesterday. As the men were leaving the shaft a cross fire of machine gun and high-powered rifle fire raked the mine property. No one was hurt.

Firing from north and east of the mine, forced working miners to seek cover. Five houses in the vicinity of the shaft were bullet scarred. The fire was returned by Ohio National Guardsmen, but early today no one could be found who had been injured.

Woman Found Dead After House Burns

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., Aug. 12.—The charred body of Mrs. Belle Bryan Witherow, 51, was found in bed after fire of undetermined origin swept her five-room home at Georgetown today.

COME With Us and Remember

COME with us and remember the days in France! Big guns that boomed and thundered all along the blazing front...barbed wire overhead...mud underfoot...crater holes in No Man's Land...bayonets glinting in the sun...hob-nailed shoes...corned beef...billets...bacon...poppies in wheat fields...shrapnel like rain...a broken bayonet stuck in a dug-out chink to hold the candle light...faces brave and debonair turned fierce and white.

HERE is gathered a great tribute to A. E. F. and to the American Legion of Pennsylvania, whose 14th Annual Convention is held in Pittsburgh beginning next Thursday, Aug. 18th. The Army is here! The Navy! Marines! The Air Force! Many of the exhibits are shown for the first time. Most are displayed by authority of the War Department. The men who fought in France will want to see them...the women who prayed at home...and the children to whom the World War is but a daring story.

THE exhibits are shown on the Fourth, Fifth and Sixth Floors. See them all. Salute the coming of the American Legion by attending this thrilling spectacle—beginning tomorrow!

The program, presented by the KDKA Concert Orchestra, directed by Zoel Parenteau, and Paul Hagen, soloist with Jack Pettis' Orchestra, includes a poem written by Mr. Burke, "Old Friends," and a song for which he wrote the lyric, "Sing Me a Song of Pennsylvania." Mr. Burke frequently was heard over the air.

Three Keys, radio's newest entertainment sensation, appear in the first of a four-a-week series of sustaining programs over an NBC network including KDKA tonight at 10:30. The Negro trio comes to radio from a basement cafe in Chester, Pa., bringing a new mode of harmonizing evolved from the modern melodies of Harlem and Tin Pan Alley.

The Russian Balalaika Orchestra and its spirited string music is the guest feature of Nat Shilkret's Week-End Hour on WJAS tonight from 9 to 9:30. Two continental melodies, "Red Sarafan" and "Pod du Goi," are included on the group's program. Shilkret's novelty orchestra, the male quartet and Thelma Kessler, soprano, also are heard.

Program Pointers

With Lee Wiley as contralto soloist, Leo Reisman presents a varied assortment of old favorites and special novelties during his program over an NBC network, including WCAE, tonight at 9:30. Barre Hill, young mid-western baritone who starred last season with the Chicago Civic Opera Company, is guest soloist with Cesare Sodero and a symphony orchestra on WCAE at 10:30 tonight.

Miss Wiley

The George Westinghouse Post No. 230, of Wilmerding, presents the American Legion program on WWSW at 9. Music by a double quartet and a talk by Walter D. Ferree, commander, are features.

Lewis Munnell's Friday night program usually heard at 10:30, again is switched to 10:15 to permit WJAS listeners to hear a full half-hour of Guy Lombardo's music.

Long's Sports Review Back on WCAE

James J. Long, sports columnist of the Sun-Telegraph, returns to the air and gives an authoritative review of sports activities, both local and national, during his weekly talk on WCAE tonight at 7.

IN DEPTHS OF DESPAIR

MRS. MARY JONES lives in New England. Every month was a nightmare to her. Her letter says, "I suffered periodical pains through my head, backache and female weakness."

But she was surprised. Through its tonic action, it built up her health . . . lessened her pain. She says, "My backache is completely relieved."

THE TEST OF TUBES IS ACCURACY

ACCURACY is just as important in radio tubes as it is in a watch. Eveready Raytheon Tubes have four strong pillars to anchor their elements in place — protecting their vital accuracy. Other tubes have only two supports for their elements. Jolts and vibration easily impair their accuracy —and their tone! Your dealer can demonstrate the superiority of Eveready Raytheon 4-pillar Tubes.

'LUCKY BUCKS' BARGAIN DAY ARRANGED

Sunday is going to be "bargain day" for "Lucky Bucks." In the Comic Weekly of the Sunday Sun-Telegraph there will appear a double supply—enough to add 20 "Bucks" to each of the bankrolls the boys and girls of Pittsburgh and vicinity are saving to spend at Kennywood on Lucky Buck Day, Friday, August 26.

The children of Pittsburgh are all excited about this special day at Kennywood when Lucky Bucks will be accepted, just the same as cash, for the rides and amusement devices. In fact these are busy days for the scissors brigade—the boys and girls clipping plenty of "Lucky Bucks."

Remember Sunday is "bargain day." Every boy and girl can add 20 "Lucky Bucks" to his or her bankroll by clipping the extra supply in the Comic Weekly of the Sunday Sun - Telegraph. Ask "Dad" or your big brother or sister, or your neighbor to get the Sunday Sun-Telegraph so that you can have these 20 extra "Bucks" for your Lucky Buck bankroll.

VETS WAIT BYRD BONUS STAND

LAWRENCE, Mass., Aug. 12.—(AP.)—Legionnaires assembled in annual state convention here today awaited eagerly an explanation from Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd of the purposes of the National Economy League, of which he is chairman and whose avowed aim is the curtailment of expenditures in every form of governmental activity.

The famous explorer last night announced he had canceled an important engagement to appear. He said he would attempt to correct any misapprehension that the league had singled out veterans' aid as the chief object of its economy program. His decision to stay followed a two-hour conference with Stephen C. Garrity, of Lowell, state commander.

Garrity said he has asked the admiral to convey to the league a request it declare an armistice on that part of its program which affects the veterans until a congressional investigation could determine the facts.

TRUCK OF TIRES HIJACKED BY 6

Six gunmen hijacked a truck on the William Penn highway, near Burke's Glen, and stripped it of its freight of automobile tires, valued at $10,000, early today, it was reported.

The truck was east bound. When it approached a point near Jones service garage, six armed men leaped in front of it, covering the driver, John Smythe, with their guns and forcing him to stop.

The truck was turned around. While two of the men stayed with the driver, the others drove away in the truck. Three hours later the truck, empty, was returned to the driver.

State police are investigating.

CHINA FLOODS BRING FAMINE, PESTILENCE

By EDWARD HUNTER
International News Service.
(Copyright, 1932, International News Service, Inc.)

HARBIN, Manchuria, Aug. 12.—The blighting hand of cholera, coupled with disastrous fires and famine, are adding to the horror and desolation caused by the worst floods in the modern history of Manchuria.

MAKES SURVEY

I returned today from a survey of the afflicted region surrounding Harbin. I discovered on my return that this cosmopolitan center, which successfully resisted damage in the Sino-Japanese conflict, had also been overtaken by the floods.

Two-thirds of the foreign quarter are under water. The night life of this so-called "Paris of the East" has been suddenly extinguished. The devastating effects of nature's elements on a rampage have done what machine guns and cannon could not do.

Over an area of hundreds of square miles, plague, flood and fire have crushed the lives from countless thousands. No adequate checkup of the casualties is obtainable. Hundreds are dying every day—either drowned or left black-faced and immobile by cholera.

PLAGUE BREAKS OUT

Despite utmost precautions, the plague broke out in Harbin. In Sansing it is raging unchecked.

A steady stream of flood victims is floating past the city. Japanese troops have completely isolated the Tungliao region, where 3,000 Chinese rebels died from the plague and 1,000 more are stricken.

The flood belt covers an area of several hundred miles wide and 400 miles long, an area in which virtually all crops have been destroyed with damage estimated by Japanese military authorities at scores of millions of dollars.

Syria Temple Holds Annual Outing

Several thousand Shriners, their families and friends are at Kennywood Park today for the annual outing held by Syria Temple. Hundreds of baskets of food were given away to the needy and an extensive athletic program was a feature of the day. John G. Daub is general chairman of the committee in charge.

BUYERS' & MANAGERS' SALE

EMPIRE TRADE PACT NEAR

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 12.—(AP.)—Great Britain and Canada, whose problems have constituted the most difficult bridge the imperial trade conference has had to cross, were reported virtually agreed on a trade conference plan today and arrangements were begun to bring the conference to a close next Thursday.

Asked if the British-Canadian accord held the prospect of breaking the American domination of the Canadian market, Malcolm MacDonald, son of the British prime minister, said the idea of British preference was not aimed at the trade of any foreign country.

The question of silver monetization was said to be practically out of the picture. The committee on methods of economic co-operation was reported to have made satisfactory progress on grades and standards for agricultural products.

Swinnerton Kin Marriage on Rocks

SAN JOSE, Cal., Aug. 12.—(AP.)—The second marriage of the former Mary Elizabeth Swinnerton, daughter of the artist and cartoonist, James Swinnerton, was on the rocks today. In an annulment suit on file here the husband, Robert Ewing Morrow, Stanford University graduate, said Mrs. Morrow refused to live with him.

The Morrows were married in Minden, Nev., less than two months ago in an elopement. Mrs. Morrow formerly was Mrs. Ralph Winfield Scott.

Holdup Man Begins 5 to 10-Year Sentence

DEARBORN FORD PLANT CLOSES

DETROIT, Aug. 12.—(AP.)—The Ford Motor Company announced that operations in the Dearborn plant and offices were suspended last midnight, to be resumed on September 6, the day after Labor Day.

A few thousand men will be kept at work during the "vacation period," the announcement said.

All of the 35 American branches of the company will continue in production on a three or four-day week schedule during the period.

Home Afire, Invalid Remains in Bed

OAKLAND, Cal., Aug. 12.—(AP.)—His home was on fire but P. J. Evans, 87, bedridden for 10 years, could not be moved.

Firemen, told an attempt to move him would be fatal, covered the invalid with a rubber sheet, supplied him with oxygen from a tank to prevent suffocation from smoke, and then successfully combatted the fire. The nurse said her aged patient was not greatly inconvenienced.

W. C. T. U. HEAD WILL RETIRE

SEATTLE, Aug. 12.—(AP.)—With an announced program to "elect dry congressmen and beat state referendum bills," members of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of the United States will open their fifty-eighth national convention here tonight.

The program was outlined by Mrs. Ella A. Boole, national president of the organization, in those few words as she stepped off the train which brought her here from Evanston, Ill. After announcing she would not seek re-election, she said:

"Regardless of the Republican and Democratic platforms, we are going to continue our opposition to either modification or repeal of the eighteenth amendment."

Mrs. Boole discussed not only the world of the national organization but that of the International W. C. T. U., which she also heads.

2 SLAIN IN ROW OVER MINE

FRANKLIN, Pa., Aug. 12.—(AP.)—Arguments over control of a mine were revealed today as the cause of slaying of two men and the serious wounding of another on the workings near Harrisville.

Ralph Ziccardi, of Grove City, told county officials he had had trouble over the mine he leased from William Hoffman, 73, and that in a rage last night he fired several shots, which killed Hoffman and Arthur Coast, 23, and wounded Peter Coast, 45, uncle of the dead youth. Ziccardi told Sheriff E. M. Voorteis:

"I was very foolish, but I had had a lot of trouble. Lights had been broken out of my mine and other difficulties arose."

Young Coast was shot through the heart. Hoffman succumbed soon after in a hospital of a wound in the chest. Peter Coast is shot in the side and is in a hospital here.

Ziccardi fled soon after the accident, but surrendered early today to Chief of Police James Reed in Grove City.

RUSSIA PLANS NO U. S. LOAN

MOSCOW, Aug. 12.—(AP.)—Soviet Russia has not attempted to market any of its domestic loans in the United States or other foreign countries, nor does it intend to try to float a bond issue in America, especially as long as the present absence of official relationship between the two countries continues, it was said authoritatively today.

Reports published in New York that such action had been taken or was contemplated in anticipation of eventual recognition of Soviet Russia by the United States were described here as inaccurate.

MISS ETHEL BARRYMORE

GROCERY BILL FACES ETHEL

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Aug. 12.—(AP.)—A judgment of $597.19, representing an unpaid grocery bill, was entered today against Ethel Barrymore, the actress.

The judgment was awarded Charles Cohen, of Larchmont, N. Y., as assignee of the Oriente Market, of Mamaroneck, N. Y. Service was made by posting a notice on the door of the actress' home here after a process server called 17 times in vain, and the judgment was by default.

A judgment of $2,000 for an unpaid butcher's bill was filed against Miss Barrymore last year.

HITLER DELAYS BERLIN PARLEY

BERLIN, Aug. 12.—(INS.)—The momentous meeting between President Paul von Hindenburg and Adolf Hitler, at which the fiery Nazi leader's demand for the chancellorship was to come to a showdown today before the stubborn and aged President, apparently will not be held until tomorrow.

While Chancellor Franz von Papen and the powerful minister of the interior, Gen. Kurt von Schleicher, were waiting to receive Hitler in conference as a preliminary to the Hindenburg-Hitler meeting, a report came from Munich, Nazi headquarters in Bavaria, that Hitler would not be in Berlin until Saturday.

JAPS HINT PU-YI RECOGNITION

TOKIO, Aug. 12.—(AP.)—Recognition of Henry Pu-Yi's government in Manchukuo by Japan was declared today by the Foreign Office spokesman to be nearer because the government learned that the report of the League of Nations inquiry commission will contain findings and recommendations utterly unacceptable to the Japanese.

The report is now being completed by the commission at Peiping.

As a result of its character, the spokesman said, the government feels strongly that early recognition of the Pu-Yi regime is necessary to show the world that Japan is determined to maintain her stand in Manchuria.

He added, however, that the recognition is not likely to be announced before the commission's report is received and published at Geneva, which probably will be late in September.

Lytton Ill, Delays Manchurian Report

PEIPING, Aug. 12.—(INS.)—The Earl of Lytton, British chairman of the League of Nations Manchurian investigating committee, ill in a Peiping hospital, today was prohibited from continuing the work which he has been conducting in bed in an effort to speed completion of the committee's report.

Libby Holman, Singer of Songs

The whole Libby Holman affair is so puzzling . . . It seems as though there is an unseen giant who floats silently above Broadway and every now and then puts his finger on your shoulder . . . Then you suddenly become the front-page name of the hour; the name that bounces like a Roman desultor on the tongues of jibbering house-wife gossips, bustling men of industry, and even of the soft-spoken patient lads who work silently in the laboratories experimenting on life . . . Like a flash your name speeds millions of cross-miles on the wires from news association to the pounding presses, from telegraph ticker to the electric-photographic plates of the magazines . . . From a million lips to a million ears . . . Throughout the entire nation, thousands of messengers are frantically carrying the tidings of your success or your failure or your discovery. . . . The world is organized to conduct the work set for it by the touch of the invisible finger that comes at you when you least expect it.

Libby and I were sitting on the observation platform of a Pennsylvania flier in the early fall of 1928 . . . We were hurrying to Pittsburgh for the opening of Ned Wayburn's "Gambols," into which she was to be injected at the last minute . . . The show had had its troubles for weeks and the addition of this talented singer was looked upon as a life-saver . . . And so anxious was the producer that she be in Pittsburgh in time for the first curtain that he asked me to accompany her all the way from New York . . . As the train sped through the rumpled stretches of the mountains, Libby and I talked about everything . . . She had come to New York to attend Columbia University . . . To get a master's degree, which meant at least six years of study . . . And she got it . . . "All my life I wanted to push myself up to the peak of intelligence," she told me as we rolled along . . . Libby's throaty voice was always in evidence in her quietest moments of speech . . . It had the strange quality of a bass violin string stretched across the mouth of a French horn . . . "When I was a little girl, I always wanted to mingle with the kids whose parents were considered smart," she went on . . . "I had a natural repulsion to the vulgar words which children pick up in alleys, and instinctively I moved away when they were spoken . . . When I was 14, I found a volume of Nietzsche in the library of a friend's home and borrowed it . . . It wasn't altogether intelligible to me, but I knew it was smart and profound and I read and re-read it from cover to cover . . . Then I stumbled over some of Oscar Wilde's epigrams in a public library, and it fascinated me so I didn't return it.

Libby's long fingers were enmeshed in the woolen strings of a sweater she was knitting . . . "It's kind of funny talking about Nietzsche and Wilde and knitting a sweater at the same time," she laughed. "But I guess that's the way we all are . . . When Napoleon was conquering the Alps, he probably spent a few stray thoughts on the luxury of an evening in Paris with Josephine . . . Those are the paradoxes of ambition . . . When I finally came to Broadway, the steam of the streets enraptured me . . . I forgot all about the law I intended to practice . . . What good was law, when you had suddenly grown up and discovered that it wasn't law you wanted? . . . You see, what children need most is travel . . . They develop ambitions they are never suited to fulfill merely because they take their parents' word for it . . . In New York all my years of college work proved a burden . . . I wanted to sing . . . I wanted people to hear me sing . . . I wanted fame . . . It's a queer bug that stings you, but there's no antidote for the bite . . . So I turned to the stage . . . Well, here I am going to Pittsburgh to sing in another big show and if it's a success, it'll be great for me. I haven't had much opportunity yet to do all that heavy singing for what we laughingly call our public, but who can tell?" . . .

Wayburn's show was a bust. . . . It finally came to the Knickerbocker Theater and even at a $3 top it failed to attract . . . But it wasn't a complete failure, for out of its tapestries and dialogues and dancing feet came a great artiste—Libby Holman was a star . . . The invisible finger was upon her . . . Morrie Ryskind, collaborator in "Of Thee I Sing," wrote the sketches and a few of the lyrics that carried Libby to her heights . . . but her best song was an old one: "Montmartre Rose" . . . For the four weeks that the fol-de-rol endured, Libby stopped the show nightly . . . She meandered in and out of the stage-tables of a Parisian cafe with a cigaret tray suspend from her delicate neck and a crimson rose dangling from her wide comb . . . There may have been something prophetic in the words of the song.

A few months after the show closed I met Libby again on a train; this time it was a Long Island commuter jogging along toward Elmhurst . . . "I'm the happiest girl in the world," she told me. "I've been cast for the 'Little Show,' with Clifton Webb and it looks so good I'm certain it will be a hit . . . Somehow or other, I've never been able to get into a real success, and I'm beginning to feel that I'm a hoodoo to any producer who casts me . . . But don't tell anybody, now, will you?"

The opening night flashed along, and "Moanin' Low," the hit song number, brought the heaviest applause that ever came from one of Broadway's gaudily brilliant audiences . . . The drama defenders dashed madly to their typewriters . . . The presses rolled; the town awoke next morning with a new star in its theatrical horizon . . . The giant's hand had touched Libby with all five fingers, and she was a name—a name of the first water . . . A lawyer turned blues-singer—a master of arts degree hanging over an undressing-room table—Alma Mater's ghost hovering in the far reaches of the theater, trying to be seen despite the light of the bulbs that rimmed her full-length mirror . . . It was the Big Night . . . I went back-stage to congratulate her . . . Libby was hysterically happy and was kissing everybody . . . In her nearsightedness, which is probably her worst affliction, she was mistaking one friend for another, but nothing mattered . . . She had been touched in the great game of "Tag, You're It."

Then the Great God Uncertainty punched her full force between the eyes . . . . The same god who smacked a terrific right to Hushka and Carlson and who mowed before him Doumer of France and the Lindbergh baby . . . . He comes from nowhere and spots you as the next fodder for the Front Pages . . . There's neither rhyme nor reason in his movements and he's as stealthy as a tropical tornado . . . Somebody had ordered the curtain lowered, but Libby's nearsightedness left her in its downward path . . . . Smack! . . . . The greatest of torch-singers was hit! . . . . By the very curtain that had brought her to fame . . . Winston-Salem, N. Carolina, is a small town with wide lawns and terraces that lead down to the water . . . . Old colonial spirits still bob up and down through its tree-arched lanes and darkies still sing their Civil War lore as dusk weaves its fantasies in the tobacco fields . . . Libby is indicted for murder! . . . . Libby, whose knitting needles clicked with the roll of the wheels over the tracks to her first big show . . . . Libby, whose widow's black covers a quivering, songless throat.

Cohan Bends Head to Law

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1932, King Features Synd., Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 12.

Is it comical or not when an actor can't sing his own song, written by himself for his own play, without getting permission from someone else? Well, that is what happened to George M. Cohan.

George M. Cohan

After Cohan worked the song into the production, he suddenly had a thought. "Little Johnny Jones had been sold to Warner Brothers and had been produced with Eddie Buzzell playing the lead. Did he (Cohan) have the right to sing one of its numbers in a motion picture.

Hurried long-distance calls to his attorney in New York confirmed his fears. He did not.

And so, the other day, Cohan, the writer of the piece, had to get in touch with Jack Warner and ask him if he could sing his own song.

The answer, after a big laugh, was yes.

Now everybody breathes easily again.

Broadway producers are on the qui vive, for Joseph M. Schenck left here to buy several new plays for United Artists Pictures. With the sale of "Whistling in the Dark" to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, the film head practically cleaned the slates of impending U. A. productions. He will make a survey of the Broadway field and expects to return home with several stories lined up. While in the East, he also will arrange for the permier of "Rain."

When Bing Crosby and Nick Stuart leave here on that fishing trip to Mexico, they will carry a cameraman along. The two stars hope to shoot enough interesting material to make a short subject that will pay for their vacation. . . . In four weeks, a national magazine starts a series of Ziegfeld articles written by Eddie Cantor and David Freedman. They'll carry the title "Ziggy," which was the backstage nickname for the famous producer. It was Ziegfeld who took Cantor out of a Los Angeles production of "Canary Cottage" and gave him a chance in the "Midnight Frolics." The friendship between the two lasted over 16 years . . . Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer faked 30 famous Russian court paintings for the production of "Rasputin" . . . The film producers continue to sign athletes. Ernie Nevers, Stanford football star of yesteryear, will play the second lead in the Universal serial, "The Lost Special." . . .

Bing Crosby

"Too Expensive," decrees Paramount, and indefinitely postpones the filming of "Madame Butterfly," which was to have been a Sylvia Sidney starring vehicle. The new regime of this studio does not believe the film possibilities of the classic warrant the lavish production.

Joan Crawford Plans Screen Exit

Joan Crawford, who knows exactly what she wants, has begun to plan her final exit from the screen, according to Variety, the theatrical weekly.

"I shall walk off," she said, "at the climax. No, just before the climax. I want to do some really fine things to be remembered by, and then I shall say goodbye, thanks a lot, it was lovely."

Night

New Pictures Opening

Edmund Lowe and his buddy of the screen, Vic McLaglen, are the stars of "Guilty As Hell," a murder mystery spiced with comedy, opening today in the Penn. Lowe portrays a newspaperman and McLaglen a hard-boiled detective.

"Jewel Robbery," with William Powell and Kay Francis, begins a week's run today on the Stanley screen. Powell is cast as a clever jewel robber and Miss Francis as the adventure-loving wife of a millionaire.

To the Warner screen today comes a picture, entitled "Tom Brown of Culver," with Slim Summerville, Tom Brown, H. B. Warner, Andy Devine and Richard Cromwell. It's a story of a boy's life in a military academy.

Opening tomorrow in the Sheridan Square is Jean Harlow, of the widely publicized tresses, in "Red Headed Woman." Supporting Miss Harlow is Chester Morris and Lewis Stone.

"Bring 'Em Back Alive," Frank Buck's sensational picture filmed in the Malayan Jungles, is on view in the Enright opening today, to remain four days. Succeeding it will be Loretta Young in "Week-End Marriage."

The current attraction in the Fulton is Paul Muni in his starring film, "The Valiant."

"Come to the Rendezvous" is the title of the German film which opens Monday in the Avenue Cinema. The cast is headed by Ralph Arthur Roberts, comedian, and Alexandra von Engstoem.

Barrymores to Play Romance Film

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer announces that John and Lionel Barrymore and possibly Diana Wynyard will have leading roles in "Reunion in Vienna," scheduled to go into production at Culver City following completion of the untitled story co-starring the three Barrymores, Ethel, John and Lionel. "Reunion in Vienna" is the Theater Guild play by Robert E. Sherwood, which won the Megrue prize for comedy during the past season.

Lopez Orchestra to Be in Picture

Vincent Lopez and his orchestra have been signed by Paramount to appear in "The Big Broadcast." This orchestra joins such outstanding radio attractions as Bing Crosby, Kate Smith, the Boswell Sisters, the Mills Brothers, Cab Calloway, Burns and Allen and Arthur Tracy, as well as a strong screen cast headed by Stuart Erwin and Leila Hyams.

BITS OF LIFE

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

In Which the Customers Do the Work

"AFTER ALL these years," writes Sally Lee, "I still can't get over it. Six years ago I came to New York. I was practically flat broke, but I had distinct hopes of gaining entrance to a booking office without so much as shoving anybody aside. And was I disillusioned? Well, that's the only respectable way I can think of putting it.

"After existing on beans for too long a time, I was confronted with the realization that it was necessary for me to do something more than search for a job as a leading lady. With nothing else in the offing, I decided to become a telephone operator. And why not? I had heard plenty of cursing in my 17 years—which was six years ago, if you please.

"There was one difficulty, however. Someone told me that applicants for such positions had to be residents of New York at least five years before they could hope for a job. More, one had to have a clear voice, a good record and a few whatnots.

"Well, it was a question of getting that job—or going hungry for a long, long time. For two weary weeks, I practiced faithfully the New York lingo. I practiced thrilling my threes, 'naming my nines, and attempting to give out an 'opreter' as well as any of them. Then I went out to get my job.

"When I walked into the 'Personnel Office' I admit my appearance was quite attractive, although my inner emotions weren't. A hard-boiled woman handed me an application to fill. I jotted down mere words, which were about as true as pre-election promises.

"The only true answer I gave was the one asking me if I had ever been a telephone operator before. The other questions were another 'me' entirely. But I couldn't help myself. If I had told the truth about myself and admitted that I came from another city, I would have had no chance for a job that I needed very, very much.

"Scanning the application, the lady with the hard-boiled look must have approved of it because she asked me to follow her into the next room. I did so, but I did so nervously. I knew what was coming next—a voice test.

"Well, Mark, my two weeks of practice had turned me into something of an expert. I trilled my three, 'nianed' my nines, and 'opretered' like nobody's business. After the test, I was patting myself on the back when my eyes met those of the other woman.

"'Miss Lee,' she drawled slowly, 'your application states that you have never been a telephone operator.'

"'That's right,' I returned pleasantly.

"Much to my surprise, she slammed the paper on the desk and pointed a long finger at me.

"'Miss Lee,' she almost shouted, 'this company employs only honest women. My long experience enables me to recognize a telephone operator whenever she talks.

"'There is no doubt in my mind that you have been dismissed from some exchange and are now using another name to get in again. You will please go!'

And so, Mark, I never did get the job. I don't suppose it's quite dramatic enough for your column, but it is amusing to me. Here I had given two truthful answers: my right name and the fact that I had never been a telephone operator. And they tossed me out for these truths, when everything else I had written had been untrue!"..

"JUST found the ideal man for these times," wires David Murray, of Bridgeport, Conn. "He's a Nudist who can go without food, too!"...

"ABOUT three months ago," writes Al Klein, "a friend of mine—a corset salesman—was driving his car a bit too swiftly through one of the nearby suburban towns. He was stopped by the police force, who was a large and sinewy man.

"There was the usual bawling out and the usual plea by my friend that he had not been going fast. The matter ended with the promise of the salesman to send the officer's wife a corset. Whereupon there was no ticket given, although the officer swore it was the first time he had ever done such a thing. The salesman sent the corset the following day and forgot the incident.

"Last week, he happened to be driving through the same town when he saw the policeman again. My friend grinned broadly and saluted him. The officer looked at him for a moment without returning the salutation.

"'What's the matter?'" smiled my friend. "'Don't you remember me?'"

"The light dawned on the policeman.

"'Why, sure,' he cried, 'sure I remember you. You're that shoe salesman, ain't you?'"...

"I READ that line in your column," writes Al Schwartz, "where Gloria Geiser says she has the dumbest girl friend in the world because the gal said it was a shame the depression had to come in these hard times.

"Well, I've got a boy friend who would make a swell match for her. He's such a dope his mother had to smuggle him into the country!"...

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Lenore Ulric will characterize a famous dancer in "Nona," play by Gladys Unger that will go into rehearsal next week. Its premiere will take place in the Garrick Theater, Philadelphia, September 12. Arthur Margetson, English actor, is on the way across the Atlantic to play opposite the star. Since Miss Unger is in the habit of writting successful plays, there is promise that Miss Ulric will have a more satisfactory vehicle than her last two, "Pagan Lady" and "The Social Register." The latter, by John Emerson and Anita Loos, was the season opener in the Nixon last September.

Although filming of "The Sign of the Cross" has been proceeding for two weeks, no person has yet been selected for one of the important roles. A woman is wanted to play the part of Ancaria, Nero's favorite in the story. According to Cecil B. DeMille, the producer, all the dame will need to have will be a perfect figure, beautiful face, exceptional dramatic talent and ability to sing and dance in the Salome fashion.

Muni Is Star In Fulton

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

As if sensing the weakness of "The Valiant" as a featured attraction on its screen, the management of the Fulton has packed its program with interesting short pictures. Thus, if any patron is dissatisfied with what should be the principal film on the bill, as this reviewer was, there is sufficient compensation in the amusing "Flip, the Frog," animated cartoon comedy, the Hearst Metrotone News and novelty film, showing diverting activities of prominent photoplay folk in Hollywood.

"The Valiant" is a screen treatment of a one-act play by Holworthy Hall and Robert Middlemass, with Paul Muni in the principal role. As a playlet, shown in vaudeville theaters a few seasons ago, it was tense, gripping, dramatic—sure-fire stuff.

All the action in the stage version takes place in the office of the warden of a prison, a few minutes before the time set for the execution of a mysterious prisoner, a confessed murderer. He is visited by a girl who thinks he may be her long-missing brother. He denies he ever had a sister, and sends her away in the belief that her brother could be no murderer. But the audience gets the impression that he is the man she thought he was, and that he has successfully shielded his family from any disgrace.

In the photoplay the action harks back to the childhood days of the girl and her brother, also to other scenes, and thus it becomes involved in a lot of hokum that, instead of building up to the "big moment" in the warden's office, actually diminishes it. The result is that all of what should be the punch emerges as just so much blooey.

The picture is three years old, and evidently is being "reissued" by the maker at this time to cash in on the popularity of Muni, a prominent stage actor who is starred in a current film "Scarface." Muni does well even in "The Valiant," but his artistry is ineffective. Marguerite Churchill plays the girl with no success at all, and John Mack Brown has a role of no significance.

How One Woman Lost 47 Lbs of Fat

In 3 Months and Feels Years Younger

"I have been taking Kruschen Salts for nearly 3 months. I have continued taking one teaspoonful in warm water every morning. I then weighed 217 pounds, was always bothered with pains in my back and lower part of abdomen and sides.

"Now I am glad to say I am a well woman, feel much stronger, years younger and my weight is 170 pounds. I do not only feel better but I look better, so all my friends say.

"I shall never be without Kruschen Salts, will never cease taking my daily dose and more than glad to highly recommend it for the great good that is in it." Mrs. S. A. Solomon, New Bern, N. C. "P. S. You may think I am exaggerating by writing such a long letter but truly I feel so indebted to you for putting out such wonderful salts that I cannot say enough."

A bottle of Kruschen Salts that lasts 4 weeks costs but a few cents.

When reducing, attention to diet will help—cut down on pastry and fatty meals—go light on potatoes, butter, cream and sugar—the Kruschen way is the safe way to lose fat.

To take off fat harmlessly and safely take one teaspoon of Kruschen in a glass of hot water every morning—don't worry—it's the safe way to reduce.

But be sure for your health's sake that you ask for and get Kruschen Salts. Get them at any drugstore in the world and if the results one bottle brings do not delight you—do not joyfully satisfy you—why, money back.

Legislators Fail to Profit by Session

By MARK SHIELDS

Wrapping up the weekly loose ends of a loose-ended Legislature, it is a reasonable assumption from the evidence that adjournment may come next week — or some time—with practically nothing done in the way of discovering money for relief of the unemployed.

Mr. Shields

The blocs which have formed within the House are so far apart on their ideas of taxation and financing that co-operation behind any program is almost hopeless. There may be some magic change in sentiment, but every indication is that the cigaret tax will make little more headway than did the discarded occupational and income tax bills.

There seems to be in both House and Senate sufficient adverse sentiment to prevent passage of a bill transferring any substantial sum from the highway fund to the general fund for relief purposes. The rural members, eager for roads, are lined up solidly against this proposal, and within the Allegheny County delegation there are members who hesitate to vote for the shift because they are hopeful of roads for their localities.

Economy Measure Fails To Meet Relief Needs

As to the economy bill, designed to reduce the costs of government, there is no possibility that a sum can be—rather will be—saved sufficient to meet the requirements of the Talbot $12,000,000 relief bill. The House has refused to approve economies of no more than $14,000,000. The Governor says he will not sign a bill shearing off $20,000,000, the sum demanded by the lower branch of the Assembly.

There results another stalemate, another of the numerous blockades which have marked the seven weeks of this special session. There should be economy in government, and there could be, but there is no legislation which can make reductions in costs uniform, no legislation which can compel the courts, for instance, to reduce their expenses and slash the salaries of judges.

The relief contribution so far is a bill permitting Philadelphia and Pittsburgh to tax for relief purposes anything which already is not taxed by the state. There are members who know this is not the whole solution, that in economic common sense, the communities already suffering the greatest from unemployment, should not be compelled to bear alone the cost of its relief.

Legislators No Longer Benefit by Session

Even members of the Legislature, who through a salary of $500 for the special session, for a time appeared to be the only relief beneficiaries of a Harrisburg summer, now face a different situation. In addition to what losses they may suffer by absence from their business—if any—they must pay their own expenses in Harrisburg, and there is little surplus from $500 after eight weeks here.

This paragraph is offered in deference to the Hon. Joseph Lynch and the equally honorable Frank Hoffman, members from Allegheny County, who have felt statements in this column that the Legislators so far were the only beneficiaries are unfair.

However, had the Legislature done in three weeks—as it could have—what it has failed to do in seven, the members would be in better financial condition.

Utilities' Investigation Appears Assured

Investigation by the Senate of the public utility mess, the allegation by Gov. Pinchot that utility companies through improper influences have been granted favors by one or more commissioners, seems certain. When the Governor first talked to the Senate Tuesday with his demand for an investigation there was a disposition by some members to dismiss the request with the observation that the Governor had not added to his original charges against former Chairman W. D. B. Ainey.

Within a day, however, it occurred to Senators that charges serious enough to compel the resignation of a commissioner rather than face a trial did not require much embroidery.

The Senate organization coterie conferred with State Chairman Edward Martin, but again was beaten to the punch, as it has been throughout this utility controversy. While the organization hesitated, Senator Frank J. Harris presented a resolution demanding a committee of inquiry. It was a jolt to the organization.

It convinced their circle that this subject is one which no longer can be brushed aside. Intelligent utility representatives in Harrisburg recognize that an investigation is inevitable. The only question is, shall it be friendly or actually inquisitorial.

Chances are the Harris resolution will not be passed. A plan is afoot to have some organization member next Tuesday introduce a similar resolution, carrying an appropriation. Just what is to be accomplished by such subterfuge—except to prevent Harris becoming chairman of the committee—is beyond ordinary comprehension. But so have been most of the strategic moves of the regular Republican organization in this special session.

Perhaps the organization will then attempt to say that it has brought about the inquiry. That claim will be accepted nowhere.

RIIS DENIES ALL PARK WASTE CHARGES

Director Gets Day in Court to Reply To Accusers

A sweeping denial of charges of payroll padding, waste and extravagance in his administration as head of the county parks was made by Paul B. Riis when he appeared before Leo Riordan, head of the bureau of claims and investigations, today.

Questioned by his counsel, Attorney Oliver K. Eaton, Riis declared the parks as they stand today were a direct answer to the charges.

He was not cross-examined.

OFFERS DEFENSE

Riis declared former Commissioner E. V. Babcock had given him permission to remodel a partly destroyed barn into living quarters for a stable boss.

Riis denied that a pile of lumber stored behind a buffalo pen had been discarded. He asserted that it would be used soon.

Charges that machinery had been left exposed to weather were also denied by Riis, who blamed the former board for refusing permission to build shelter sheds.

DENIES WASTE

Riis declared that no money had been wasted and declared no material nor labor had been used outside the parks.

Death of a buffalo in the park, which accusers of Riis had laid to neglect, was due to oily water in the park, the director said.

County Solicitor Paul Fife, Assistant County Solicitors Raloh H. Frank and Churchill B. Mehard and Assistant District Attorney E. T. Adair attended the hearing but did not interrogate Riis.

2 BANDITS ROB SHOE STORE

Two bandits who rifled the cash register in the W. L. Douglas shoe store, 417-19 East Ohio street, of $65 after taping the hands and feet of C. R. May, 55, a clerk, of 1229 Woodbourne avenue, in the rear room of the store late yesterday, were being sought by police today.

Five minutes after the bandits' departure, G. J. Smith, manager, returned to the store, found May and released him.

The store has been held up seven times in the last five years. Two years ago Smith shot one of two bandits who robbed the place. Both were captured and are serving penitentiary terms.

SNEEZERS AIDED BY WEED BAN

Good news for hay fever victims!

Director C. B. Maits, of the Department of Health, announced today he is enforcing the ordinance requiring property owners to cut the weeds on their premises more than a foot in height. He said:

"We are doing this to try to help hay fever victims. Sometimes we have difficulty in serving owners of premises with notices. This is particularly true in estates and where owners also are absent from the city. The weed ordinance gives us authority to see weeds do not become a nuisance to the health of the community."

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Aug. 12.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Here yesterday was a good illustration of how these market boosters can pull a bad one. Yesterday farm machinery went up on the stock market. Now there is not a farmer in the U. S. that can pay his taxes, or his groceries. Now how is he going to buy any farm machinery. He has no credit if he wanted to. He couldn't get a garden hoe, much less a threshing machine. He can plow with a forked stick and raise more than he can sell. So that raise don't look so hot. That's like Xmas trees going up at New Years. Everybody is trying to tune in on Seabury being investigated by Walker. Our investigations have always contributed more to amusement than they have to knowledge. Yours, WILL.

Development of Baby Gladiolus Results in Poor Man's Orchid

Bulbs Once Costing $1,000 Each, Now Five Cents

Beauty of the gladiolus can be shared equally by rich or poor gardener. In fact, development of the "baby glad" today has made it the poor man's orchid, according to nationally known growers in competition at the national show of the American Gladiolus Society, which closes tomorrow night at the William Penn Hotel.

Five cents will purchase a bulb of the variety that sold for $1,000 in 1918, according to A. E. Kunderd, of Goshen, Ind., pioneer grower and one of the largest in the country. Kunderd developed the first ruffled variety.

Explaining how the beauty of the flower does not govern its cost, Mr. Kunderd said:

"Today's trend is the development of the baby glad. It lends itself to the corsage, to the coat lapel and to table decorations. It is becoming the poor man's orchid. The resemblance is marvelous."

WILL ASK WRIT IN POISON PLOT

Attorney Joseph Schutzman today said he would apply for a writ of habeas corpus to free Mrs. Anna Allas and Mrs. Mary Chalfa, who were jailed late yesterday along with Mrs. Gizella Young on murder charges in the alleged Munhall poison plot.

Schutzman declared the charges against Mrs. Allas and Mrs. Chalfa, alleged to have been named by Mrs. Young in her reputed confession, were "preposterous." He conferred with the two in jail today.

Two deputy coroners, James E. Carroll and John Artz, today were detailed to make an exhaustive investigation in the alleged plot.

The three women were committed on murder charges by the Coroner after County Chemist F. C. Buckmaster submitted a final report that poisons found in the exhumed bodies of James Mantyo, first husband of Mrs. Allas, and Richard Duyva, aged 1 year, were not attributable to embalming fluid.

BANK BUILDING SALE SOUGHT

To aid in the reorganization of the Homewood Peoples Bank, in possession of the State Banking Department since October 21, 1931, a petition was filed in Common Pleas Court by Secretary of Banking William D. Gordon, through Deputy Hugh G. Nevin, for permission to sell the bank property at 618 North Homewood avenue, originally appraised at $90,000, to the new Homewood Bank at Pittsburgh for $75,000—declared a fair offer. Hearing was fixed for August 24.

NEARBY TOWNS TO JOIN COX CAVALCADE

Captains Confer Here On Proposed Trek To St. Louis

One thousand men and women from Greensburg and other parts of Westmoreland County will join the trek of Father James R. Cox Sunday when he leaves for St. Louis for the national convention of the Jobless-Liberty party, Attorney Austin Staley, aide to the priest, said today.

Homestead also will send a big delegation. Earl Dean, Mayor of Coxtown and one of the adjutants for the trip, said at least 600 men will go by truck from Homestead. He has arranged for the trip which will cost about $3 a person for the round trip.

The followers of the priest will begin gathering at Old St. Patrick's Church at 10 o'clock Sunday morning, although the trip is not scheduled to get under way until 1.

Several captains of the Blue Shirt units in Westmoreland County visited St. Patrick's yesterday and reported to Father Cox on the delegation from the Greensburg district.

Father Cox will make his last public address before leaving for the convention at a mass meeting tomorrow afternoon in the Temple of Music at Conneaut Lake Park. There will be no admission charge and any contributions will be divided between the relief fund of Father Cox and the Crawford County welfare fund. The meeting is held under the auspices of Crawford County business men.

An invitation to Father Cox to hold his convention at Conneaut Lake Park, if a last minute change from St. Louis is contemplated, was extended by Homer Searles, chairman of the new political party at the summer resort. Father Cox, who speaks in Conneaut Lake Park tomorrow, does not expect any change however.

JAILED PASTOR SEEKS RELEASE

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Aug. 12.—(INS.)—Remanded to jail pending trial after a plea of not guilty on arraignment on a charge of murder in connection with the poison death of his first wife, the Rev. S. A. Berrie, love verse writing pastor, today directed his legal counsel to proceed with a habeas corpus action to procure his release.

The preacher, whose marriage to Ida Bess Berrie, 19-year-old Sunday School teacher, two months after the death of his first mate, led to the investigation that resulted in his detention, was indicted by a grand jury for first degree murder, an unbailable charge.

HOME ECONOMY CREDITED BY HERRON

Further Slash in Cost Of Collections Expected

Figures submitted to John S. Herron, president of Council, indicate the city will save approximately $100,000 this year on the garbage and rubbish contract, President Herron said:

"Of course the depression has something to do with it. People are not throwing as much food into the garbage can as they did. Then again, many do not have any to throw. Modern methods used in disposing of garbage and rubbish, in apartment houses is also helping."

Herron remarked $50,000 has already been taken out of the garbage setup for the year. In 1931 the city spent $1,105,000. Herron expects considerable saving in 1933. Much could be done by citizens burning rubbish where possible and by taking every precaution not to be wasteful.

Herron continued:

"During the first week in August there was a saving of 720 tons in collections. For July, garbage and rubbish collected was 3,404 tons less than for the same month last year."

The city pays $7.02 a ton to collect rubbish and $7.95 a ton to collect garbage on the North Side and $6.58 and $7.82 respectively in other parts of the city.

Dr. C. B. Maits, director of the Department of Health, said during the first half of last year there was a saving in collections, but it was offset the last half. However, Dr. Maits agreed with Herron, there should be a considerable drop in this expense during the present year.

CAKE FAVORITE SCHOOL DESERT

Cake is the favorite food luxury of high school students, according to the annual report submitted today to the School Board by Mrs. Helen F. Gregg, who is in charge of the city high school cafeterias. She said:

"Children who had money for food luxuries spent it for cake. There were 334,000 more cake sales this year than the previous year. Sales of other deserts decreased."

Although the food orders were smaller this year, the total amount of food used in the cafeterias was greater. All cafeterias used more milk, flour, eggs, butter, beans and potatoes than last year, Mrs. Gregg stated:

"Our receipts decreased $103,367.02 for 1931-32, yet we are buying more food and giving the students more for their money."

Barbecue Enjoined On Drys' Complaint

The Long Run barbecue, Long Run road, Versailles Township, of which Alex Bunovich was named as proprietor, was placed under a temporary injunction by Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker on a bill of complaint filed by prohibition authorities. The bill alleged violations of the dry law on the premises and cited raids as having been made April 4 and July 29. A final hearing will be held September 13.

Duplication of Work By City, County Adds To Burden of Public

The City Bureau of Deed Registry and the office of County Recorder are making duplicate registrations of transfers of real estate in the City of Pittsburgh.

Furthermore the validity of the Act of Assembly of 1915 which created the City Bureau of Deed Registry has been questioned because it conflicts with the act of 1907 which provides that all deeds must first be presented at the County Recorder's office.

The act which created the city bureau gave it the right to collect a fee of 25 cents for each deed registered. This is lost because the county gets all but a few of the deeds first and has refused to make the collection for the city.

City Council appropriated this year for the City Bureau of Deed Registry a total of $13,865. With the exception of the special service that this bureau performs for the City Assessors' office, the money is spent for a duplication of work done by the county.

The city receives a few fees from deeds which are brought direct to the city office. This amounted to $226.25 in 1929, although the total number of city deeds reported at the county office was 10,697. Had the city been able to collect its 25-cent fee, it would have meant an income for the bureau of $2,674.

ELIMINATE WASTE IN GOVERNMENT

Although the city and county solicitors held a conference in 1915 at which it was agreed that the county did not need to collect a fee for the city, nothing ever was done about the duplication of services. It has gone along from year to year, forming a part of the rising costs of city and county government.

AVINOFF UNITES SCIENTISTS OF 4 NATIONS

Andrey Avinoff, director of Carnegie Museum, got from Europe what the great diplomats couldn't. He got co-operation.

Returning from Europe after two months, his pet idea, the formation of an international clearing house for interchange of scientific information, was not only accomplished, but was indorsed by the entomologists of the world meeting in Paris, and began to function under the League of Nations. The clearing house, under the International Institute for Intellectual Co-operation, will establish an office.

WORLD OF ADVENTURE

The world that offers adventure to the scientists—the unexplored portion—will be charted. Expeditions will be made possible by the establishment of a fund from which museums may borrow.

New discoveries, as well as old, will be registered through this office. Museums may raise their levels of educational value by utilizing what the others have gathered.

Avinoff said today:

"Funds for expeditions have already been promised. From them, museums can finance expeditions. The charting of the globe—and adventure awaits in many parts of it—will give scientists an idea where they can accomplish most in their study of life and the past.

FOUR NATIONS AGREE

"Four nations, France, Britain, Germany and the United States were represented at our sessions in Geneva.

"Complete museums are naturally our goal. We can help each other through this medium, letting European institutions know what we have, and exchanging with them.

"Dr. W. Undersagt, director of the Museum of Archaeology and Ethnology in Berlin, will present the plan to the Archeological Congress in London. We hope it will co-operate."

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh's Society Happenings

In Mayfair
—With—
Patricia Pitt

The event of events today for Pittsburgh's smart set is taking place miles and miles away, way out on the Pacific Coast, where at the picturesque little church of All-Saints-By-the-Sea in Montecito, exclusive suburb of Santa Barbara, Cal., a girl from the Middle west is marrying one of Pittsburgh's most eligible bachelors.

The bride is vivacious, much-sought after Dorinda Kennerly, daughter of the Claude S. Kennerlys, of St. Louis, and the bridegroom is John Kennedy Beeson, son of Charles E. Beeson, of Morewood avenue.

White Gown

The bride will wear a white satin gown, made with long, tight-fitting sleeves, with old family lace as the only trimming. And instead of a veil she will wear a lace hat, and she will carry a muff of orange blossoms.

Her attendants, her sister, Noel Kennerly, as maid of honor, and Ann Cora Beeson, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. George Pope, of San Francisco, as bridesmaids, will wear gowns of blue-grey crepe and hats of the same shade, and carry late summer flowers.

Father Best Man

The bridegroom will have his father as best man, and the ushers will be Walter Candy, of St. Louis; Edwin Earle, of Los Angeles; William Candy, Philip Carr, Charles Raymond, Jr., and E. Avery McCarthy, Jr.

After the ceremony, there'll be a reception and a dinner in La Casita, the Kennerly California home.

The A. Verner Wassons, of Morewood avenue, brother-in-law and sister of the bridegroom, went to California for the wedding, too. Mr. Beeson and his bride will live in Cleveland, I understand, where Mr. Beeson is in business.

Among those from here who have exhibited at the Wissahickon show are the Lewis A. Parks, of Sewickley Heights, whose Mascot Fuesse last year won the Fairmount challenge trophy for the champion harness pony.

An interesting phase of the Wissahickon horse show is the hunter the most severe tes of abil-steeplechase course, giving the hunter the most sever test of ability possible. Entries for the show, with the prize list calling for 119 classes, close Monday, August 22.

Social affairs in connection with the show will include a dinner in honor of the judge and a dance for the exhibitors and their friends. Many informal affairs at the clubhouse are also held.

Reading matter for Indian girls and boys is greatly in demand by these young people, who spend their vacation days living the primitive lives of their tribes, according to Miss Marguerite Twohy, member of the national Girl Scout field staff in New Mexico. When these children are home from school, their only link with the outside world is through reading.

In a recent training course which Miss Twohy gave for teachers in Indian schools at Fort Wingate, N. M., she had a class of 40 students representing 21 schools and five tribes. These young women feel that through Girl Scouting Indian children will gradually bring better sanitation methods and better living conditions to their own people.

New Federation President Advocates Membership Campaign by Clubs

Grace Morrison Poole, new president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, devotes her first "president's page" in The Clubwoman "to some of your problems and some of mine." Mrs. Poole advocates an "every member get a member" campaign in clubs, speaks of greeting visitors at headquarters from Utah, California, Iowa and Massachusetts, all in one day; asks for constructive criticism of The Clubwoman" and mentions the request for a contribution which every club woman has been asked to make, one-half to go to her State Federation and the other to the General Federation. In conclusion she suggests that town or city budgets and the machinery of city governments be made the subject of study during the coming season.

Among the appointments announced in the magazine are Mrs. S. Blair Luckie (Pennsylvania's legislative chairman for so many years) as chairman of the department of legislation, and Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen who is to serve as advisor in the department of American citizenship.

Some of the biennial addresses are printed; there is an excellent review of State Federation work, junior echoes of the biennial are included in this month's issue and the "Around the World" department is always of interest, for it brings out the more unusual phases of club work.

SUNNING COSTUMES RIVAL BATHING SUITS AT SEASIDE

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Aug. 12. — All of France seems to be spending its days in the sun and on the beaches. At all the fashionable resorts along the Riviera as well as the little fishing villages on the southern coast, the beaches are crowded every minute of the day—not only with bathers, but with those who are taking the sun in bathing suits, in shorts and in pajamas.

SUNNING COSTUMES have become almost more important than bathing suits at seaside places. Paris has invented a thousand and one little gadgets to make sunning at the beach more comfortable. Sweaters, shoes, bathing suits and bathrobes are all taking on more abbreviated forms, in order to simplify the sunning processes.

FAUVETY CONTRIBUTES a whole new list of beach accessories for sunning and bathing. Sweaters are made of woolens that are particularly absorbent, so that they may be put on over bathing suits. Some are made for sun protection—like the one in the sketch with the anchor design at the front. Note that it is only waist length. Others are made especially for sunning one's back—or to protect one's back and leave the throat open to the sun. Beach sandals become practically nothing but soles, held on with lacings.

FOR ACTUAL bathing, there are many suits of the backless variety, with only a tiny strap at the neck. They are all extremely short. White, first, then brown, seem to be the favorite colors of the year. Many of the suits are worn with wide rubber belts that copy the lines and colors of leather belts worn in town. Terry cloth robes are in white and bright orange or turquoise; they are all cut on classic lines—straight and simple, with novelty lacings of wool or rubber for their only decorations.

Celery Aids in Preservation Of Good Health

This Vegetable Is Rich in Vitamins and Every Part of It May Be Utilized.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator From New York, Former Health Commissioner of New York City.

Celery was originally used as a medicinal herb, but today is one of our most valuable foods. For years it grew wild in many parts of this country. It had a bitter taste and was never used as a food. With years of cultivation the taste of the celery plant has been so improved that it is now a vegetable relished by all.

Its bitter taste may have been the reason for its frequent use as a tonic. Though its value was not understood, it was often prescribed in the treatment of scurvy. The word celery means "quick acting" and its beneficial action was believed by many to be almost miraculous.

I can remember when celery was a luxury food and only eaten at Thanksgiving and Christmas dinners. Within recent years the development and cultivation of the celery plant have expanded tremendously. It can now be purchased all year round at a price within the reach of everyone. It is an economical food. Its great economy lies in the fact that every part of the vegetable can be used.

KEEPS LONG TIME

The cultivation of celery requires great care and patience. It grows best in rich, moist, "muck" soil. For early celery, the seed is planted in hot-houses. The plants are later placed in the ground outdoors as soon as the frost has disappeared. Bleaching is necessary to give the celery its creamy white color. The vegetable is easily stored. In order to keep it fresh and in good condition, it should be wrapped in paraffine paper and put in a cool place. In proper refrigerating rooms, the vegetable can be kept for two months.

It was not until the discovery of vitamins that the great value of celery was realized. It is an important food because of its vitamin content. It contains vitamins A, B, C and D. In addition, it contains important mineral salts, as lime, phosphorus, iron and potash. It is an excellent alkaline food. It is a preventative of acidosis and certain infectious diseases. It aids in the preservation of health, which can only be maintained when there is an abundant alkaline reserve in the body.

USED AS TONIC

Celery is still popular as a tonic. It contains potash, which is stimulative to the nervous system and is of nutritive value to the red blood cells of the blood. This may explain the frequent use of celery as a nerve tonic.

Every part of the vegetable can be eaten. The stalks and heart may be eaten raw, either plain or stuffed with cheese. It may be served in salad form, plain or in combination with other vegetables. The outside stalks and leaves can be used in creamed soups or broths. Celery seed is used for seasoning foods. Celery is easily digested and can be given to a year-old child as a strained cream soup.

RECIPES BY PRUDENCE PENNY

LIVER AND BACON WITH FRUIT GARNISH—Pour boiling water over 2 pounds of liver, let stand several minutes, drain and remove blood vessels, skin, etc. Dip in seasoned flour and fry in fat until brown and tender, place slice of pineapple over each slice of liver and on top put half a banana, cut crosswise then lengthwise. (This requires 1 No. 2½ can pineapple and 8 bananas.)

Cut 8 long slices of bacon in halves and cross over the top. Place under broiler flame until bacon is crisp and fruits slightly browned. As the bacon cooks faster than the fruit, it is well to let the fruit start to brown before placing on the bacon. Serves 8.

BAKED STUFFED EGGS—Cut 8 hard-cooked eggs in half lengthwise and mash yolks. Saute ½ cup chopped mushrooms in 2 tablespoons butter till tender and add to yolks. Add 1 teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, ⅛ teaspoon prepared mustard and 2 tablespoons cream and refill whites with mixture. Place in a shallow buttered baking dish. Add ¼ cup cream and seasonings to 1 can corn and pour around the eggs, cover with buttered crumbs and brown in hot oven. Serves 8.

SWEETBREADS AND PEAS CREAMED—1 pair sweetbreads, tablespoons flour, evaporated milk, ½ teaspoon salt, cracker crumbs, few grains pepper, 1 No. 2 can peas or 2 cups freshly cooked peas, 1½ tablespoons butter, 1 cup liquor drained from peas and 1 cup evaporated milk.

Parboil sweetbreads in boiling water to which 1 tablespoon of vinegar has been added. Remove membrane and separate sections. Dip in undiluted evaporated milk and crumbs which have been seasoned with salt and pepper, and brown slowly in butter. Melt butter, blend in flour and salt and when smooth and bubbling, gradually add the liquor drained from peas. Stirring constantly, boil until mixture begins to thicken, then add milk and continue cooking over hot water 5 minutes longer. Add drained peas to sauce. When peas are heated through, serve on rounds of toasted bread with sweetbreads. Six servings.

MOCK LOBSTER SALAD — 1 can flaked fish, ¼ cup chopped celery, 1 chopped hard-cooked egg, 6 sliced stuffed olives, 2 tablespoons chopped pimiento, and ½ cup mayonnaise, ½ cup chili sauce, salt, pepper, paprika.

Combine the mayonnaise, chili sauce and seasoning. Fold in all the other ingredients. Moisten with cream if the mixture is too thick. Chill and serve on crisp lettuce, garnished with pimiento cut in fancy shaps, sliced stuffed olives, and riced egg yolk.

FISH MOLD SALAD—One-half package lemon gelatin, 1 cup boiling water minus 3 tablespoons, 3 tablespoons malt or tarragon vinegar, salt, pepper, paprika and 1 can flaked fish, 1 chopped hard boiled egg, 2 tablespoons chopped pimiento, 6 sliced olives, ¼ cup chopped celery.

Dissolve the gelatin in the boiling water. Add vinegar and seasoning. When cool and starting to thicken, add the other ingredients and pour the mixture into a fish mold. Chill, unmold on lettuce and garnish with pimiento stars

Too Much Sacrificing Never Does Anyone Any Good

Are you, or have you, a family pack horse?

There is one in Annetta's family, and she's it! It all began when she was a child of only 13. She is 32 now—and still packing.

Dad never seemed to make much of a go on jobs, and now he hasn't any, which is nothing new. Then there are three brothers and two sisters, who blithely ran out and married, and added their families to her burden.

Once she had dreams — dreams of love and a little house of her own, of success and happiness. But now the future seems a desert.

REWARD SMALL

Must she keep on? Is it her duty to give her all that they may sail serenely on, free from care?

"Dear Miss Martin:

"I admire you greatly, but there are times when you make me very mad and impatient. Why? I'll tell you. I subscribe to most of your theories, but I can't make them work—for me.

"My life might seem simple, but because I am a human being with emotions, it isn't at all. When I was a very little girl I was taught that it wasn't polite or proper to think of yourself first.

"Nineteen years ago I went to work in an office. I was 13, and my education consisted of grade school only. Today I am 32 and still in an office, but not the same one. I manage a large business. I have built it up till it is one of the largest of its kind in the country. And my reward has been small.

"You may say, 'Why didn't you build up your own business?' Here's why. I couldn't take the chance.

"I have three brothers and two sisters, all younger than I; also a father and a mother. I adore her, and sometimes I pity him, but mostly dislike him. He is the helpless kind, and ever since I started work I have supported them all, mainly.

"Until they all grow up, I can do nothing for myself. I shall work for them, educate them, start them in life. That was what I said to myself. I thought that when they were grown they'd take up the burden, and I'd be free. But it didn't work out that way.

MOTHER WOULD SUFFER

"The eldest married when he was 20. Now his family of three children are added to my burden. My sister married at 18, was divorced, and made her two children my affair. She married again, and has added her husband to 'my family.' My second brother is brilliant, and several months ago I found him a good job. 'Now,' I thought, 'it won't be long.' But as soon as he felt secure in his job he married. I told him he was a quitter, but it did no good.

"The youngest boy is already engaged, and my youngest sister is not strong. So here I am, still tied.

"Perhaps you'll say 'You're a sap. Let them look out for themselves!' But that just makes me mad, because I can't. If they suffered, my mother would suffer.

"When it started, they were all younger than I, and it has all just grown. If I left them now, they'd starve. They would have if I'd left them any time before this.

"I have never been able to even change my job. I couldn't take a chance. I have had many opportunities, but they had to eat. I can't see any way out. I am all washed out. My job drains me. I have no time or strength to play. I can't marry. I have nothing. What's the answer? "ANNETTA."

The answer, Annetta, is: You'd better stop two-timing yourself; for you're doing neither yourself nor your family any good by your senseless sacrifice.

It's noble to help others. But it isn't noble to help them so much that you cripple them, and that's what you have done to your family.

ALWAYS FAILS

You started with a grand idea, but even at the first it was a wrong idea. You wanted to spare your mother all suffering. But mothers are people, like other humans. Why should your mother be spared all suffering? If she married a worthless man, it was up to her to face the consequences of her own foolishness. If she had a family, it was also up to her to train that family in habits of self-reliance. And it certainly was not up to you to take that job off her hands.

I suspect that for a while you got a big bang out of doing it, Annette. I'm one of those Iron Women myself, and I know what a thrill it is to run other people's lives for them. But in the end it always becomes a pain-in-the-neck—for you, and also for them. And now you are facing that fact.

Well, face it, old girl, and get sense. It still isn't too late to take your family out of the ankle chains and handcuffs of dependence which you have forced them into, and to teach them to walk free on their own hind legs.

Not instantly, of course. You may have to continue to help for a little while. But you can start at once to make them feel that their lives are up to them. And if you don't do it, don't come to me looking for a martyr's crown, for personally I'll consider you a plain sap.

Life gives no crowns to those who thwart and waste her. And if you refuse to live your own life, and go on keeping others from living theirs, you're as much a traitor as the man who sells out his country.

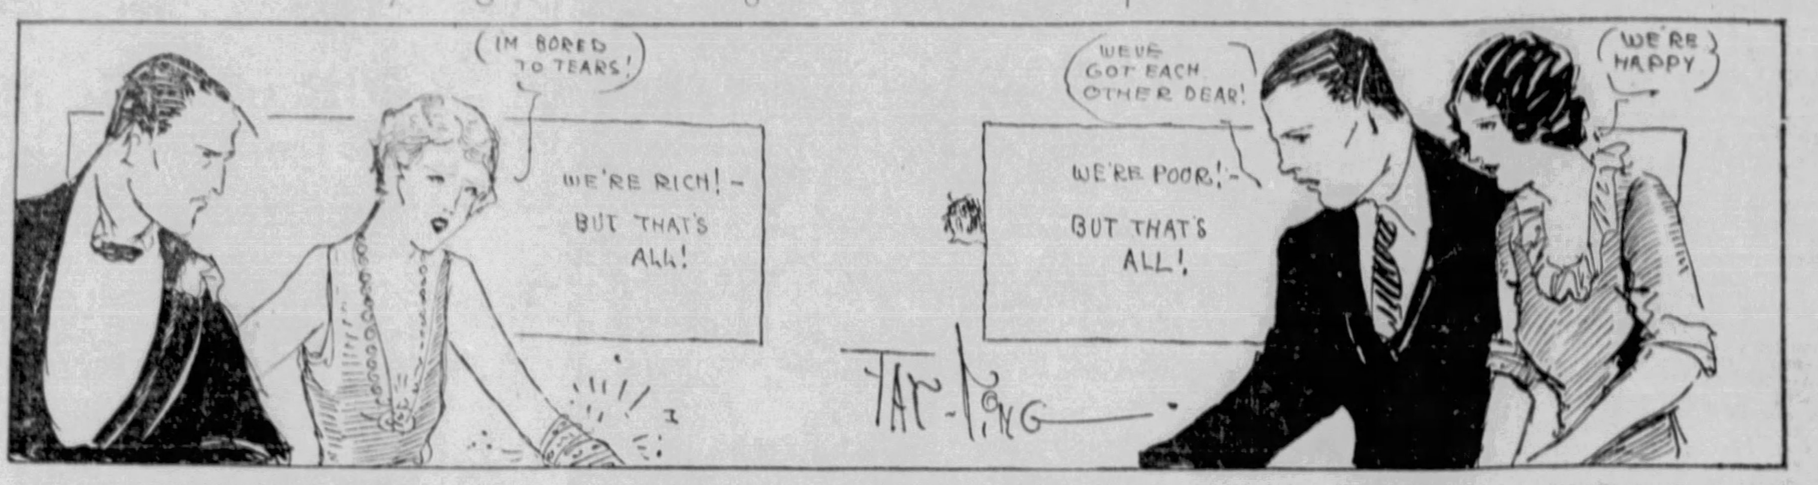
Fay King Stresses Blessings That Are More Important Than Riches



By FAY KING

Reading a volume of letters written by a famous man, I was impressed and have never forgotten these words from one of his early letters when the struggle was discouraging:

"We are very poor just now—but that is all."

In adding "but that is all" it proves he was aware of blessings more important than money.

He had a young wife who loved him and who believed in him, and made their simple abiding place a "little paradise."

They had the courage to make the best of things. They had hope and ambition. They had love and understanding to sustain them in those difficult days.

Better a thousand times to be poor—"but that is all" than to have much money—but THAT is all.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

New Vaccine May Check Ravages of Typhus Fever

The United States Public Health Service announces the discovery of a new vaccine to combat typhus fever. This vaccine has been successfully used on experimental animals, and it is believed that the effect will be equally beneficial when given to human beings.

Dr. Copeland

Typhus fever has been known to mankind for many centuries. Within the last few centuries it has been responsible for many of the so-called "plagues" that have swept the globe periodically destroying thousands of persons. It was prevalent during and shortly after the World War, and is more common in Europe than in this country. The American form is not nearly so severe as the European typhus fever.

Typhus must not be confused with typhoid fever, for the diseases are different. Typhus fever is an infection caused by a germ carried by lice, and usually occurs where large numbers of persons are gathered together under unsanitary conditions. The disease is easily transmitted from one individual to another. In typhus cases there is high fever, but the disease differs from typhoid fever in that certain serious complications of typhoid rarely occur in typhus.

Headache, prostration, sudden chill, fever and a skin rash are some of the symptoms of typhus. The fever on the second day may reach 105 degrees. A reddish rash appears, usually, between the third and fifth days. The typhus rash, at first quite red, turns to a purplish brown and spreads all over the body except the face. In typhoid fever the rash consists of many small reddened spots distributed over the abdomen and chest.

Though the form of typhus fever found in this country is not serious, it requires painstaking care and attention, for when neglected there is always danger of complication in the form of broncho pneumonia.

The body should be kept clean by daily baths. Fresh clothing and bed linen are essential. Contaminated linens should be carefully handled and boiled before using again. Personal cleanliness is necessary for the cure as well as the prevention of this disease.

Typhoid fever, also associated with filth and unhygienic conditions, is caused by the typhoid germ, which may reach the body through contaminated water, milk or food. Fortunately, modern medical science has perfected a vaccine which prevents the occurrence of this disease.

At one time typhoid fever was prevalent throughout the world, but due to improvement in sanitation and universal use of the typhoid vaccine, the disease is now rarely encountered. It is hoped that the vaccine discovered for the prevention of typhus fever will be equally successful in eliminating that disease.

Answers to Health Queries

Q.—Is the use of equal parts of lemon juice and peroxide good for freckles?

A.—Yes, it should prove helpful.

Household Hints

All pickles are improved by the addition of two or three lumps of sugar to the vinegar.

If a baked custard has water at the bottom of the dish it is probably because the milk was not slightly warmed before the eggs were added.

Rub knives and forks that are to be put away with olive oil, and they will retain their brightness and be found free from rust when required again.

When giving away the children's outgrown shoes, don't forget to include their outgrown rubbers. The old rubbers will rarely fit the new shoes and will prove a blessing to the mother receiving the shoes.

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Signatures

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I was married not very long ago and since then have been signing my name "Mrs. Ellen V. Fisher." The "V" stands for Viola, my middle name. I don't know why I did that, but feel somehow that that form is incorrect, and that I should sign my name "Mrs. Ellen A. Fisher," the "A" being the first initial of my maiden name. However, it appears that way on my husband's life insurance policies and on some stock which I own, and as I only had these changes recorded recently, I do not like to request another change again, especially for just one letter. Do you think it would be all right to let these papers stay as they are, and in correspondence and all other occasions hereafter use the signature with the initial of my maiden name?

I realize that with two different initials shown, there may be some difficulty at a later date in proving that there is but one person for the two signatures, and for that reason I am in doubt as to what to do in the matter. (I am referring to occasions that require my own first name.)

READER.

1. This choice in the form of your name is entirely a matter of your own preference. While it is true that most married women do choose to use the form of the first and last names of the maiden name before the last name of the married name ... in your case, Ellen Atwater Fisher ... there are many who prefer to drop the last name of the maiden name and retain the middle name of the maiden name ... Ellen Viola Fisher. And the abbreviation Ellen V. Fisher is correct, though not such good form, for initials are never in such good form as the name spelled out.

I agree with you that it would be a terrific amount of trouble for you to have all these changes made, and there doesn't seem to be any real necessity for this. You do sign your checks in the same form in which these papers are signed, don't you? That is important.

Contract Bridge -:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Approaching Bids

The great majority of hands lend themselves much more readily to Approach bidding than to Forcing bidding. When there is uncertainty as to what the final declaration should be—in fact, as to whether or not the hand should be played on the defense or on the attack—the counsel of prudence and common sense is to approach the goal carefully and to feel out each forward step, so that the opponents may not be able to inflict a stinging penalty, and contrariwise, so that the partnership, if it holds the controlling cards, may reach the correct eventual declaration—either game or Slam—with the certainty that they have safeguarded themselves as far as possible.

In my mail the other day, I received the hand below. My correspondent lamented that East and West had failed to reach the Small Slam which the cards should produce, because West had opened with a bid of four clubs. The bid was a very bad one, because West had available a much better bid, the Approach bid of one club, which gives an opportunity to learn the distribution of honor-strength and the distribution of the suits around the table. The bid of four clubs made difficult the exchange of information, although, as a matter of fact, East was extremely timorous in not raising West's four club bid to six. The hand was:

West—Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.

North: ♠ Q J 10 9 7, ♡ 5 2, ◇ 10 9 8, ♣ 10 7 5
West: ♠ A K, ♡ J 9 3, ◇ Q J, ♣ A K Q 9 8 6
East: ♠ 6 5 4, ♡ A K Q 8, ◇ A K 2, ♣ 4 3 2
South: ♠ 8 3 2, ♡ 10 7 6 4, ◇ 7 6 5 4 3, ♣ J

South	West	North	East
	1 ♣ (1)	Pass	2 ♡ (2)
Pass	3 ♣ (3)	Pass	3 N T (4)
Pass	4 ♣ (5)	Pass	5 ♣ (6)
Pass	6 ♣ (7)	Pass	Pass
Pass

(1) West does not know anything as to the solidity of the club suit. His hand, it is true, contains 4½ honor-tricks, but the clubs may be bunched against him. Why invite trouble which may be avoided?

(2) East has 4 honor-tricks, and while the distribution is not particularly favorable, West probably has some honor strength in spades, and game either at a suit or no trump appears certain.

(3) West discloses Re-bid strength in the club suit. This course is perfectly safe in view of East's Forcing Takeout.

(4) With East's hand, it appears unwise to raise the contract beyong a game contract in no-trump.

(5) West reasons that East must have more than 3 honor-tricks to have made a Forcing Takeout. Game at either hearts or clubs must reasonably be in sight; while game at no trump appears certain, the possibility of a Slam should not be discounted.

(6) In view of the fact that West has twice re-bid the club suit, East's three small clubs become now entirely adequate support.

(7) The chance of making the Slam appears better than even. West knows there are no losers in spades; East has more than 3 honor-tricks, and no doubt at least three small clubs.

Barring an unfavorable distribution of the club suit, there should be no adverse trump tricks and not more than one loser in all in the hand. Of course, as the cards lie, the hand will produce a Grand Slam either at clubs or at notrump.

TODAY'S QUESTION:

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	2 ♣	2 N T	Pass
4 ♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

What should West lead, holding:

♠ 4 2 ♡ 10 9 8 ◇ A K 4 ♣ K J 9 7 5

Answer: Diamond Ace. Of course, the diamond suit is the suit to attack immediately. The Ace is led rather than the King, as any diamond strength held by the opponents will be in Dummy, from the bidding. Should Dummy go down with, for instance, Ace of Diamonds, Queen, Ten, Declarer will very probably play the Ten on a continuation of the Ace of Diamonds, Four, and will thereby lose 3 tricks in the suit. The club or the trump lead is, of course, hopeless, and the heart lead asks for too much from partner.

PRUDENCE PENNY'S RECIPES

arrange the individual servings, garnishing each one with a small portion of mayonnaise and hard boiled eggs cut into fourths. Add a dash of paprika if desired.

PEAR SALAD

Lettuce.

Arrange crisp lettuce from the refrigerator on individual salad plates. Place each half pear on lettuce. Fill center of pear with mayonnaise. Pears should be chilled before preparing the salad.

PINEAPPLE SALAD

Place pineapple slice on crisp lettuce leaf taken from the refrigerator. Spread pineapple with Philadelhia cream cheese, then add chopped nut meats. Add cream mayonnaise to which whipped cream has been added. Sprinkle lightly with paprika and place a cherry in the center for garnishing.

All ingredients for this salad should be properly chilled before making.

Salt.
Lettuce.
Salad dressing.

Remove cucumbers from the refrigerator, peel and slice very thin. Add salt and a little water and let stands for approximately one-half hour. Several ice cubes added to the salted water will keep the cucumbers very cold. Pour off water, add vinegar and pepper or French dressing if desired. Arrange on crisp lettuce leaves from the refrigerator or arrange on crisp lettuce cut in shreds.

One small Bermuda onion or any small table onion may be sliced very thin and added to cucumber just before serving if desired.

Let stand an hour, then crush through a fruit press or sieve.

PEACH MOUSSE

¼ cup confectioner's sugar.
1 cup peach pulp.
1 teaspoon vanilla.

Mash canned or fresh cooked peaches to a pulp. Add sugar and vanilla. Whip cream and fold in peach mixture. Turn into refrigerator tray and freeze three to four hours.

ICE CREAM PARFAIT

2 cups milk.
4 teaspoons cornstarch.
4 egg yolks.
2-3 cup sugar.
1 teaspoon vanilla.
Whites of four eggs.
1 cup heavy cream.

Scald the milk in the upper part of a double boiler. Mix the sugar and cornstarch, add to the scalded milk and cook 15 to 20 minutes, stirring to prevent lumping. Cool, then add flavoring, and fold the mixture into the well-beaten egg whites. Mix thoroughly, add the whipped cream and, when well blended, turn into refrigerator tray and freeze. Freezes in three to four hours.

FROZEN FRUITS

Canned pineapple, strawberries or other fruits may be turned into a refrigerator tray right from the can, frozen to a mush and serve in sherbert glasses topped with flavored and sweetened whipped cream. The length of time required in the refrigerator depends on the amount of sugar in the fruit syrup and the amount of fruit placed in the tray, but most fruits will freeze to the desired consistency in from 30 minutes to one hour.

⅔ cup sugar.
½ cup coffee.
1 teaspoon vanilla.
2 whole eggs.
Salt.

Make coffee in the proportion of 2 tablespoons of coffee to 1 cup water. Boil ½ cup of coffee with the sugar until it spins a thread. Pour this syrup over the well beaten egg yolks, cool, and fold this mixture into the well beaten whites. Add vanilla and fold in the whipped cream. Pile in refrigerator tray and freeze for three to four hours.

Kill all Flies and Mosquitoes Quickly by A Perfumed Mist Based on Japanese Flowers

Madam, let us this season conduct an efficient war on these deadly pests. They enter your home germ-laden. They contaminate your food, they bite. Over 30 diseases are traced to them, and tens of thousands of children, every year, die from their infections.

There is a flower, grown in Japan, which these insects cannot tolerate. Modern research has discovered that its extract kills them at a touch.

That extract is the basis of Fly-Tox, developed at Mellon Institute of Industrial Research by Rex Research Fellowship. We have spent ten years and over $100,000 to perfect it.

This Fly-Tox, used in a new-type Fly-Tox sprayer, creates in a room a cloud of perfumed mist. It is harmless to people, stainless to anything. But it kills at once every fly or mosquito that it touches. It is so all-pervading, when used rightly, that no insect can escape.

Use Fly-Tox for your home's protection. Start when the first fly or mosquito appears. Keep up this war on these deadly pests. The way is easy, economical, pleasant, sure. To rid a room completely costs from 1 to 2 cents.

FLY-TOX ONLY

A Rex Research Product

This means too much to you and yours to use a lesser method. Fly-Tox is economical, for a little goes far. Its strength is guaranteed, for every lot is tested in our laboratory. It is based on flowers. The cloud it creates is agreeable, harmless and stainless. It is the latest, and best that science has produced. Don't trust your home protection to ways less efficient. JAIL PROMOTER FOR BIGAMY

William L. Warren, 65, promoter of a process for making a commercial product out of seaweed, today began serving two to four years in Allegheny County Workhouse. He was sentenced by Judge George V. Moore in Criminal Court, after he had pleaded guilty to bigamy and forgery of a $300 check.

Mr. Warren

In confessing, Warren told the court that the Mellon Institute was working on his process, and while in the city he was living with his first wife at Elmhurst Inn, Sewickley. He induced Estella Venn, 48, 5115 Ellsworth avenue, to invest $9,000 in his venture, while her brother, George Venn, put in $3,000. Then, in the hope of getting more money from Miss Venn, he married her on July 18, 1931, although he was living with his first wife at the time. Two weeks before this he had signed George Venn's name to a check for $300, which he presented to a North Side department store, to pay a bill.

Waters Sees Bonus As Christmas Gift

BOSTON, Aug. 12.—(INS.)—A Christmas present this December of complete cash payment of the soldiers bonus for war veterans was predicted today by Walter W. Waters, head of the Washington bonus expeditionary forces, who arrived here from New York, en route to the state convention of the American Legion in Lawrence.

Waters said that the veterans were going to see to it that the right sort of men were going to Congress to protect the interest of all the people. He demanded "economic justice for everyone."

CHOCOLATE COOKIES

½ cup shortening.
1 egg.
2½ cups flour.
½ teaspoon salt.
2 squares melted chocolate.
¼ cup milk.
2 teaspoons baking powder.

Cream shortening, add sugar and mix thoroughly. Add well-beaten egg, salt, and melted chocolate. Beat well, then add alternately milk and remaining dry ingredients sifted together three times. Shape in rolls and proceed as for Butterscotch Cookies.

CHOCOLATE CAKE

¼ cup water.
¼ cup sugar.
¾ cup ground chocolate.
2 eggs.
1 cup scalded milk.
1 teaspoon vanilla.
About 24 lady fingers or sponge cake strips.

Soften gelatine in cold water. Scald milk in double boiler. Add to sugar, chocolate and egg yolks. Return to boiler and cook until thick, stirring occasionally. Remove from fire, add softened gelatine and stir until dissolved. Cool. When rather thick add vanilla, beat thoroughly and fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites.

Line a bread pan with waxed paper. Pour in a layer of the chocolate mixture, then place on a layer of the lady fingers, split in halves, or with thin slices of sponge cake cut in ¾-inch strips. Place in refrigerator for a few minutes, leaving balance of mixture at room temperature. Add a second layer of filling and the rest of the lady fingers or cake. When pan is filled, or all of the ingredients are used, set aside in refrigerator to become firm. Unmold, serve with sweetned whipped cream flavored with chopped maraschino cherries. Will serve six.

THUGS PUT LOOT IN MAIL BOXES

A watch and a wallet, placed in Federal street mail boxes early today, police believe, by thieves who wished the articles returned to the owners, were turned over to North Side police by Herman L. Evert, superintendent of the North Side postoffice.

The watch, with an old-style hunter's case, bore the inscription, "John Fischer, Allegheny, Pa., 1904," and had a child's photograph inside. The wallet contained tax receipts and papers bearing the name of Thomas Clarke, 836 Grand avenue. Evert told police he heard Clarke had been held up and robbed last night.

FIND MAN DEAD IN HOTEL HERE

S. C. Hulburt, about 55, of Chicago, came here three days ago without funds, and was given a room in a downtown hotel until money came from home.

A letter containing a check arrived at the hotel for Hulburt last night. The letter was taken to his room. When no response was received after knocks on his door, the manager broke into the room and found Hulburt dead. The body was removed to the morgue, where an autopsy will probably be held.

Divorce Witness Points Out Many Bootleggers

Judge Thomas M. Marshall's courtroom in Common Pleas Court, where the suit for divorce brought by Mary Dragula against her husband, Joseph, was opened today, seemed to be filled with bootleggers when Rosie Hall, Negro, a witness, was called to the stand.

Mrs. Dragula had admitted that she had helped her husband make liquor. She also helped him sell it, she said further. Rosie Hall corroborated her testimony and Judge Marshall asked:

"Did you every buy liquor from these people?"

Rosie responded:

"Yes, sid, I did."

Judge Marshall also asked:

"Ever buy liquor from anybody else?"

"Yes, judge, I bought liquor from him, and him and him, and him," (indicating a half dozen men in the courtroom).

BOY NEARS END OF FIJI TRIP

VICTORIA, B. C., Aug. 12.—(AP.)—Returning from a vacation that took him thousands of miles from his home in Chicago, Hartle de Gerald, 13, school boy, arrived here today aboard the Australian liner Niagara en route from the Fiji Islands to his home.

Young De Gerald for the third successive year has traveled alone during his school holidays, visiting the MacKenzie River region in the Arctic last year and journeying to the West Indies and South America in 1930.

Next year he plans to visit the Belgian Congo. Each trip takes him away from his home for about two months.

The boy described his holiday in the Fiji Islands as most pleasing, stating he "had gone native" during his visit, living in a hut next to a native chief, eating native food, mostly fish and yams, while squatted on the floor, and now and then tasting the native drink, "ava."

GRAVE ROBBERY GANG SEIZED

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Aug. 12.—(AP.)—Three men and three women were arrested today on a charge of mutilating bodies they had stolen from graves in Helsingfors cemeteries in the practice of "black magic."

All pleaded guilty when they were arraigned in Police Court, explaining that they had committed their outrages "for occult reasons." About 40 such robberies and mutilations have been reported in the past two years.

DRAMA ATTENDS BUC FALL

SPORT COMMENT

By James J. Long

Cubs More Formidable.
Landis Causes No Stir.
Leonard Proves Case.
Martin at Third Base.
Another Jockey Shining.
New Date for Petrolle.

LOSS OF LEAD NOT FATAL TO ROVERS

THE LOSS OF first place after they had held it steadily since July 3, a stretch of five weeks and four days, is not to be set down as being necessarily fatal to the pennant chances of the Pirates. In such a close and open race, one position is practically as good as another at present, and the lifting of the leadership strain may help the Bucs to get back to normal. It might have been better for them if they had been right behind the leaders in recent weeks instead of being out in front. They would have escaped the pace-setting tension that caused them to slump to the extent of losing 12 of their last 13 games and they would have more left now for a final drive.

Elwood English

The thing to be worried about is the improvement in the Cubs. The brilliant Woody English and his mates are showing increased fighting spirit under their new manager, Charley Grimm, as attested by the fact that they have won six games out of eight on the road since Grimm took charge. In their new form the Bruins threaten to be harder to beat out than they looked to be a few weeks ago, particularly as they are soon to start another long stay at home and are the toughest club in the league to lick on their own grounds.

JUDGING FROM THE way they performed here yesterday, Guy Bush and the rest of the Cubs were far from being upset by the reports that the object of Commissioner Landis' visit to Pittsburgh was to investigate stories that they had been betting on horse races. The Commissioner appears to take such a matter and the size of a ball player's bets more seriously than the average citizen.

It was said that betting on the races had hurt the playing of the Cubs. Inasmuch as they are in first place, it would be interesting to know how much higher Landis figures they would be if they had not, like players on most other clubs, risked an occasional wager on the ponies. Possibly it was feared that the great pennant race in the National League would cause the contenders to get all the baseball publicity and keep the Commissioner's office in the background for which it never had any very strong liking.

THOUGH PAULIE WALKER showed Pittsburgh fans in a Millvale appearance this summer that he is some distance from being a world beater, Benny Leonard must be conceded to have done the best job of his comeback campaign in winning a 10-round decision over the Trenton fighter in New York last night.

Most fans are still unconvinced that Leonard would have any chance in the championship circle, but by beating men like Billy Townsend and Walker he has at least proved that early estimates that his come-back attempt would be a flat failure were all wrong. He has exceeded all expectations.

IT WON'T BE due to any lack of confidence if Lefty O'Doul doesn't lead the National League in batting. "I've got the feeling I'm going to lead the league," the Brooklyn swatter said. "I feel great. The ball looks like a balloon. The wrist that was hurt in the spring has almost quit bothering me. The pitchers can't throw 'em fast enough to get 'em by me. At least that's the way I feel. That's the way I felt in 1929 when I led the league. I think I'm going to do it again. There are four guys to beat—those two birds over in Philadelphia, Hurst and Klein, and the two Waners in Pittsburgh. All of them had a big start on me, but I think I can lead 'em to the wire."

Pepper Martin

NEXT SPRING WILL bring another addition to the list of unusual playing experiments in the major leagues. The Cardinals will try a shift just the opposite of that in which the Giants moved Freddie Lindstrom from third base to the outfield.

It is the intention of Manager Street to lift Pepper Martin from center field and try him out at the third sack. Gabby thinks the Wild Horse has a fine chance to come through at the hot corner. Pepper is not without experience in the infield. He played second, third and short at Greenville, Fort Smith and Syracuse through 1925 and 1926.

IF MARTIN DOESN'T prove satisfactory, the new Redbird third baseman may be Charley Wilson, of Rochester, or Joe Medwick, a former third sacker who has been playing in the outfield for Houston. Third base is the only infield position at which the Card bosses plan to make a change. They will seek two new pitchers and some right-hand hitting strength for the outfield.

The St. Louis owners will advocate a further reduction in the expenses of major league clubs next season. One suggestion which they will offer is that a limit of $3,000 be fixed as the top salary for a recruit playing his first year in the big show.

ANOTHER FIRST-CLASS jockey is standing out in the Eastern riding brigade to give Hank Mills and Silvio Coucci a chase for saddle honors. He is Dick Jones, who, like Mills and Coucci, was developed at Agua Caliente. He was picked up in Chicago by Benny Creech, trainer for the William R. Coe stable, and since he was taken East his great rides on Pomponius, Ladysman, Sun Queen, Masked Knight, Old Baldy and others have made him a sensation. Jones is alert at the post, has plenty of courage, an excellent seat and hands, is a strong finisher and has the knack of making horses like to run for him. Turfmen see in him all the requisites of a great jockey and say he can't be kept from winning a place among the stars. The youngster can ride at 106 pounds.

THE HEIGHT OF early football confidence appears to have been reached in the East in the action of a prominent gridiron enthusiast in placing a wager that Yale will not lose a single game this fall. Experienced football men view it as growing out of sentiment rather than sound judgment.

It is admitted that the Elis have a wealth of promising material and appear likely to start the season with better prospects than any other major college team in the East, but to predict that the Blue will not taste defeat once is taking a whole lot, possibly too much, for granted.

IT'S ONE THING to have a team of unusual power, good enough to be fairly certain of winning the majority of its games, but for even an outfit of exceptional strength to go through a season undefeated is quite a different proposition.

Billy Petrolle

Undefeated elevens have been as scarce as the traditional hen's teeth in recent years. Football has changed in a way to fill it with uncertainty, and with schedules calling for a steady string of major opponents it is seldom that any big college team goes through without being tripped at least once.

IF BILLY PETROLLE recovers quickly enough to be able to fight within five weeks, as is considered likely by the surgeons who took a piece of bone and gristle out of his left elbow, his postponed battle with Tony Canzoneri for the world lightweight championship will be staged in the Long Island City bowl on Monday night, September 12. The promoters have abandoned the idea of putting on a substitute match in the meantime. They had planned to use Kid Chocolate in Petrolle's place, the winner to meet Billy in September, but concluded that such a fight would take the edge off a Petrolle card later.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 12.—(AP.)—The aquatic world was forewarned today Japan plans to lend a distinct Oriental hue to the closing episodes of the tenth Olympic swimming championships. The Japanese had three sturdy performers in each of the three remaining races.

Lenore Kight

With the only men's finals on today's program the 100-meter backstroke, there was strong possibility Japan might overcome the five-point United States lead.

Masaji Kiyokawa, who was within nine-tenth of a second of the world record in the semi-finals yesterday, appeared to be the class of the field. Kentaro Kawatsu and Toshio Irie also showed better form than Robert Zehr and Robert Kerber, of the United States. Japan likewise dominated the semi-final 1,500-meter free-style and 200-meter breaststroke, scheduled today.

JAP STARS BEST

Knosoa Kitamura, 14-year-old schoolboy, and Shozo Makino, are head and shoulders above the rest of the 1500-meter field. Clarence (Buster) Crabbee, America's leading hope, appeared weary in the preliminary races yesterday after his surprise victory in the 400-meter final the day before, as did Jean Taris, of France. Andrew (Boy) Charlton, Australian winner in 1924, has not returned to form since his attack of influenza.

MISS HOLM WINS

Meanwhile America's mermaids dominated. Eleanor Holm won the 100-meter backstroke crown from Bonnie Mealing, Australia, in 1 minute 19.4 seconds, 1.1 seconds slower than her own Olympic record set in the semi-finals. This increased the feminine team score to 51 against 17 for Australia.

Lenore Kight, Homestead (Pa.) high school girl, broke the 400-meter free style record of 5:42.8 set by Martha Norelius, U. S. A., 1928, when she won the third heat of the preliminaries in 5:40.9.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: ROBERT ECKTHORP'S "BIRTHDAYLESS" LIFE—Robert Eckthorp, son of an American mining engineer, lived to be more than 19, but never enjoyed the celebration of a birthday anniversary. Born on February 29, 1896, he missed his birthday in 1900 because it was not a leap year. In 1904, he missed it again when his family left Russia for England on February 24, 13 days being lost in the change from Gregorian to Julian calendars. When he should have had a birthday, in 1908, he was sailing westward across the Pacific and lost February 29 while crossing the international Date Line. His chance in 1912 disappeared as in 1904, this time while his father was taking him from Greece to France, again losing 13 days and his birthday in the change of calendars. Robert died in London, August 28, 1915—prior to the recurrence of another leap year.

COEN DEFEATS BRITISH ACE

RYE, N. Y., Aug. 12.—(AP.)—Wilbur F. Coen, Jr., of Kansas City, was so disgusted with his tennis play a few days ago that he announced he'd pack up and go home next week.

He may change his mind and stay over for the nationals at Forest Hills next month, now that he has upset the British star, Fred Perry, in the third round of the Eastern grass court championships.

Coen played in his best form of the year yesterday to beat Perry, the defending champion, 4-6, 9-7, 6-4, but in justice to the Briton it might be remarked that it was apparent that he had not yet rid himself of his sea legs.

Another of the four British entries, Edward R. Avory, was eliminated by Gregory Mangin, of Newark, 7-5, 5-7, 6-3, but H. W. (Bunny) Austin and John S. Olliff both won. Austin defeated Jack Tidball, of Hollywood, after a terrific battle, 14-12, 5-7, 6-4, and Olliff upset the Atlantan, Bryan Grant, 4-6, 6-3, 6-3.

LOCAL NETTER GAINS FINAL

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN
Staff Correspondent.

Just a year ago, Shields downed the Pittsburgher's brother Dave in finale of the same event. Twice prior to the 1931 affair did an O'Loughlin joust unsuccessfully for the local crown. Dave having dropped a five-setter to Gwynn King, of Washington, in 1927 and John having fallen before the onslaught of Bob Considine, likewise of the National Capital, in 1930.

BROIDA LOSES

O'Loughlin hustled through to semi-final triumph yesterday at expense of Barney Welsh, rangy Rockville slasher from Duke University, 6-4, 5-7, 6-0, 6-2, while Shields went the limit to edge out Frank Broida, Steel City parks premier, 6-3, 2-6, 6-1, 1-6, 6-1.

Miriam Sullivan, P. A. A. entrant, and Margaret Carspecken, Morgantown luminary, entered the women's doubles final with an impressive 6-1, 6-3 decision over the Washington - Cumberland pair, Betty Cochran and Evelyn Claybrook, and today encounter the Capital Duo, Frances Walker and Helen Philpitt.

In women's singles semi-final debates, Miss Carspecken meets Miss Sullivan and Miss Walker takes on her 1931 rival, Frances Grimes, West Virginia University co-ed and defending champion.

Pittsburgh performers entirely monopolize the men's doubles field, thanks mainly to default of the top seeded team of Shields and Welsh, who withdrew from the semi-finals. Billy O'Loughlin and Paul Sullivan, P. A. A. combine, who copped a tough quarter-final verdict from the Shannopin outfit, Bob Lampus and Bud Leyda, 2-6, 6-1, 7-5, profited by the favorites' exit.

ALCORN, BROIDA GAIN

Meanwhile, Eddie Alcorn, Pitt leader, and Frank Broida advanced to the final by eliminating successively the Oaklanders, Ralph Weber and May, 6-0, 6-2, and the Greensburg-Duquesne University coalition of Tack Hammer and Andy Smeaton, 6-3, 7-9, 9-7, 6-3.

In mixed doubles, the defending titleholder, Miss Sullivan and Shields, trimmed Miss Philpitt and Leyda, 6-4, 6-3, while Miss Carspecken and Dr. O'Loughlin downed Miss Walker and Sullivan, 6-3, 6-3.

Pitcher Traded For Four New Baseballs

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Aug. 12.—(AP.)—Manager C. A. (Runt) Marr, of the Muskogee team of the Western Association, received four balls last night and one of his young pitchers took a walk.

Marr faced the problem of obtaining new baseballs for Muskogee's game with Hutchinson here. The club had no money, so Marr traded George Hubbell, southpaw brother of Carl Hubbell of the New York Giants, to Hutchinson for four balls and the game proceeded.

Muskogee won, 12 to 2.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Aug. 12—(AP.)—An umpire's decision on a close play during a recent baseball game between Granada and Managua resulted in a defeat for Granada. The losers have appealed the decision to the Supreme Court of Nicaragua.

CHICAGO WINS CRUCIAL FRAY, TAKES LEAD

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Welcoming the open date, the Pirates rested today and apparently they were not alarmed by the fact that they are out of first place. The Cubs, who displaced the Buccos yesterday by a 3-to-2 victory in 10 innings, are enjoying a break in their playing chart so that there will be no change in the position of the two clubs today. The Bruins are leading the Buccos by one-half of a full game. The Oaklanders are slated to take on the Reds tomorrow at Forbes Field.

The technical story of yesterday's masterpiece between the Pirates and Cubs has been told, but nobody has written of the silent drama interwoven into the great diamond spectacle and unfolded by a small yet remarkably sincere cast of actors.

The leading parts of the unannounced play were taken by Judge K. M. Landis, commissioner of baseball; Charles (Lefty) Grimm, manager of the victorious team, and Guy Bush, winning pitcher of the day, who appears to have been the motif for the performance.

PLOT DEVELOPS

When the Cubs landed in town yesterday morning they had had one collective thought in mind—"beat the Pirates and take leadership of the league." The Bruins were the picture of happiness on top of a hearty breakfast and their colorful pilot was making them laugh by his merry quips when the whole team saw a strangely familiar form appear in the hotel lobby.

Yes, it was Judge Landis, and when the Judge shook hands all around and announced he was here to see the game, the Chicago athletes wondered why he had traveled so far to see a single contest. Their suspicions were justified a few minutes later when the Czar of sport became the central figure in front page stories to the effect he was conducting an investigation relative to horse race gambling by at least one member of the Chicago team.

GRIMM BACKS PLAYER

The smile disappeared from the face of Manager Grimm. He had been told that Pitcher Bush was to be the subject of the probe. The manager lost little time in forming his opinion about the Southerner who appears to have been singled out for indulging in a pastime that has lured many diamond athletes—and also some magnates. Grimm's loyalty to his pitcher was admirable to behold. Said he:

"Bush is absolutely innocent of any wrong-doing and I am going to stay right in his corner. Any report that he will have to return to Chicago for questioning is in error: Guy is going to St. Louis tonight and he will pitch in his regular turn."

Landis, meantime, had issued to a far-flung news service a statement flaying race-track gambling. The indictment of the questionable (at best) practice stated among other things that a diamond performer could not keep his mind on his work while having bets on a horse. The statement was applauded by baseball men, but the boy subject to the quiz had declared that he knew very little about horse racing or betting.

FIERCE FIGHT ENSUES

The important fight for possession of first place gets under way. The contest seems to have a big bearing on the pennant. The Czar of the sports comes to his box seat and, his chin resting on the backs of his hands on the box rail, he is gripped by the great struggle of clean-cut boys as they reel off their masterpiece.

FIVE AMERICAN BOXERS SURVIVE IN OLYMPIC BATTLES

U. S. FIGHTERS PAIRED WITH TOUGH FOES

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 12.—(AP.)—Olympic boxing reached the semi-finals today and five surviving Americans had their work cut for them.

Joe Lang, San Francisco bantamweight, drew a formidable opponent in Hans Ziglarski, Germany. Eddie Flynn, of New Orleans, American welterweight hope, was pitted against David McCleave, tall Britisher. Louis Salica, Brooklyn flyweight, met Stephen Enekes, Hungary, European champion. Carmen Barth, Cleveland middleweight, will trade punches with Ernest Peirce, South Africa.

One of the heavyweight semi-finals will mark the first appearance of Fred Feary, 220-pound American, who will meet Luigi Rovati, Italy, also showing for the first time.

Barth knocked out Manuel Cruz, Mexico, last night in the second round. He was the first man to list a victory by this old-fashioned method in 51 fights held up to that time. Today's pairings:

EVENING

BOOSTERS BUY CLARKSBURG

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 12.—(AP.)—Citizens of Clarksburg own a ball club. President Elmer Dailey, of the Middle Atlantic League, yesterday formally turned over to Jack Marks, chief local booster, the local franchise surrendered to the league president a month ago by Harley Clark, president and owner of the Generals since 1928.

Baseball's Humorist
Says:

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 12.—That was tough the other day when Tommy Bridges pitched a perfect game for the Tigers up to that final batter in the ninth, but I've got even a more embarrassing moment than that. A couple of weeks ago, a certain Giant player was in the coaching box all afternoon yelling out to Giant batters that the opposing pitcher was easy, "He ain't got nothing on that ball at all," and other congratulatory phrases like that. And then, in the ninth, with two men on and two out, the yapping coacher was called on to pinch hit AND HE STRUCK OUT. Was his face red or did it turn purple?

And, in tomorrow's gigantic essay, I will explain why the Cincis do not have to take in washings to have a Chinaman's chance.

DRAMA ATTENDS BUCCO FALL

ers of the game, are so evenly matched you cannot draw a fine hair between them and their supporting ensembles are a delight to gaze upon. And then in the seventh the furious runless fight is swayed in favor of the home team as 12,000 cheer lustily. The clever Warneke has been solved.

Manager Grimm, fighting fiercely yet with a method, knows that Warneke is the first batter carded for the first of the eighth inning. As quickly as a run rushes over the plate he gives a sign to the bullpen that is picked up by the dark-skinned Bush, who must face Landis, but who is 100 per cent in Grimm's estimation.

BUSH OFFERS CLIMAX

Lefty had announced that Guy would pitch in St. Louis, but here was the opportunity to take the offensive right out of Landis' hands—and Grimm engineered the smart move with consummate skill. Gudat batted for Warneke and opened a two-run drive that tied the score.

The fans in the stands did not appreciate the torrent of troubled emotion in Bush's breast as he walked to the slab in the eighth inning of the significant fight. If he cracked in front of the Pittsburgh attack, the eagle-eyed Landis could say that Guy was thinking of a bet on a race instead of the kind of ball to throw.

Did Bush falter? He did not. One man reached first in two innings, and the Cubs scored the winning run in the tenth.

If Landis is as smart as he seems to be, he realized that Grimm and Bush conducted his investigation for him in the open air of Forbes Field.

SHRINERS PLAY AT DORMONT

The Al Koram Shrine team is the attraction this evening at Dormont High School Field, meeting the Dormont club. Last year Dormont visited Cleveland and won a close battle. The Buckeye State outfit will have practically the pick of the Cleveland class AAA sandlot leagues in the lineup. The locals appear to be in for a tough evening.

Tomorrow evening one of the biggest attractions of the season will be offered when Grover Cleveland Alexander brings his flood lights and bewhiskered House of David nine to Greenlee Field for a night game with the Crawfords.

Old Alex will decorate the mound, and is keen to show Pittsburghers he still has cunning in his salary wing. Crawfords will appear at Dormont at 6 p. m. with the House of David game starting at 9 p. m.

Pitcher Sosnak, of Vesta, in the Monon Valley League, had a tough one yesterday. He pitched a 10-inning no-hit game for his team against North Belle Vernon, but lost out, 1 to 0, when he walked a man in the tenth. The player stole second and third and scored on a fly.

In the City League, the Geislers defeated the North Siders 10 to 4; Books nosed out Homewood, 5 to 3 and Dormont beat Reliance Life, 4 to 2.

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

Arthur DeKuh, giant Italian heavyweight, of New York, arrived in town today, one day late, for his 10-round main bout with Seal Harris, Chicago Negro, now making his home here, at Greenlee Field tonight.

DeKuh failed to arrive yesterday, with the fight originally scheduled last night, because the promoters refused to advance him his transportation. An attempt to run in Ike McFowler, Johnstown Negro, as an eleventh-hour substitute, was blocked by the boxing commission, which ordered the club to go through with the original match or call off the show. Thereupon, transportation was rushed to DeKuh, and here he is—darned if he isn't!

The original preliminary card will be carried through, with Jack Wilson and Anson Green, local middleweights, in the semi-final.

PANKA, NOVAK SIGNED

Announcement was made today that the long-sought George Panka-Frank Novak heavyweight battle has been signed for Hickey Park, Millvale, one week from next Monday night. Bunny Buntach, manager of Panka, signed the articles last night. He is getting a juicy percentage for his man, and will have a man from his stable in each of the preliminaries. The bout is supposed to settle the local heavyweight championship question, with Novak in the role of challenger.

Buntach yesterday refused a last-minute bid from Greenlee Field to have Panka substitute for De Kuh against Harris last night because when the match with Harris originally was offered him the purse was too small to be considered. The ante was raised considerably, but Panka had eased off training and didn't think he could do himself justice, anyway, on short notice. Buntach, incidentally, has turned down an offer of a match for Panka with Isadoro Gastanaga, the new Spanish sensation, at the Queensboro Stadium, in New York, to go through with the Novak match. Gastanaga knocked out Charley Retzlaff in one round a few nights ago.

Between Rounds

Battling Gizzy is working out at the Linwood A. C. for his bout with Charley Baxter at Hickey Park next Monday night, using Patsy Hennigan, Billy Holt and Jackie Wilson as sparring partners.

Abie Witz, manager of Gizzy, today issued a reply to the blast of Charley Jones, manager of Baxter, regarding Gizzy's wrestling tactics in the ring. He said he has had a talk with Gizzy and the latter promises to fight a clean, fair fight next Monday and show the fans he doesn't have to be rough to win. He will be in better condition than he was last Monday against Chico Cisneros.

"So far as Jones is concerned, he should talk," Witz said. "I distinctly recall the fight Baxter fought with Johnny Willis at Greenlee Field recently, in which Baxter called into play every rough trick in the book. Jones doesn't say anything about that."

Pep O'Brien, veteran lightweight boxer, of Scranton, has settled down in New Kensington and is seeking bouts. His manager, Walter Kruse, may be reached by calling New Kensington 2704.

Jimmy Moore, local Negro middleweight boxer, is anxious to obtain bouts. A brother is seriously ill and Jimmy needs money to help keep him alive, he says.

The card has been completed for the show at Hickey Park Monday night. Don Asto, of Uniontown, meets Steve Senich, of Homestead, in the semi-final; Tommy Crigean, of Homestead, boxes Al Sunseri, of Soho, in the second bout, and Johnny Riske, of the South Hills, opposes Jimmy Bell, of Duquesne, in the opener.

Baseball Stars On Store Program

Paul Waner, the Pirates' great batsman and right fielder, and George Grantham, former Bucco second baseman, who plays the same position for the Cincinnati Reds, will feature the Frank and Seder program on the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph station, WCAE, which will be put on the air at Frank and Seder's store tomorrow at noon.

The diamond luminaries will be introduced by Charles J. (Chilly) Doyle, baseball writer of The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. Ford Miller, of the WCAE staff, also will participate in the broadcast.

Landis Says Probe Doesn't Touch Game

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—(INS.)—Any investigation of reported gambling by members of the Chicago Cubs which Judge K. M. Landis, high commissioner of organized baseball, may be making does not involve the playing of any baseball game. The commissioner made that clear on his return today from Pittsburgh. He said:

"The so-called, purported, alleged investigation is in such a situation that I have nothing to say about it now. I will say it has nothing to do with the playing of any ball game."

This cryptic statement made it evident that, if there is any investigation, it involves the conduct of players off the diamond. The reported investigation is said to concern itself with betting on horse races by members of the Cubs.

U. S. OARSMEN TAKE LEAD IN OLYMPICS

LONG BEACH, Cal., Aug. 12.—(AP.)—The fighting decks were cleared today for the championship finals of the Olympic regatta with the United States leading, among a dozen nations, by qualifying its craft in five of the seven events.

Four championships will be decided today with Bobby Pearce, the great Australian sculler, defending his Olympic title in the feature race over the 2,000-meter straightaway against Bill Miller, the American champion; Guillermo Douglas, of Uruguay and Leslie (Dick) Southwood, of Great Britain.

The remaining three are carded for tomorrow afternoon, when the unbeaten University of California eight-oared crew tackles the boatloads of Italy, Canada and Great Britain.

The British and Canadian eighths, beaten in their first trials, came back yesterday to clinch the remaining places in the four-cornered final battle. Their victories were the climax of the "re-classification" trials in six events.

Besides Miller, the only other American title contender today was the pair-oared boat, with coxswain, which reached the final without any preliminary test, due to the limited entry.

On the basis of trial performances, Poland's four-oared shell, with coxswain, figured to give the Italian champions a hot battle, while Britain's paired-oared boat without coxswain ruled a favorite in its class.

TODAY

3 p. m., four-oared with coxswain—Poland, Italy, New Zealand and Germany.
3:40, pair-oared without coxswain—Great Britain, Poland, Holland, New Zealand.
4:20, single sculls—Pearce, Australia; Miller, U. S. A.; Douglas, Uruguay, and Southwood, Great Britain.
5:00, pair-oared with coxswain—United States, Poland, Brazil and France.

TOMORROW

3 p. m., four-oared without coxswain—Italy, Great Britain, Germany, U. S. A.
3:40, double sculls—United States, Canada, Germany and Italy.
4:20, eight-oared—Italy, United States, Great Britain and Canada.

DODGERS GIVE CAREY RAISE

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—(AP.)—Max Carey, manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, of the National League, today was reappointed for a one-year term by the club directors who complimented him on his work and raised his salary.

The exact amount of the raise and Max's new salary was not made public but it was believed to be $25,000, an increase of $5,000 over the salary he is reported to have received this year.

Carey was highly complimented by the club directors who met at Ebbets Fields early today officially to vote the re-appointment, which was reached by unanimous decision.

There was some doubt early in the season that Carey would be given another term as the Dodgers floundered around in the second division, but their recent sensational rush up the National League ladder to a place today only four games behind the league leading Cubs, made his reappointment certain.

Carey was a star player with Pittsburgh for years, then for a time with Brooklyn, and later was Brooklyn and Pittsburgh coach.

Madden and Blatt Lose in Doubles

CULVER, Ind., Aug. 12.—(AP.)—Three Californians today disputed the right of Frank Parker, of Milwaukee, to the National Junior Singles tennis title.

Parker, who yesterday trounced the defending titleholder, Jack Lynch, Taft, Cal., 6-0, 6-4, was paired with Jay Cohn, of Santa Monica, today, while the other far westerners, Gene Mako, of Los Angeles, and Samuel Lee, of Berkeley, were matched in the other semi-final.

The Pittsburgh duo in the boys' doubles, Robert Madden and Laurence Blatt, lost out to Donald Leavens, of Mosinee, Wis., and Robert Riggs, of Los Angeles, 6-3, 2-6, 7-5, in the third round.

Youngstown Nine Routs "Big Train"

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Aug. 12.—(AP.)—The Big Train mounted the pitchers' mound again yesterday, but was derailed by Youngstown's Central League team, 9 to 8.

Walter Johnson, whose hurling ability made him one of the major league's most feared pitchers for two decades until he left it voluntarily to assume managerial duties, vainly tried to win for Washington in the manner he once was wont to do. But the five hits and five runs Youngstown scored in the first inning, together with two more hits and a run in the fourth, caused Johnson the manager to send Johnson the pitcher to the showers.

Fight Results

LEONARD WINS OVER WALKER

By HYPE IGOE
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—Bring on your Jackie Fields, your Jimmy McLarnins, Benny Leonard, the old master, is ready for them.

Through 10 of as tough rounds as he has been asked to go since he came back to beat young Paulie Walker to a 10-round decision at Ebbets Field in Brooklyn last night. Benny earned the decision and he got it.

He finished like a gamester, almost knocking out the New Jersey lad in the tenth round. The round had a minute to go when in a flurry of punches Benny uncorked a right, the old right that sent Ritchie Mitchell and that kind to sleep years ago, and young Mr. Walker was ready for a bedtime story. But that thing called youth came to him and he weathered the storm.

There could be no doubt about the decision. Benny won and when he called "Mamma Minnie" on the phone after it was over and said he won, he told a truth to which 15,000 fans could attest.

It was a decision that didn't please everybody. It was close, though, and maybe the knockdown Bat scored in the fourth round, a count of seven, decided the issue.

POLOISTS TO CLASH

The South Park polo team will meet the Robin Hoods in a two-game series tomorrow and Sunday at South Park. Next week a two-game series will be played with the Fox Chapel riders.

WOMEN STARS BATTLE TODAY AT EDGEWOOD

By TOM BIRKS

With a record field on hand, Toots Erath, popular professional at the Edgewood Country Club, was sending matches from the initial tee since early morning in the annual Edgewood women's invitation tournament today.

Some 250 contestants for the trophies given by the women's committee are expected to complete the 18 holes of medal play before nightfall and set a new entry record for the club in its invitation tournament.

MRS. FRIEDMAN WINS

Mrs. Louis Friedman, ranking No. 1 player of the Westmoreland Country Club team, capped a brilliant season yesterday by winning the club championship. Mrs. Friedman's opponent in the final round was the young star, Lois Hollender, and the match finished in the seventeenth green, with the score 2 and 1.

It has been a great season for the new club champion. Together with Mrs. Chester Lehman, she had to meet the No. 1 stars of the leading clubs in Section II of the Women's Golf League.

It was great playing on her part that made it possible for Westmoreland to enter the play-offs at the season's end.

Mrs. Friedman also took honors in two one-day tournaments, and then broke the Westmoreland course record, shooting a 79.

The women's team of Highland pulled the big surprise of the season yesterday when, going into the final matches for the Thomas Trophy 13 points behind, it rallied to defeat the Shannopin ladies by the scant margin of 54 to 52 over the Highland course.

HIGHLANDERS RALLY

The first 18 holes were played over the Ben Avon links, and Shannopin garnered a 33-to-20 lead. This seemed quite a comfortable margin, but either Mrs. Cliff Meyer or Vince Eldred must have lectured the Highlanders, for they went out to get 34 points yesterday while Highland gathered 19.

T. T. Thomas also presented two individual trophies for low net scores. Mrs. Carl Vandervoort won for Shannopin, with 81-82—163, and, for Highland, Miss Betty Cruickshank carried home the prize with an 83-83—166.

St. Clair women were hosts to the women of South Hills yesterday afternoon. Mrs. J. R. Murphy copped low gross for the home players with a 90, while Mrs. W. J. Weldin took low gross prize for the visitors with a 100.

William Martin led a field of 25 electrical contractors in the 18-hole tournament staged at Churchill Valley yesterday with a card of 90-29—61.

COURTNEY STOPPED

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 12.—(AP.)—Al Gainer, Negro light-heavyweight, of New Haven, squared matters with George Courtney, of Tulsa, Okla., last night by knocking him out in the ninth round of a scheduled 10-round bout. Courtney several months ago outpointed Gainer.

CLIVELLE'S JAW BROKEN

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 12.—(INS.)—Angel Clivelle, of Porto Rico, was in Deaconess Hospital here today suffering from a fractured jaw, after Sammy (Kid) Slaughter, of Terre Haute, had won their bout on a technical knockout in the fifth round here last night. The Terre Haute boxer floored Clivelle nine times before Referee Julius Fidler stopped the bout.

STOCK MARKET CONTINUES TO WAVER

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—(AP.)—The stock market continued to waver today, evidently reflecting uncertainty in trading quarters to whether the advance could be pressed further without the aid of more general improvement in business conditions.

President Hoover's acceptance speech was widely discussed in Wall street, but there was no agreement in speculative quarters as to its influence as a market factor. The market had a substantial setback in the morning, but Hoover supporters said it had been entitled to it in view of the violence of the recent advance and were inclined to praise the President's avoidance of any glowing comment on business which might have stimulated speculation.

Some of the so-called "wet" stocks were bid up, and so were some of the power issues, possibly reflecting the President's reiteration of his stand against putting the government into the power business. Some of the low-price oils were also bought. Morning losses of 1 to 5 points were largely regained.

The weekly mercantile reviews were again mildly cheerful. Dun's said "inquiries in many divisions of trade are enlarging, because of urgent needs and higher prices. Retail distribution is still curtailed, however, as is usual in midsummer." Bradstreet's said that for the fourth week, optimism continued to constitute the big feature of reports from 55 leading cities. It noted some improvement in wholesale buying, but said retail trade about held its own, and heavy industries remained dull.

The market, according to brokerage gossip, appeared to have reached the stage of busy pool activity in all classes of shares. Public participation has been steadily on the increase, but brokers said they were impressed by the large amount of buying for cash. Rising prices, furthermore, had greatly expanded the potential purchasing power of marginal accounts.

The last of three railroad conferences this week was like its predecessors in failing of any spectacular results. Heads of the eastern trunk lines briefly discussed the consolidation plan, and adjourned to a later date without comment. The Eastern roads yesterday, however, were understood to have selected representatives to meet with Western heads in Chicago soon to discuss the wage matter.

RUMORS ABOUND IN 'STREET'

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—Reports extant in the "Street" that John J. Raskob had been selling stocks, are without foundation. At the Democratic leader's office such gossip is characterized as "bunk." Friends of Mr. Raskob intimate that his attitude toward the stock market is constructive.

Anent the increased activity in wall street at least one house is making plans to make up to its employes its most recent salary cut by paying them bonuses during the period of business activity.

One of the "Street's" leading bear operators is credited with selling approximately 15,000 shares of General Motors stock in the last couple of days.

There was a widespeard pointer to buy Stone and Webster this morning and the stock advanced on heavy buying. It was said, however, that the insiders are not sponsoring the advance.

Taking 15 acbounts in sizable totals in one brokerage house, which include stocks and bonds as collateral against marginal requirements, the potential buying possibilities of these accounts have increased 60 per cent in the last six weeks.

FINANCIERS O. K. 'MANIPULATED' RECOVERY

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12—As further steps toward a politically inspired "managed recovery" are taken, it is curious how the influential financial folk are more receptive to projects entailing manipulation than to fundamental correctives for the lack of economic balance.

Mr. Rukeyser

For example, proposals of regulatory schemes for bringing farm prices into parity with industrial prices are glibly characterized by the routine business leadership as "unsound," yet there is a disposition to acquiesce in the formation of a comodity pool to manipulate prices upward.

In the bag of tricks originating from Washington, there has been a recurrent disposition to put a better face on things, rather than to go to the roots of the trouble, and seek to make a fundamental correction.

If normal barter between the impoverished farmers and the factory workers in the cities could be resumed, through bringing the two price structures into parity, the roof would go off speculative prices. Until the purchasing power of the 8,000,000 farm workers is repaired through a relative advance in farm prices and until large portions of the 10,000,000 unemployed are recalled to productive work, the economic structure can scarcely be considered healthy.

One astute practical student of the problem thinks that wheat would have to go between $1.10 and $2, corn up to 80 cents, and cotton between 12 and 16 cents a pound before the country would justify its present capitalization, and prosper under it.

Apart from the recent stimulating rally in agricultural products, the parity was being approached through the slow process of economic attrition involved in a gradual recession of industrial prices. With farmers deprived of purchasing power, the factory workers, who depend on their patronage, were thrown on the streets without employment.

Forbes

Slice of Life
For All Faced
With Troubles

—By B. C. FORBES—

STERN FINANCIERS, busy businessmen, investors need not read this column. It contains not a word about economic conditions, not a word about crops or banking or industry or foreign exchange or securities or unemployment.

Mr. Forbes

It tells, in language as simple and graphic as that of the Bible, how conditions worse than those today, afflicting most Americans, were met by one family.

IT COMES from J. Kindleberger, well-knodn Kalamazoo paper manufacturer, who had to fight his way against more than the normal number of obstcles encountered by the average poor boy:

"There were six children. The oldest was 16; the youngest a babe in arms. Father's wages were $1 per day. About $5 weekly went to the corner saloon; but mother managed somehow to get the loose change left in his pockets.

"Now how did this great mother clothe and feed her children? There were no civic leagues, no charity associations, no doles in those days. One just had to help himself as best he could.

"On Saturday evenings, at 7:30 (I shall always remember the day and the hour), mother would take her large market basket and start for the market, which closed at 8. She always made it a point to get there just about 10 or 15 minutes before closing time. Then the farmers sold their last few potatoes and vegetables for a few pennies. She received an armful of soup bones for about 3 cents; a few loaves of old bread for 2 cents, and a package of coffee essence.

"Mother, too, suggested for the four older children literally hundreds of ways to make a nickel here and a dime there; such as cleaning up the backyards of the neighbors, running errands, getting kindling and coal, shining shoes, selling papers, picking up peach seeds out of the gutter. For these seeds we received 5 cents a quart at the old soldiers' home. The old soldiers made their beer money whittling out little trinkets from these peach seeds.

"Far into the night she would rip and cut and sew our clothes. When we complained a little about our hardships, she would say, 'well, we must do the best we can with what we have. Some day conditions will be better—and God always helps those who help themselves."

BLONDIE OF THE FOLLIES

From Which M. G. M. Has Made A Motion Picture Starring Marion Davies

By FRANCES MARION

CHAPTER XVII.

Blondie and Pratt were standing at the ship's bar. She had listened attentively as Pratt pompously told her about the boat, using his newly acquired nautical vocabulary. Now he was talking to her with a sleek gentleness.

"I think the Follies are very fortunate. You're a very decorative young lady . . ."

"I've been called a lot of things."

"And you start rehearsals for about three weeks, I suppose?" said Pratt, as he poured some champagne into their glasses.

"Yes—Mr. O'Brien—do you know him? He was great . . . gave me a couple of looks . . ."

"I don't blame him . . . I feel like looking at you myself," and Pratt's face moved in closer to her.

"I've never been on a yacht before . . ." said Blondie, quickly.

"I hope you're coming often. . . ." then raising his glass, "Drink up!"

"I had too much of this last night — oh-h-h-h!" exclaimed Blondie, taking her glass.

"The bubble of life!"

"The bubbles down your nose, you mean . . .," and they drank.

"Hello, Blondie!" Larry had approached unnoticed.

"Oh, Mr. Belmont!" said Blondie, trying to be cold.

"Okay!"

MR. PRATT ANNOYED

"Now—here's the bridge up here . . ." said Pratt, impatiently.

"What does she want to see the bridge for? . . . Just a lot of old compasses and charts . . . you don't want to see the bridge?" said Larry.

"Are you coming?" he asked Blondie.

"I want a word with this child," Larry said. "I'm an old friend of the family, eh, Blondie?"

"Are you kidding?" Pratt was annoyed.

"I wouldn't kid anyone, would I?"

"Not much!" said Blondie, as Pratt turned away in a huff.

"Listen, you — watch your step," said Larry seriously, when Pratt was out of earshot. "You're a nice kid . . . you think I wasn't on the level last night . . . I'm very fond of you, Blondie . . ."

"I mean decently . . . decently fond of you." Larry was very much in earnest now, and he spoke quickly. Blondie watched him closely.

"Let's be pals. Don't mess around with this sort of people —it doesn't mean anything."

"If it doesn't mean anything —what about you and Lurline?"

"That's over." Blondie looked at him angrily.

"Oh, I hate you! I wish I'd never met you!"

LURLINE ENTERS

"I told you—that's over!" Larry said emphatically.

"Since when?"

"Today!"

"Why?"

"I won't say it was because of you — because it wasn't altogether—but truthfully, last night decided me . . ." and Larry suddenly seized both her arms, looking her squarely in the eyes.

"Break!" They both turned at the sound of Lurline's voice. "What's the idea?" she asked.

"I'm going home," said Larry, glaring at her.

"What's keeping you . . . good night," said Lurline, sarcastically.

Larry started to reply, thought better of it, and stalked away, leaving the two girls alone.

"No?"

"You know—I don't want to like him—but I do . . ."

"Supposing I was through . . . emotionally Lurline was almost at the breaking point. ". . . supposing we were washed up—would you like him for yourself?" Lurline looked at Blondie narrowly.

"Lottie, don't be silly!"

"Come on—you can tell me."

"Well, I don't know . . ."

"Come on, we're pals. You can tell me . . ." Lurline cajoled.

"I tell you I don't know!" Blondie insisted.

BLONDIE SLAPPED

"I wouldn't get sore—tell me —we're pals!"

The answer turned loose all Lurline's pent-up emotion. Unable to control herself any longer, she slapped Blondie in the face.

"You dirty little double-crosser . . . don't you ever speak to me again!"

Blondie was stunned. For the first time in her life she was incapable of taking the challenge of battle. Standing perfectly still she watched Lurline hurry away.

In a rage, Lurline dropped into a deck chair near the accommodation ladder. She was so angry she failed to overhear Larry and Pratt talking quietly nearby.

"Why home?" asked Pratt.

"Tired," said Larry, noncommittal.

"You weren't very friendly just now."

"You won't get anywhere with that, kid—let me tell you that —good night!" and Larry turned away angrily.

As he passed Lurline she looked up.

"Good night, Larry," she said, brokenly. He looked down at her.

"I'll take care of that money thing in the morning. Good night!" and he went down the ladder.

"Good night!" called Lurline, just as Pratt stepped up.

"What's wrong with Larry?" he asked.

"Blonde trouble!" replied Lurline.

GIRLS APPROACH

"I thought so. What about her?"

"She's green! She'd bore the daylights out of a man with brains—like you," and Lurline looked up at him with her most captivating smile.

"I like to be bored by people like that—" The approach of several girls cut him short, and when they surrounded the yacht owner Lurline arose and went toward the bar.

Blondie was standing alone at the bar, draining a glass of champagne. She saw Lurline coming and started away.

"Listen, you sap—just one word—"

"Go away . . ."

"All right—see where you'll land—"

"Lurline, precious . . ." It was one of the Follies' pony girls. ". . . where did you find that charming little creature? . . . So blonde! . . . so cute . . . so energetic!"

"Shut up, you! She'll get hers!" raged Lurline.

If not thorough, the education offered by the Follies to its students is at least acquired quickly. From the moment she took her first dancing lesson Blondie absorbed the life of the show girl like a sponge. Always good looking, she became beautiful in the new environment. And her captivating personality made her the center of attraction in the gay life of the theatrical world.

IN DIVORCE SUIT

It was no time at all until her pictures graced the pages of every magazine, and she posed daily for pictures needed by newspaper tor their rotogravure sections. But the climax of all her publicity came when she was named in the divorce suit of Mrs. Mortimer Pratt. Immediately after that story was broadcast throughout the country, Blondie McClune of the Follies became the scandal readers' queen. Her popularity increased when they made the most of the fact that she came from the tenement district, and worked behind the odds and ends counter of a cheap department store, to grace the Broadway Follies. Everything she did and every word she said was printed widely and read avidly.

Blondie herself went through it all with an acquired grace. She made the best of every situation, neither losing her sense of balance nor her good humor. Her pent-house was beautiful and in good taste, she rode to the theater in her own limousine and her parties were the talk of the town.

But today there was a sense of uncertainty about Blondie as she walked into her luxurious drawing room, adjusting a huge pearl earring. Blondie was stunning in black velvet lounging pajamas as she joined the Locke Twins, those two dancing boys who had set Paris wild and were now making America dance-team-conscious.

"Pearls for tears," said Paul, as he handed her a glass of champagne.

"They're nice," said Albert. "Who's coming?"

"Lurline," replied Blondie.

"I thought you weren't speaking."

"We're not."

"Lurline's going wild these days . . . she looks a fright!" remarked Paul.

"She was with a new Butter-and-Eggs the other day at the Lido," chimed in Albert. "They say she has hocked most of her jewels."

"You must go now," said Blondie, irritably.

"Shall we see you later?" they chorused.

"Maybe," and Blondie rang for the maid.

"We'll call you later," they shouted as they went out.

The maid entered. Blondie turned to her and with quiet dignity ordered: "Some tea and toast—very nice—some champagne ready in case of an emergency. Send Andre in," and she glanced at the exquisitely jeweled watch on her wrist.

As the maid left, Blondie went over to the elaborate radio and turned on some dreamy music. As the chauffeur entered she said: "Take these up to my mother and be careful not to break them . . . and this note. You can take them around the park if they care to go. I won't need you until theater time. . . ."

When the chauffeur had departed with the packages, Blondie arranged some flowers in the Georgian silver vase on the grand piano. She stopped instantly when she heard the faint echo of the door bell.

"I am in to Mr. Belmont," she told the butler as he passed the drawing room door. An instant later she heard Larry's voice:

"Miss McClune . . ."

LARRY ARRIVES

"Yes, sir," Blondie heard the butler say, and then she slipped quickly into her bedroom preparatory to making a proper and effective entrance.

Larry strolled into the drawing room, and looking around appraised every article of the furnishings with an experienced eye. As he was doing this Blondie gave a final touch to her makeup at the dressing table, and entered the drawing room.

"I received your telegram and I came," said Larry, looking at her closely.

"That was very nice of you . . . will you sit down?"

"Yes, ma'am!" Larry was smiling at her newly acquired poise.

"I was reading your little advertisement in the paper this evening—too bad." Larry looked at her in frank disappointment, and then said sharply, "I have plenty to say to you, young lady."

"I've something to say, too—but there's someone coming, so if you don't mind being bored with me, I won't discuss it until they're here."

"Okay—"Got an evening paper?"

"Tea and the evening paper!" Blondie said to the butler, who had entered. Then to Larry, "it's three months now . . ."

"Since when?" he interrupted.

"Oh—yes—on the yacht."

"I haven't spoken to Lurline since then . . ."

"Neither have I!"

DISCUSS MARKET

"I should hope not! You should be very grateful to her . . . she introduced you to the larger life!"

"I am grateful to her."

"Well, that's that . . ." and Larry took the paper from the butler, who was fixing the tea things, and opened it. "The market's going crazy these days . . ." he said, as he scanned the financial page.

"Good for the bears though. I sold short today."

"You're getting wise!"

"I have always been wise."

"Yes, I think you have," and there was a mocking tone in Larry's voice as he glanced around the room. Blondie, busy at the tea table now, pretended not to notice the sneer.

"Sugar?" she asked.

"One!"

"Cream?"

"Lord, no!"

"Toast?"

"Is it cinnamon?"

"I think so!"

"What do you mean—you think so . . . I can smell it from here . . ."

"The customer's always right . . ." and Blondie passed him the tea and toast.

"Say, I haven't very long," said Larry, impetuously. "What's on your mind . . ."

Grantland Orders Madge to Burn Her Gown

Lillian kept her promise to Hugh Grantland that she would take care of me, almost too well to suit me. When Katie had brought a complete fresh outfit of clothing for me from my room, Lillian assisted me in taking off the things I had on and then washed my face, neck, arms and hands in the antiseptic Hugh had suggested. So vigorously did she scour me that I protested.

"Ouch! You're taking the skin off," I said.

Lillian grinned impishly.

"I haven't had a chance at you for a long, long time," she said, "so keep in your stall."

"I wonder why Hugh insisted upon all this nonsense anyway," I could not keep the petulance out of my voice. "I don't want to burn this gown and these shoes."

"Well! You'll have to," Lillian's tone held finality. "Lucky that's an old frock you wore tonight. It would have to go anyway if it had come from the shop yesterday."

"But why," I persisted.

Lillian dried the back of my neck deftly with a soft towel, then nodded.

"You'll do, now," she said.

MADGE PRECAUTIOUS

"Get into your clothes and doll up. If you use your cold cream liberally your skin won't be irritated, even if I did use up a lot of elbow grease in applying the disinfectant."

I dressed and moved towards the shelf where Katie had placed my cosmetics.

Lillian was wrapping my discarded clothing and shoes in newspapers as she spoke. Then she washed her hands thoroughly in an antiseptic solution and dried them.

"I'll cold cream them when I get upstairs," she said. "Where's the kerosene can?"

I indicated the small oil can that Katie always keeps in the laundry, and with the parcel of clothing under one arm, she stooped for the can. But I was too quick for her, and we moved softly out of the door to the "back yard," an enclosed space where are located the incinerator and the ash and garbage cans, those necessary though sordid details of a farm household. We had moved but a few steps from the porch, however, before a figure advanced toward us, and Jim's voice said:

"Was there anything you wanted, Mis' Graham?"

There was more than the question in his tone. Finality and decision were in his voice and Lillian laughed softly.

"Orders are that we shall not get more than five feet from the back door, eh, Jim?" she asked.

"That's what Mr. Spencer said before he went up to lie down," Jim replied, and I caught at Lillian's arm in sudden fear. In my anxiety over possible danger for Dicky in the expedition, and my excitement over Hugh's arrival, I actually had not noticed my father's absence from the kitchen either before the departure of Harry and Dicky, or after their return with Hugh Grantland, Lee Chow and the two trussed Chinamen.

"Is he ill?" I asked tremulously.

"No, no," Lillian said before Jim could answer. "He's simply conserving his strength, as a commanding officer should. He's probably in the kitchen now. Here, Jim!"—she put the paper wrapped package of clothing into his hands. "Don't unwrap that. Put it in the incinerator, pour kerosene over it—give him the can, Madge, please—and be sure that it is burned to ashes. Wash your hands in an antiseptic solution afterward. Katie will fix you up one. Do it right away, can you?"

KNOCK AT DOOR

"Yes," Jim answered—"If you and Mrs. Graham will go back into the house."

His tone was worried, and I saw that he held himself personally responsible for our safety. I spoke quickly, reassuringly.

"Please lock that door as you go in," was Jim's only response, and when we had obeyed his request, Lillian and I looked at each other.

"What next?" I asked petulantly. "Are we to be interned here all night?"

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

Wilkinsburg's Rowland Theater chapter of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club had, not only one of the largest meetings in its history, but one of the "peppiest" last Saturday. More than 400 members attended and they all had a corking good time.

Mildred Rotthoff, assistant cashier of the theater, long ago won her way into the hearts of the Komic Club boys and girls. She again opened the meeting and as a result the session was full of pep and enthusiasm. The theater fairly rang with the lusty voices of these happy children as they sang "Potatoes Are Cheaper," "Shine on Harvest Moon," "Walkin' My Baby Back Home" and other popular melodies of the day. The Rowland Orchestra, now numbering 28 members, played several numbers and Marian Sasse was given a mushball and Margaret Anderson a sun-shade hat in one of the contests.

BARGAIN DAY SUNDAY

In the meantime Betty Haslette had taken charge as mistress of ceremonies, announcing all of the acts, including a song and dance by Mary Chafrer, acrobatic dance by Audrey Walters, song and tap dance by Betty Shumaker, song and toe dance by Loraine Tedesco and a song and tap dance by Ilene and Mary Margaret.

Sunday is going to be "bargain day" for "Lucky Bucks." In the comic weekly of the Sunday Sun-Telegraph, there will appear a double supply—enough to add 20 "bucks" to each of the bankrolls the boys and girls of Pittsburgh and vicinity are saving to spend at Kennywood on "Lucky Buck Day," Friday, August 26.

The kiddies of Pittsburgh, particularly the Komic Club members, are all excited about this special day at Kennywood when "Lucky Bucks" will be accepted, just the same as cash, for the rides and amusement devices.

There is one man among the athletes competing in the Olympic Games who stands apart, and looks wistfully toward the mountains when the band strikes up this or that national anthem. Asked his name and what contest he intended to enter, he only replied, in a strange tongue, "What does it matter?" He is the Man Without a Country, and the above picture shows him as he marched in the parade of Flags of All Nations. "Where were you born?" snapped a kindly old lady, after he had been denied a chance to participate in the eight oared rowing races. Putting Them on Record

The Harris Resolution for a Public Utilities Quiz, Even If Defeated, Will Prove Useful.

Senator Frank J. Harris, one member of the State Senate who does not dodge responsibility, has introduced a resolution calling for an investigation of the relationship existing between members of the Public Service Commission and the public utilities companies.

In view of the evidence that W. D. B. Ainey, as chairman of the Public Service Commission, accepted financial favors from public utilities officials, it is difficult to see how the Senate can fail to pass either the Harris resolution or a similar one.

The Senate has shown no liking for the task, however. It evinced a disposition, after Ainey resigned, to drop the whole business, and it has required vigorous prodding by Gov. Pinchot to revive the subject. There is gossip to the effect that the proposed investigation has possibilities that may be unpleasant for the state Republican organization.

Whatever may be the reason, there is no gainsaying that the Senate has no relish for its duty, and it is not incredible that it will seek some specious excuse for shirking it.

The Harris resolution, even if defeated, will serve a useful purpose nevertheless. It will place the individual Senators on record and thus enable their constituents to deal with them properly when they present themselves for re-election.

Fewer Auto Fatalities

The Better Traffic Committee Offers Strong Justification for Retention of Bureau.

Mayor Kline announces that the city's financial crisis will be met by making every person on the payroll take a month off without pay. This, he says, will save the city $1,469,000, or $200,000 more than was necessary to keep expenditures within income.

Citizens will note with satisfaction Kline's promise to forfeit a month's pay himself. Members of Council will be expected to make the sacrifice.

In view of the saving that is to be effected by the furlough arrangement, there is presumably no likelihood of the adoption of the economy plan of the businessmen's committee headed by A. E. Braun.

One of the items in the businessmen's program was the elimination of the Bureau of Traffic Planning. The Better Traffic Committee has compiled a report of the work done by the bureau, which offers strong justification for its retention.

Particularly impressive is the reduction in automobile fatalities in Pittsburgh since the bureau inaugurated its safety campaign. While fatal motor accidents have increased elsewhere they have decreased here. It is stated that if the ratio of child traffic fatalities to adult traffic fatalities that existed in 1924, when the Better Traffic Committee was organized, had continued, 150 additional children would now be dead.

If the spending of money on the Traffic Planning Bureau will save children's lives, it would not only be false economy but a crime to save the money by abolishing the bureau and letting the children be killed.

In Wild Pennsylvania

The State Department of Public Instruction reports that the pupils in 27 one-room public schools in the mountain fastnesses of seven of the northern counties are enjoying no vacation this summer, but are going to their classes daily.

The causes of this unusual situation offer an illuminating commentary on the wildness of certain parts of Pennsylvania.

The schools are in isolated and sparsely settled sections where the roads are impassable in winter. One, the Crowell School in Ulysses Township, Potter County, has only seven pupils. It is difficult or impossible for some of the pupils to reach the schools when there is heavy snow, and it is hard to get teachers in winter, except at prohibitive salaries, because contact with the outside world is cut off.

So the schools suspend sessions between Thanksgiving and the first of April and run all summer instead.

It is well for the dwellers in Pennsylvania's large cities to know that in parts of the state the conditions of the primitive wilderness still exist.

Straw Votes

In Two Reading Fire Engine Houses Not a Single Hoover Supporter Is Found.

The Reading (Pa.) Times, which is conducting a straw vote in that city, reports that in two fire engine houses canvassed Tuesday not a single vote was cast for Hoover.

The Reading paper's totals show: Roosevelt and Garner, 1,573; Thomas and Maurer, 479; Hoover and Curtis, 291, and Foster and Ford, 15.

The figures may or may not be prophetic; they are certainly interesting and significant.

Sun-Telegraph readers soon will be presented with the results of a careful and comprehensive presidential poll conducted in co-operation with all the other Hearst newspapers throughout the United States. First returns from the more than 3,500,000 postcard ballots being sent to voters will be published Sunday.

There are some surprises in store.

Protecting the Public

The County Bureau of Weights and Measures Has Been Doing Good Work.

There is satisfaction in the thought that while a dishonest merchant or huckster may occasionally cheat a customer through a false weighing or measuring device it cannot be continued as a steady practice. Before long an official inspector will be along to test the device.

These reflections are prompted by a report on the work done by the County Bureau of Weights and Measures. Under the direction of Urban E. Dice, 72,228 inspections were made throughout the county during the first six months of the year. A large number of weights and measures were found deficient and 5,980 were condemned.

People can aid in this service, as Mr. Dice says, by reporting to the bureau cases of what they believe to be false weight or measurement.

Marry-Go-Round

Mrs. Solomon Says—

My Daughter, hear now the Miserere of a Summertime Cynic.

* * *

For, behold, a summer resort is a place where a damsel will resort to ANYTHING for amusement; and where a man will resort to anything for an escape from boredom.

Lo, one man arriveth, and another departeth; yet there are never enough dance partners to go around, and unattached men are scarcer than pearls in the oysters.

Ears have returned to view and waistlines are in vogue again; but the reducing diet still mortifieth the flesh, and the battle to keep down the hips is as tireless as ever.

The moon shineth upon the water and glorifyeth the world, making any man in evening clothes to resemble a Prince Charming. But when a damsel beholdeth him, next morning, in a bathing suit, he is a Total Stranger.

* * *

The summer bungalow offereth a retreat from the world. But the world soon beateth a path to its door—and of the finding of guest-towels and feeding of the play-seekers, there is no end!

* * *

The widows and matrons set snares for the young and eligible men; and the flappers must be content with the middle-aged and ineligible. The blondes live in the fear of fading hair and freckles—and the brunettes live in the fear of the blondes!

Go to, go to! In the spring, all things seemed NEW and promising. But by mid-August, all is ennui and tedium and lassitude. And life is just a Bowl of Raspberries!

One woman's bathing suit is as faded as another's—and one man's line is as tiresome as another's.

One man's chin is a rough as another's—and one man's lies are as smooth as another's.

One man's kisses are as automatic as another's—and one man's alibis are as old as another's.

* * *

And there is no thrill under the sun, save the gladsome thought that the Gay Vacation Days will soon be OVER.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Aug. 12. — Thoughts while strolling: 1932 definition of a gentleman—a man who gives his seat on a bar stool to a lady. They say Willie and Eugene Howard were never in a night club. Kate Cross' beadbright eyes. What became of Frederic and Fanny Hatton?

Lawrence Tibbett somehow suggests a stooge to me. Mrs. H. L. Mencken is a ringer for Katherine Brush. The next step in The Great American Gyp for investors is the receivership racket. They'll take what is left. Ralph Barton's brother, Homer—an actor. Sophisticated magazines flounder.

What happened to all those crooked magistrates? Al Smith and Will Rogers have noses alike. One of my favorite people—Earl Benham. Theaters for rent for a song. But no one even feels like singing it. One word description of Ann Pennington — Japanesey. Ray Long and Lionel Barrymore talk alike.

Maj. Edward Bowes, a San Francisco, Cal., boy, who made good in the city. Whenever an auto bears down on me, the horizon takes on the shimmer of wheat. Overheard: "What I need is a huge jolt of terribly rude liquor." Well-dressed actors straining against oblivion.

Wish some newspaper would start an "Agony Column." Like that in the London Times. Filled with such personalities as: "Maggie—I'm shipping from Liverpool. I'll be a better boy when I come back. Keep away from the toff—Tim." Nobody can deliver a toast so gracefully as Dudley Field Malone.

And few toasts equal Kipling's: "My lords, ladies and gentlemen. For what there is of it—for such as it is—and for what it may be worth—will you drink to England and the English?" Suggestion to Beau Nash of the theater program: "What the undressed man will wear!"

There are many speculations as to why scrappy John McGraw quit baseball—ill health, age, etc. The truth is, he got out because modern players refuse to go to bed at 11 o'clock, nor will they stand for sizzling bawling-outs. McGraw's white hair saved him from roughage in the last few years.

Always, in passing the north side of the Astor, I think of Kid Griffo and that unsightly ear in complete cauliflower. He hung out there in final days. The last time I saw him he was stimulated by drink, shadow-boxing in a dusty chiffon of light for passersby—battered, grimy, beaten. Cops looked the other way. A tragic end for perhaps the cleverest boxer of all time.

Scrivener stuff: Peter B. Kyne has a stable of six race horses . . . A biography of Booth Tarkington, including all the Montparnasse and Fifth avenue low-necked hack capers, is being prepared . . . O. B. Winters, advertising chief, has a weekly in Centerville, Md., for a hobby . . . Samuel Hopkins Adams, who as Warner Fabian pens tales of modern sophistication, has always lived in country fashion in the rural district of Auburn, N. Y., where he was born . . . Verne Porter has a country home without a telephone, electricity or plumbing, near Elkton, Md. . . . Noel Coward buys 100 dress shirts at a clip . . . Christopher Morley is always photographed with a pipe.

A parlor prestidigateur was executing astonishing feats of magic at Arthur William Brown's studio party. He plucked flowers, guineapigs and whatnot out of the air, handed members of his audience cocktails and goblets of wine, shaken out of their own handkerchiefs, and wound up extracting a wiggling goldfish from a lady's hair. When the applause subsided, James Montgomery Flagg, from a faraway corner, inquired: "Could you weave us a Panama hat under water?"

In the film version of "Red Headed Woman," the opening observation, a bit contradictory, is that gentlemen prefer blondes. The screen version, my program told me, was by Anita Loos, who authored the famous volume stressing that popular pronouncement. Anyway, I remarked to a companion that no mediocre book had been so whirled to auspicious success by the sheer grip of an arresting title, i. e., "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes." In doing so, I learned the title was an editor's. It was turned out originally as "The Dairy of a Professional Lady." A meow has crept into this, but that was not the intention. It's just the way it is.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

I have discovered this secret: PEOPLE WILL DO ANYTHING FOR YOU IF YOU BELIEVE IN THEM.

Any kind of people, all kinds of people, will do anything, even perform seeming miracles for you—if you believe in them.

BUT YOU MUST REALLY BELIEVE IN THEM. AND SUCH BELIEF IS A RARE, ALMOST AN IMPOSSIBLE THING FOR ONE HUMAN BEING TO FEEL TOWARD ANOTHER.

We say we believe in people, but we don't; not really.

WE ONLY BELIEVE IN OTHER PEOPLE WHEN THEY DO WHAT WE THINK THEY SHOULD DO; WHEN THEY FIT OUR PET PATTERN OF BEHAVIOR. OUR "BELIEF" IN THEM STOPS THE INSTANT THEY DEPART FROM THAT PATTERN OF BEHAVIOR AND INSIST ON FOLLOWING THEIR OWN PATTERN.

For example, there's that wild daughter of the Jones'. All the people you know are talking about her; telling how she comes home drunk; how she runs around with worthless men. Everyone says she has gone to the dogs.

But something in that defiant young face, in those rebellious eyes, challenges your imagination and touches your heart. You say "I believe in that girl."

You honestly think you mean that. You think you're taking that girl's side, against the world. But are you? What do you really mean when you say—"I believe in her."

Do you mean that you believe in her, regardless? That you'll keep on believing that there is something fine and brave and true in her, even though she remains drunken and wanton all her life and dies in the gutter? Would you still bet on her and stick by her if she did that? Would you believe in the goodness in her, AS SHE BELIEVES IN THE GOODNESS IN HERSELF, IN SPITE OF EVERYTHING SHE MAY DO?

What you really mean is that you believe she is going to be what you think a nice girl should be. You think that some day she will stop drinking and chasing and settle down and be a good wife and mother, steady and sweet and serene. And if she doesn't, then you'll shrug your shoulders and say to the neighbors:

"You were right, and I was wrong. She's no good!"

But that's not "belief!" That's merely wanting to have your own way with another spirit.

If you believe—REALLY BELIEVE—in a person, you must accept that person as is. You may not like nor approve of him as is. His acts may be contrary to all your notions and yet you'll have faith in him regardless of those acts. Of all persons you believe in, you'll believe that they want to be honest, even when they're lying; that they want to be pure, even when they're wallowing; that they want to be brave, even when they're two-timing themselves and the world.

FOR THE TRUTH IS THEY DO! THAT IS THE DEEPEST AND LOVELIEST MYSTERY OF THE HUMAN HEART. AND IF YOU CAN ONCE GRASP THAT MYSTERY AND BELIEVE IN PEOPLE REGARDLESS, THEY'LL DO ANYTHING FOR YOU, OUT OF GRATITUDE AND PRIDE.

THEY'LL EVEN CHANGE THEMSELVES—IF YOU WILL BELIEVE IN THEM DEEP ENOUGH, AND LONG ENOUGH, AND HARD ENOUGH.

I know. For once there was someone who believed in me like that, when all the world was against me.

A Little Comedy Now History

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

Always when times are hard and men are unemployed in numbers the tendency of the people is to turn on those in power—unless there is leadership in those in power working for the good of the people. Thus, when Andrew Jackson made his fight against the national bank, then the "money power," and the bank and its dependents did all within their power—and it was great—to bring suffering on the masses, the people saw through the ruse and stood by Jackson.

If the Democrats today thought as little of the good of the country as the Whigs did in the 1830's they would be whipping the people into a hysteria against the administration. And it would be no more than the Republicans did at the time of the panic of 1893, though this panic was on the way when Harrison gave up his office.

The hysteria the Whigs sought in Jackson's time had a practical purpose. It was to persuade the people that the rechartering of the bank was necessary to the restoration of good times; that Jackson's fight against an embryo plutocracy was depriving men of work and profits. To do this the money power resorted to extraordinary methods.

Comedy in the Proceedings

In every nook and corner it subsidized men to peddle petitions pleading pitifully for a recharter in the "interest of humanity." It developed later that great numbers of the names signed were bogus. Also that many business men, depending on credit, were coerced into signing. These petitions were sometimes sent by mail. More frequently they were taken to Washington by a delegation—the expenses of which were paid by the bank.

Reaching Washington, these delegations all followed the same course. They would find a bank Senator to present the petition in the Senate, making it the occasion for a pathetic appeal. Next, they would go to the White House to plead with the hard-hearted Jackson to do something for the suffering people—by yielding to the domination of the bank.

Because everyone in Washington knew precisely how these petitions were secured and who paid the expenses of the delegations, there were numerous elements of comedy in the proceedings.

Destroyed Clay's Play-Acting

Thus once, when Van Buren, the Vice President, slated for the succession, was in the chair, Henry Clay, who was hoping to defeat him as a Whig, rose, dripping with pathos, to plead for the unfortunate victims of Jackson's stubbornness. As only he could, he painted a touching picture of the poor in dire distress. It was really a fine piece of rhetorical eloquence. The purpose of Clay was to turn popular wrath on Van Buren as partly responsible for the distress. Toward the close of the lugubrious recital, which evefyone knew was insincere, Clay appealed directly to Van Buren, begging him, because of his "well-known influence" with Jackson, to go to the White House and personally appeal to Jackson to change his policy for the sake of the suffering nation.

It was such a strange spectacle, and was done so dramatically, that every eye in the chamber was fixed on Van Buren, and Clay was such a master of histrionics that not a few eyes were moist.

Van Buren, suave, looking deeply interested, but not embarrassed in the least, looked directly into Clay's eyes as though treasuring up every word he was to say to Jackson. Clay, as though overcome by his emotions, sank into his seat.

Whereupon Van Buren called a Senator to the chair, descended to the center aisle, with every eye upon him in the dead silence, walked slowly toward Clay, who was a bit nonplussed, and, reaching his desk and bowing with Chesterfieldian grace, asked the great Kentuckian for a "pinch of your incomparable snuff!"

There was nothing for Clay to do but offer his box. With great deliberation Van Buren daintily took a pinch, applied it to his nostrils, returned the box with another courtly bow and slowly reascended to the chair.

For a moment longer there was dead silence, and then everyone burst into laughter, and the effect of the play-acting of Clay had been destroyed.

Crazy as a March Hare

Reading the anti-Jackson historians one finds much about the "raving" of Jackson when these bank delegations called at the White House. He is described as raving and ranting and all but beside himself with fury in his denunciation of the bank.

Nine times out of ten this, too, was play-acting.

Henry A. Wise, of Virginia, a political opponent, has done Jackson the justice to relate the story.

One day a delegation called, but before the spokesman could get set for his pathetic appeal old Jackson broke in with seeming fury, telling the delegation to go to the bank for relief. So terrible was his apparent anger that the delegation quailed before the old man's frown and as speedily as possible beat a retreat to tell about the bars of the town that Jackson was crazy as a March hare.

It was immediately after the departure of this delegation that Wise entered the room.

Jackson Not in The Least Alarmed

He found old Jackson seated in his chair, roaring with laughter, and slapping his knee with glee, while tears of joy coursed down his old cheeks.

"They thought me mad, Wise," he exclaimed, 'they must have thought me mad. Well, I can do as good play-acting as any man when the stage is set."

No one was ever better served than Jackson and he knew the entire story of the petitions and delegations. His own organization in the community whence they came saw to that. He was not in the lease alarmed, for he knew the people were with him and understood the part the bank was playing to coerce them into striking hands with their enemy against Jackson. The delegations at first angered him—because he knew. But as they continued to appear, with bank money in their pockets, the old man saw the comedy side, just as Van Buren had in the case of the Clay appeal, and made the most of it.

Andrew Jackson never so completely lost his head that he did not know precisely what he was doing.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

Are you keeping young in a dignified way or do you act foolish in your efforts to be gay?

Many old fellows insist that they don't feel any older than they did 30 years ago.

Endeavoring to make this assertion good they try to do things that only a young person should do.

They try to force their society on those much younger and often are tolerated because of their liberal spending.
